CHIEF RANDLETT DEAD

Head of Fire Department For Thirty Years Dies After Short Illness

Chief of Fire Department Walter B. Randlett died on Monday afternoon, following an illness of about two weeks, the cause of death being dilation of the heart. The Chief inhaled some ammonia gas when the Fire Department was called to the Newton Provision Co. store in Nonantum square some four weeks ago by the explosion of the refrigerating plant. At the Newton Club fire two weeks ago, he had an attack of indigestion following a late supper, after the fire had been extinguished and these were contributing causes to his death.

He was born in East Milton in 1853. As a young man he learned the trade of electrician, and he also had been engaged in the grocery business. Before he was 20, he was a call man on the Milton Fire Department, later becoming assistant engineer. It was through his efforts that the town installed a signal system. In 1877 he was elected to the Milton Board of Fire Engineers, later becoming assistant chief and chief.

In 1884 he was called to Newton as superintendent of the fire alarm system. On March 16, 1885, he became assistant chief, and following the death of Chief Henry Bixby in an accident in 1894, Mr. Randlett was made chief of the department. At that time there were 14 regular men in the department; there are now 79. The department is completely motorized and Chief Randlett had always been given the honor of being the first man to use an automobile for fire-fighting purposes. In 1903, when the Stanleys were building the first steamers, Chief Randlett purchased a steam carriage, equipped it with fire extinguishers, and Newton had the first piece of motor apparatus in the world.

During the 39 years Mr. Randlett was chief there was but one fire that assumed serious proportions in the city, the blaze that destroyed the C. I. Travelli mansion on West Newton hill, with a loss of $100,000. There have been other fires where damage amounted to $30,000, but in proportion to other cities of the same size Newton's record with insurance companies and in fire department circles is one of the best.

Chief Randlett was a member of Dorchester Lodge, I. O. O. F., Dalhousie Lodge, A. F. & A. M.; Massachusetts Fire Chief's Association, International Association of Fire Engineers and New England Electrical Inspectors' Association.

He is survived by his widow, two sons, Capt. Clarence W. Randlett of the Newton Fire Department and Walter G. Randlett of Kirkland, Wash., and a daughter, Mrs. William Ness of Newton Highlands.

The funeral services yesterday afternoon were held at Trinity Church, Newton Centre and were attended by

SUCCESSFUL MARDI GRAS

The children of St. Paul's Church School (Episcopal) Newton Highlands held their annual Mardi Gras party on Tuesday evening, in Lincoln Hall. Accompanied by their court, their majesties, the King and Queen of the Mardi Gras arrived at seven-thirty o'clock and were enthroned upon a beautifully arranged stage where they received the homage of their subjects. The following comprised the Court:—

King, Howard Fry; Queen, Kathryn Smith; Lords to the King, Earl Banner, James McCormack; Ladies to the Queen, Ada Daniels, Adele Moore, Emily Mason, Marjorie Frolich; Train Bearers to King, Emmons Brown, Francis Gardner; Train Bearers to Queen, Marjorie Ernst, Virginia Kapp; Trumpeters, Grace Thompson, Louise Hawkes; Jester, Bradford Riley; Gold Sticks to the King, Harlan Newell; to the Queen, Harry Tapper.

A handsomely decorated hall was crowded with the parents and friends of the school. There were between three and four hundred children and young people masked and in costume. Living Flowers, Characters from Mother Goose, Indians, Clowns, Chinese, Mexicans, Peasants, Lords and Ladies and many others were there. Prizes were given for a very handsome Mah Jong costume worn by Miss Constance Mason and to Paul Firestone for a comical negro character, to Warren Reed, Jr., who was a tiny Brownie and to Carolyn Newell, a wee little girl who was a pink Rosebud. Folk dances by groups of children under direction of Miss Helen Newell and solo dances by Edna Mitchell, Lois Woodworth, Louise Hawkes and Theodora Jones were done between the general dances and there was a wonderful Kazoo March in which the best child was the one who blew the loudest. During the evening the Rev. Charles O. Farrar, the new rector of the parish, at the request of the King, said a few words to the people. After refreshments were served the court retired and general dancing continued. The affair was under the direction of Mr. Alonzo A. Cole, the superintendent of the school.

TWO ACCIDENTS

Miss Mary McKennon, a domestic employed at 121 Homer street, Newton Centre, was found Wednesday lying in the snow, unable to arise because of a sprained ankle, sustained when she slipped on the ice near her home.

The second school boy to be struck in Newton Centre within a week by an automobile was hit Wednesday afternoon on Centre street, near Crescent avenue, while on the way to the Sacred Heart Parochial School. Joseph Leahy, 7, the son of Thomas M. Leahy, 18 Aberdeen street, Newton Highlands, descended from a one-man car at Crescent street and walked around the front of the car. An automobile going in the same direction as the street car, owned and operated by Joseph J. Komaskiewicz of 35 High street, Newton Upper Falls, struck the boy as he stepped out into Centre street, from the street car. The boy was knocked down and he received a broken leg and numerous body bruises. He was treated by Dr. Leonard, who ordered him removed to the Newton Hospital.

BOY KILLED

Frederick Brennan, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel W. Brennan of 40 Westbourne road, Newton Centre, while crossing Commonwealth avenue on his way from school Friday noon was struck by an automobile owned by Henry Macomber of Broadway, Chelsea. He was struck on the head. He was taken to the Newton Hospital, where he died shortly before 2 o'clock.

According to the eye witnesses of the accident the boy, one of the first of the children in the neighborhood to come home from school, stepped out from behind a large truck which was stopped in front of a grocery store on the avenue into the path of the large sedan driven by Henry Macomber, who was going in a westerly direction. Macomber was traveling at a moderate rate of speed through this section and came to a quick stop.

James Giles of Warren street, Newton Centre, who was standing nearby, ran out and picked the little boy up. The boy was severely cut about the head, and Macomber, as soon as he learned of the direction of the hospital, started with the boy and Giles. The residents of this section of Newton Centre have long wanted a traffic officer here during the hours the children are passing. Many parents and nursemaids meet the children at this point, rather than let them cross the street unaccompanied.

MEMORIAL HOSPITAL AT RHEIMS, FRANCE

Newton may well be proud of the part she has played in the erection of the Memorial Hospital at Rheims, France. This hospital will have a capacity of one hundred beds, ninety-eight of which have already been endowed.

Through bridge and Mah Jong parties, aside from individual contributions, Newton has given as follows: Auburndale, $112.50; Chestnut Hill, $499.00; Newton, $145.00; Newton Centre, $78.00; Newtonville, $150.00; and West Newton, $240.00, making a total for the Newtons of $1224.50.

BRAE BURN CLUB

There will be a dinner dance at the Brae Burn Club today.

The Annual Meeting of the Brae Burn Club took place on Wednesday night.

There will be a concert at the Brae Burn Club on Sunday from four until six.

HUNNEWELL CLUB

Mr. T. H. Martin of Tacoma, Wash., gave a most interesting talk last Friday evening on Mt. Rainier and its national park. The talk was illustrated with splendid stereoscopic views. Refreshments followed. Mrs. Arthur W. Blakemore and Mrs. Frank P. Scofield pouring.

THE 1924 BUDGET

Mayor Childs Approves Nearly $3,400,000 For City Expenses For Present Year. Many Salaries Increased

Mayor Childs submitted the 1924 budget to the board of aldermen last Monday evening. He has received estimates from the various city departments aggregating $3,445,397, and recommends a total of $3,393,306, which is about $171,000 more than the budget for 1923.

The increases are in the Treasury, Engineering, Buildings, Police, Fire, Health, Library, School, Playground and Street departments. The Charity Department is unique in showing a reduction of some $2,500 in expense, largely in the item for Mothers Aid. The increase in the Treasury Department is due to the larger amount needed for serial bonds and interest on Temporary loans.

The Buildings department asks for $109,075 for maintenance of school buildings of which the mayor approves $92,000. This is a tremendous advance of last year when but $25,138 was appropriated. The maintenance of other buildings doubles jumping from $17,450 last year to $35,325 for 1924. In view of the fact that this department has been in charge of an acting Commissioner for the past year, it is interesting to note that the mayor changes the salary item from "Acting Commissioner" to "Commissioner," possibly indicating that the Mayor intends to obey the ordinance governing that department.

Large increases are made in the Police and Fire departments due to the increased pay which went into effect just prior to the city election last December. The mayor recommends 10 new policemen and 4 new firemen.

The Library department receives

$5,000 additional for new books.

The School department continues to increase its expenses by leaps and bounds. The total this year is $978,949, as compared with $937,538 last year. It is interesting to note that while salaries in the regular schools increase some $45,000 in total, salaries in the Vocational schools actually show a decrease of $6,000.

The Playground department makes a modest request of $116,061 as against $67,237 expended last year. This is mostly in the item for new construction, which is $44,750 as compared with $9,200 last year. The mayor approves $89,661 making the cut in the construction item.

The Street department receives $138,000 for street maintenance, or $58,000 over last year and also increases its Sidewalk item from $24,000 to over $37,000. Asphes will cost $56,000 this year as compared with $49,500 in 1923. The mild winter is reflected in the snow and ice item which drops from $70,000 in 1923 to $45,000 this year. Street lighting costs $10,000 more, with a total of $92,000, while Moth work drops from $28,000 to $20,000.

The Water department will cost $182,712, a drop of some $13,000 from 1923.

The Mayor is always liberal with salaries and has approved increases for the Controller, the city treasurer, the assessors, city solicitor, city clerk, city messenger, sealer of weights and measures, chairman of the board of health, overseer of the poor, librarian, superintendent of the playgrounds, street commissioner, and water commissioner.

It is necessary to look far ahead in drawing a will which may not become effective for many years.

Time and events may bring about occasions making it necessary to change your will or add codicils to it. This can be done at any time.

An experienced attorney, in drawing your will, can suggest ways of providing for future contingencies. SCHOOL NOTES

Edited by DOROTHY DRAKE

Albert Edgar Angier School

Donald McMullin is the class artist of grade seven, and Arthur Chamberlain of grade eight. The school is justly proud of boys with such ability. The success of our savings department is due to the work of Margery Whitaker of the eighth grade. Margery is constantly thinking of some way to increase the savings of the Angier School. Especially high commendation has come to us from the Bank at Newton Centre, on the accuracy of her work and her businesslike manner in the bank.

Thursday afternoon, of last week, the Angier basketball team played the Brooks School of Medford. The game was won by the Angier team with a score of 10-0. Owing to the good advertising done by Arthur Chamberlain, Donald Bliss, Kilburn Adams and Gilbert Adams there were about one hundred and fifty to see the game. The girls of the seventh and eighth grades sold popcorn. About twenty dollars was cleared from the sale of the popcorn and admission. The team is grateful to the school for the fine support given and to Rena Spain and Jimmie Marsh the cheer leaders.

This week the first and second grades in Mrs. Benson's room are the proud possessors of the Attendance Banner. The second grade had been entitled to that honor before but had to wait until the first grade had a better record. Now all are happy.

The lecture and moving pictures by the Mass. Forestry Association, which were given last week, were much enjoyed by all. The compositions written this week by the seventh grade showed that they were much interested and received some valuable instruction. The pupils are very grateful to the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs for this treat.

Donald Houghton, athletic director at the school, is much pleased with the way that Arthur Chamberlain, an eighth grade boy, is doing in all his athletic work. Arthur was the star of the football team, which won eight out of the eight games played, and this winner is playing on both the hockey and basketball teams. The coach is hoping that he will earn a place on the baseball team this spring, thus making him a "four letter boy" at the school.

an honor few boys will possess. Besides being excellent in athletics he also has high rank in his studies, making him an all around Angier school boy.

Horace Mann School

Last Friday moving pictures were shown to the fourth, fifth and sixth grades. These were very entertaining and instructive, giving a vivid presentation of the enemies of forests and of the value and conservation of forests. There were pictures of the lumber industry, state forests with public camps and playgrounds, the forest's enemies of which fire is the worst, and the planting and growing of trees in nurseries and various towns of Massachusetts. Songs were sung by the fifth and sixth grade pupils and much appreciated by the rest of the audience. Some of the children are also enjoying the weekly moving pictures at the Junior High School.

Quite a number of our children are receiving the Schick test. A fairly large percentage of them are not susceptible to diphtheria. Milk lunches are being taken this week by forty-one per cent of the school.

F. A. Day Jr. High School

A representative of the State Forestry Department gave an illustrated lecture on forest preservation to the school Thursday morning. There were two reels of moving pictures of forestry work now being done by the state. There were also shown the results of carelessness and disobedience of law by pictures of fires and ruins of wood-lots, villages and forests destroyed by fire.

Wednesday morning, the Ninth Grade Science Club was in charge of a moving picture depicting the growth of the transportation methods in the United States.

The girls' basketball team hopes for a victory in its return game with Wellesley Jr. High, Monday afternoon. Wellesley won the first game, 21-20.

The concert given by the Boston Orchestral Club was enjoyed by a capacity audience which very enthusiastically showed its appreciation of the efforts of the club. The program was a carefully planned one and enjoyed by all.

The moving picture for next week is "Seeing Hawaii on American Pluck."

IX F in Social Studies with Miss

Schick is studying the evolution of communication. IX D is studying transportation, the development of land, water and air methods. VIII D and VIII E are competing in the task of making a book which will describe the characteristics of Europe. There is much interest in this competition and some very clever work has been done.

Hyde School

A moving picture exhibition on the destruction and conservation of the state forests was given last week by Mr. Terry of the Massachusetts Forestry Association. The pictures showed clearly the great danger to trees, life and property by careless starting of fires. The great need of reforestation was also depicted.

Mr. William Weiland, director of playground work in Central Europe, addressed the pupils of the school on Monday morning. Mr. Weiland's work is done under the auspices of the American Junior Red Cross.

The description of his work and conditions was most interestingly told and very enthusiastically received by the children and teachers. In contributing to the membership of the organization in the future, the pupils will be better able to realize something of the wonderful work their money helps to accomplish.

Miss Brags was present and introduced the speaker. At the close of the address the children by a rising vote of thanks showed their appreciation of the opportunity they had enjoyed.

On March 11 and 12, from 2 to 5 P. M., an exhibit of art work from the Hyde School will be held at the Barn Studio on Hartford street. At the request of the Art Department of the Newton Highlands Woman's Club, Mr. Fred H. Daniels, Supervisor of Drawing, will speak here on Tuesday at 4 P. M. upon the subject, "Art in the Newton Schools."

The latest drawing project in the eighth grades has aroused great enthusiasm among the pupils. It consists of the making of several sofa-cushion designs by each pupil, of which the best is selected, enlarged, transferred to linen, and stenciled in harmonizing colors. The result is an attractive pillow-top. Nearly every pupil has brought his problem to a very successful conclusion.

Mason School

Mr. Paul and Miss Chase attended the funeral of little Frederick Brennan, a 3rd grade pupil, who was killed in an automobile accident recently.

A goodly delegation from the Mason enjoyed the symphony concert for young people on Tuesday afternoon.

On Monday afternoon grades 5-8 heard a most enjoyable talk given by Mr. Wm. Weiland, who has been establishing playgrounds in different parts of Europe.

Club meetings in the eighth grades, postponed from last week, were held on this week Monday. Programs of music, science and English were given by the members.

Stearns School

The Health Clinic under the direction of Miss MacPherson and Miss Trask are preparing a play which will be given later in the spring.

Friday afternoon Miss Parker gave to the children of the sixth grades a stereopticon lecture on her summer trip thru the Canadian Rockies, using slides made from pictures taken on the trip. The talk was particularly interesting to the children, as they have made a study of the Canadian Rockies this year.

Lasell

On Tuesday evening, March the fourth, a reception was held at Bragdon Hall. Dr. and Mrs. Winslow and Miss Potter received the guests. A musical program was rendered by the following artists: Miss Helen Webster, soprano, Miss Ruth Masters, cello, and Miss Mildred Cloake, piano. Miss Webster and Miss Cloake are former Lasell students.

Wednesday afternoon the Lasell basketball team played the Newton High School at Newtonville.

Mrs. Blanche C. Martin, for many years head of the Department of Expression at Lasell, will speak to the girls at the regular lecture hour on Friday afternoon.

The Sophomore-Senior Party will be held Saturday evening at Woodland Park Hall.

Sunday evening, Professor Elmer Leslie of Boston University will be the speaker at Vesper Service.

Barnard School

The pupils of every room are enjoying the fine new Victrola given to the School by the Newtonville Woman's Club, through their Civics Committee. The children have helped to choose the records which they thought were best for their marching, rhythmic work, exercises and songs. The money for those was also given by the same Club.

Through the generosity of Mrs. George Fuller of West Newton the children of the Primary class can have more special records for their own use.

Every one was very glad last week because from the fifty-two children enrolled in the school, thirty-six were neither absent nor tardy for the whole week. The Intermediate Room led both the others, every one being on time each day.

The Advanced Class were the winners for the week in the Good Health Habits in the school room.

Bigelow School

Mr. Terry, representative of the Massachusetts State Forestry Association, exhibited in the hall last Friday afternoon three reels of moving pictures on Lumbering, Reforestation, the Enemies of the Forest, Dangers Incident to Fire, and the Insect Enemies. It was a very interesting and instructive period.

Miss Gibbs has been ill for the past week. Her class is hoping that she will soon be well enough to return.

Miss Buffum is at her home in North Berwick, Maine, suffering from a broken wrist, the result of a coasting accident. We shall be glad to see her back again.

Don't Pay $1,000 or More for a car, without knowing what the leader offers in the fine-car field

WE made a canvass of many who bought rivals of Studebakers. We said, "Tell us why you liked your car the better." The majority said, "We did not even look at the Studebaker." Most of them bought new models of the car they owned before.

Yet Studebaker is a leader in the fine-car field today. Studebaker builds more quality cars than any other plant in the world.

Studebaker is the sensation of modern Motordom. Its amazing growth signifies a new situation in this field.

Last year, 145,167 fine-car buyers paid $201,000,000 for Studebaker cars. Nearly three times as many as in 1920.

Is it fair to yourself—or fair to us—not to learn the reasons for this trend?

Facts to consider

Studebaker assets are $90,000,000 — all staked on satisfying, better than others, buyers of high-grade cars.

Over 23,000 men have their future at stake on giving you maximum values.

$50,000,000 in modern plants and equipment, of which $32,000,000 has been added during the past five years.

$10,000,000 in body plants to give you superlative beauty. To give that final touch for which Studebakers have been famous for decades.

125 experts who devote their whole time to studying betterments. Who make 500,000 tests per year to maintain our supremacy.

Note the bumpers, the steel trunk, the extra cord tires, the motometer, the courtesy light on some models. Figure what they would cost as extras.

Consider Studebaker history. For 72 years this concern has stood for high principles and policies.

For two generations, against all the world, it held first place in horse-drawn vehicles.

Now for years its name and fame have been committed to like attainments in fine motor cars.

If you only knew

There is no room here for details and comparisons. You will find them all in Studebaker showrooms. But let us cite some significant facts.

That lack of vibration, so conspicuous in Studebakers, costs us $600,000 yearly in extra machining of crank shafts.

That matchless strength in vital

See the Studebakers

Studebaker builds more fine cars than any other plant in the world.

Last year 145,167 wise motor car buyers paid $201,000,000 for Studebakers.

The demand has almost trebled in the past three years. Studebaker now holds a leading place in the high-grade field.

Our modern plants and their equipment cost $50,000,000. All to give you the maximum value at the minimum of cost.

It is folly to buy a car in this class without knowing what we give.

parts comes from the costliest steels. For some we add 15% to the quoted price to get exactness in them.

That Chase Mohair, used in our closed cars, is made from the soft fleece of Angora goats. Cotton or ordinary wool, or a combination of both, could reduce our price $100 to $150 per car, but it would sacrifice Studebaker quality.

Note the bumpers, the steel trunk, the extra cord tires, the motometer, the courtesy light on some models. Figure what they would cost as extras.

The infinite care

We use 35 formulas for steel, each worked out to exactness for supreme service in its place.

We employ 1,200 inspectors to make 30,000 inspections of the material and workmanship in each Studebaker car — before it leaves the factory.

Consider how Studebaker has always led in the building of high-grade cars. We were first to use cord tires as standard equipment. We were the first quantity manufacturers to build bodies of the highest grade.

If you want beauty, fine upholstery, rich finish and equipment, consider that Studebaker has had more experience in fine coach building than any other motor car maker.

Our place no accident

The pedestal place which Studebaker holds in the fine-car field is not the result of accident. It comes from principles as old as this business—the ceaseless and determined ambition to excel.

Learn the result of these efforts. Compare detail by detail, part by part, with any car you wish. When you foot the advantages, you will find that they number scores.

These are facts you should know. They are inducing 150,000 per year to choose Studebaker cars.

Some sell at $1,045. Some meet with every requirement in size and power and luxury. But the chassis are all alike, save in size. The same steels, the same standards throughout. Every important Studebaker part represents the best we know.

People have learned these facts—hundreds of thousands of them. The demand for Studebakers has almost trebled in three years. It has become overwhelming, even for our facilities. Investigate the reasons. You will find them by the scores. Then, if you choose a rival car, we shall have nothing more to say.

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

Written by
Leverett D. G. Bentley

Those of us who believe the human race is progressing can readily point to various examples of advancement in support of our contention. Several things suggest themselves. With one voice we say, "Radio!" Then we proceed to drop into a discussion as to whether the Panama Canal or the aeroplane is entitled to second place.
And so on for an hour or more. Still,
there is one thing that we ourselves believe has escaped many. So confident are we that it is not widely appreciated we shall ask our readers to bear with us while we present our views. During the war it seemed that every household began to learn the importance of editing the daily bill-of-fare. Things that were formerly used for feed exclusively in the stable were dish-up, or rather baked-up, for the family. People who had thought that "marketing" consisted only of telephoning to your meat-dealer or grocer with a list of things to be delivered "right away" found they were in error. Gradually it dawned on many worthy citizens that it was good business to make a personal visit to the stores. That was always interesting, especially when you had to have all goods conveyed home in the store-keeper's wagon or truck. But when the stores began to run short of help on account of the call for soldiers and suggested that customers might "carry your small packages"— then, and not till then did the human race get the force of the lesson. Since that time many of us have been wondering how the police would have called the police to arrest a grocery clerk that suggested such an indignity, are now becoming experts at the "cash and carry" system. They think nothing of piling their arms as full as the farmer's chore-boy does when lugging in the wood. Owners of automobiles in many cases prefer to carry their own purchases. Indeed, from the store-keeper's point of view it must seem funny.
He probably smiles as he recalls the imperative demand frequently made years ago by an irate housewife insisting that a team be sent two miles at once to deliver a yeast cake.

Of course the greatest scientific knowledge possessed by carriers of their own bundles is exhibited in the market district of Boston every Saturday. There are many in the throng of purchasers whose weekly struggle is to make an amemic pay-envelope go as far as a millionaire's chef in buying food for Sunday and the next day to come. These people have for generations learned how to juggle the heaviest amount of provender with the greatest ease and facility. Sometimes the whole family is called upon to perform services. Big and little must do their bit to save money and consequently the last thing that comes to mind is the idea of "cash and carry."
It is used to be part of our job to do what the city editor was good enough to call "human interest stories on the Saturday night market crowds." In that way we learned more of the brave efforts of everyday self-respecting Americans to scrimp and save in order that they might not owe money to any one. One night last summer we were showing a Chicago friend the picturesque scenes of the Quincy and Faneuil Hall markets and adjoining streets. Our guests had heard a lot about Boston's market and we ourselves were glad to the chance to visit again a place that the Newton Graphic has for its earliest journalistic endeavors.
The weather was warm and yet not excessively so. At least no one thought, "We're likely to get a thunder shower out of this," or if they did the subject of rain was not mentioned.
In and about the market, however,
in their arms were at a disadvantage as there was nothing to prevent the paper bags from becoming soaked and thereby rendered useless. What happened? A group of sidewalk merchants, whose stock is ordinarily made up of collar buttons, suspenders, etc., produced from some unknown and invisible storage place a lot of canvas bags designed especially for carrying market purchases and of a character that defied the weather. The price was 20 cents each, and the customers were many. Here then was not only enterprise but evidence that the carrying of bundles has developed as an industry to the physical and financial benefit of the human race.

We do not know just what to make of a suggestion submitted by a reader of this column regarding the art of walking on slippery sidewalks. It (the suggestion) sounds like a reasonable theory and yet we wonder what folks would say of us if we put this idea in practice. The tip comes to us from one who is good enough to think seriously of some of our paragraphs and to express an opinion thereof. M. T. N. writes: "I believe you have made some reference to sliding and slipping on the sidewalks that for some reason or other have not been freed of ice or where melted snow has gathered in spite of the efforts of the householder.
Well, that isn't half as dangerous and unpleasant as it may seem, if you know how to overcome it. It only requires concentration of one's mental energies. You can keep your feet more securely if you toe-in as you walk. Just walk as if you were bow-legged and your feet come together naturally. Toeing-in may look ridiculous. It may seem very amusing, but nevertheless it is the way to walk in slippery places. You can use a safe piling up of ice. You can walk faster and with more certainty dinary way." We sincerely hope that by the time this paragraph appears before our readers there will be no more slippery sidewalks the present winter. However, if there are, the suggestion is free. We ask no praise for pushing it along but we would like to hear from anyone who puts it into practice. We would ourselves if we had the nerve.

Handling of traffic seems to provide civic organizations with more reason for appointing special investigating committees than any other subject. Some may call it a joke but it is grim humor that one finds in the news that someone has been killed at an improperly guarded street crossing. The recent death of a small boy on his way home from school was one of the saddest happenings of which we have read in a long time. It illustrates the need of more protection for pedestrians. If that protection is to be supplied by additional traffic policemen for goodness sake let's have more police. We don't know anything about the circumstances but we venture that the Board of Aldermen, or the board's committee which keeps such a tight grip on the city's purse strings, believes the Chief of Police is asking for too many men. No head of a city department, whether it be police, fire or whatnot, ever admitted that he had sufficient help. If he did so he would be adjudged insane and removed from office. And when he declares he can use more men the old argument is advanced, "That's what they all say." We doubt very much if the situation in Newton is different from other places. The police heads ask for more patrolmen and the city father's reply, "Nothing doing." This may be a normal state of affairs but it is not wholesome. The citizens are the ones who suffer. If the Mayor and the Chief of Police can't impress the Board of Aldermen with the imperative need of more traffic policemen—what then? Must automobile drivers be encouraged to kill off a stated number of Newton people in order to reduce the size of the city's population sufficiently to conform with the small membership of the police force. That's our problem until we hear from an expert on the subject.

There is a story of a man who went about looking for the laziest man on earth. He at last found an individual who never attempted to do any work and who laid on his back in the shade of a tree all the year round. It was "way down South" where the climatic conditions permitted such serene comfort. The man conducting the quest allowed he had found the laziest man on earth and said, "Here's a dollar for you, the prize is yours. No bigger loafer exists than you." At that the other, without lifting his himself from the ground, or making even a move, said, "Put the money in my vest pocket will you?" That, it always seemed to us, required a great deal of nerve. Yet we think we have it beaten as a specimen of "nerve." The "shining example" to which we now refer had received regularly two tickets weekly from the theatre in his home town. To obtain them meant a call at the box-office. Not so bad, we'll say, and worth the trouble. But the "shining example" couldn't see it. One day he approached the manager with, "You know I have to ride on the trolley to get here when I want to call for my passes; couldn't you mail them to me?"

How many who quote, "Beware the Ides of March," know the allusion and its significance.

There are some people who make the most of everything except the item of personal receipts on their income tax blank.

Just remember there wouldn't be half the noise about the "Teapot Dome Oil Scandal" if it were not for the fact there is to be a Presidential election next Fall.

and Malah Dickinson of Amherst, a family prominent since Revolutionary days, and the D. A. R. Chapter in Amherst is named for one of her ancestors.

part paying patients 24, free patients (including 20 babies) 29, patients treated by out patient department 137, accident cases 4, babies born 11, social service calls at hospital 12, at homes 5, X-Ray cases for month 120.

Every week there are used in the operating rooms at the hospital dressings into the makings of which have gone from 300 to 400 yards of gauze.
And in addition to the dressings used in the operating rooms there are of course the dressings that must be used under treatment at the hospital. It is because of the number of dressings that the hospital must have constantly on hand that it has fitted up a room for the making of them, provided a black covered table and special chairs for the women who, it is hoped, will volunteer in such numbers to make them that there will always be a bountiful supply. Those who volunteer may set their own hours and their own days and a competent instructor will be on hand always to help them. Young women who think they would like to be nurses by volunteering to help make dressings will get an opportunity at practical experience in a part of the work nurses know how to do.

Dr. Jones of the State Board of Health gave a talk to the nurses last week.

Miss Brink of New York, who has been making a survey of the nursing situation in this district, visited the hospital last week.

The Newton police department is always ready to help the hospital when it can. On a recent day the hospital ambulance was absent on a long trip and two emergency calls came in. The hospital called the police department and the police ambulance answered both the calls.

With the first of March Dr. Frank R.
Clark began a term of service in the obstetrical department, Dr. George L.
West and Dr. G. F. H. Bowers in the medical department, Dr. Henry Watters continues in the surgical department and Dr. N. P. Brackett came on as assistant. The visitors for the month are Mrs. Henry B. Day, Mr.
Chase, Mr. Schirmer and Mr. Kelsey.

Two of the babies born last week,
both girls, will have to wait four years for their birth date to come around again for both were born February 29.
At the meeting of the Training School alumni on Wednesday last Miss Mary M. Riddle, chairman of the state board of registration of nurses, was the speaker, her subject being, "The Nurse, her status, her obligations, her opportunities." The alumni gives $500 to the hospital each year and with the bills for annual dues now being sent out also gives a request for contributions to make up the yearly gift.

The hospital has received two recent requests, one from Kansas and one from Illinois, for information in regard to the training it gives in its course for pupil laboratory technicians.

Miss F. B. Lane of Abundant was the first one to volunteer as a worker in the making of surgical dressings.

Miss W. Winslow has completed her course as pupil dietitian and returned to Greenfield. She will probably soon take a position as dietitian at some institution. Miss E. Fernald from Nason Institute, Springfield, Me. has just begun the course.

Old linen and old cotton are needed always. Those who have any they are willing to give to the hospital can send it conveniently by parcel post. The ton Hospital, 2014 Washington street,

EDITORIAL

To all who have had any connection with our city government for the past generation, the death of Chief of Fire Department Walter B. Randlett will be a personal and heartfelt loss. Few men and fewer city officials have won the regard and affection of their associates as Chief Randlett. Always modest and retiring in deportment, he was most capable and efficient in his work as a fire chief and the good record this city has enjoyed during the past years is largely due to his untiring efforts in the line of fire prevention. As the head of an important city department employing scores of men he has secured splendid results, not so much by strict disciplinary methods, but thru his character and personality, which won him the love and admiration of his subordinates. During the tremendous growth of the city the past twenty years, he has done his full duty as inspector of fires—a task which was more than one man should assume, but which he accepted as part of his office. He will be missed as a personal friend by thousands of citizens and his loss as a city official will be unusually hard to fill.

DEATH OF MRS. RIPLEY

Mrs. Viola May Ripley, wife of Edwin F. Ripley of 49 Carnegie avenue, East Orange, N. J. died suddenly at her home Tuesday of a heart ailment, from which she had suffered for years. From there the family moved to Chicago and then returning east to East Orange, where they have been located for two years.

Mrs. Ripley is survived by her husband; her father, former City Physician Dr. Lewis L. Bryant of Cambridge; a brother, S. M. Bryant of East Orange; and two daughters, Miss Phyllis K. Ripley of Brooklyn and Miss Barbara B. Ripley of East Orange. Mrs. Ripley was a former well-known resident of Wolcott street, Auburndale.

Due to lack of space, Under The Gilded Dome will appear in next week's issue.

POLICE COURT

Gerald R. Craig, who has been at the St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Brighton for the past month as the result of bullet wounds which he received in a shooting affray at the home of Lewis Foster Curtis in Chestnut Hill on the morning of February 7, was arraigned in the Newton Court Tuesday morning on charges growing out of the affair. Craig was taken to court in an automobile from the hospital and carried to his seat by two policemen.

He was arraigned on charges of breaking and entering in the night time while armed with the intent to commit larceny and assault with a loaded revolver with the intent to murder Curtis.

Judge Bacon dismissed the complaint of breaking and entering on the ground of lack of evidence to show that the defendant intended to commit larceny and ordered Craig held in bonds of $10,000 for the Superior Court on the charge of assault with a loaded revolver with intent to murder. The Superior Court trial will begin April 7.

WOMAN'S ASSOCIATION

Woman's Association of Central Church. A large number were present at the Wednesday meeting in season to engage in sewing and in the making of surgical dressings.

A welcome guest was Mr. Angier, President of the Woman's Association of Eliot Church, who spoke a few gracious words of greeting to the "younger sister" society. She outlined briefly the work of the Eliot Association, including the Community meeting held once a month in which six of the Newton churches are represented.

Rev. J. Kingsley Birge, who for ten years has done missionary work in Smyrna, gave a thoughtful and scholarly paper of conditions in Turkey. He pled for continued interest and sympathy with the refugees and said that the tales of horror were true. He predicted that the present government would be temporary and that another revolution would follow. Mr. Birge felt that if the United States had accepted the mandate of Turkey conditions would have been very different. He traced the influences which had formed the Turkish character and found the explanation in their social heritage rather than racial traits. Driven from Central Asia by the atrocities of Genghis Khan in the 13th century, the Turks, few in number, had intermarried with other people until they had become a very mixed race. The modern nationalistic spirit is due to the influence of Western nations. Seeing that the Christian peoples placed patriotism above principle and were unscrupulous in their dealings, the Turks have followed their example. Mustafa Kemal and George Washington they class together as liberators and heroes. They think they are following the United States as a sister Republic. Mr. Birge had seen much kindness done by the Turks at the time of the Smyrna outbreak and felt that most of them regretted the atrocities and made efforts to rescue the victims.

The hope for Turkey is in training the boys and girls to a sense of rectitude. They have no words for "citizen" and "community." Truth and honor are unknown virtues. They have no ethical conception of God, no sense of his Fatherhood and love. Give the Turks a propaganda of the Christian way of life and changed character will be the result. No one should go there expecting to reap. The soil must be prepared by the spread of new ethical ideals.

Miss Abbie Miller announced that Dr. Brewer Eddy would conduct a Lenten Mission Study Class meeting March 26th, April 2nd, 9th, and 16th, at 3.45 P. M.

The luncheon committee, Mrs. Florence A. Rose, Chairman, provided charming decorations, including the electric lights and table decorations suggestive of St. Patrick's Day.

DEATH OF MRS. BRYANT

Mrs. Dexter Bryant died last Saturday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Theodore F. Borst, 2 Hancock avenue, Newton Centre, in her eighty-fifth year. She was born in Manchester, N. H. and was the daughter of George and Dorothy Hancock, both well-known residents of that city.

At the age of twenty-one the daughter was married to Dexter Bryant, a native of Boston, and who in business was an importer and broker. He died three years ago. Practically all of their married life up to the time of Mr. Bryant's death three years ago had been spent in Melrose, where Mrs. Bryant was a member of the Baptist Church. Since living with her daughter in Newton Centre she had been interested in Trinity Episcopal Church.

There are three surviving sons and two daughters. These are Wallace Bryant, the artist, who lives in Washington, D. C.; Albert Bryant of Orange, N. J.; G. Phillips Bryant of Brant Rock, Mrs. Arthur Gibson Hull of Norwalk, Conn., and Mrs. Theodore S. Borst (Laura Cone Bryant).

Services were held at No. 2 Hancock street, Newton Centre, Rev. Mr. Aldrich of St. Paul's Cathedral officiating, and the burial was in Mt. Auburn.

D. A. R.

The February meeting of the Lydia Partridge Whiting Chapter, D. A. R., was held at the home of Mrs. Charles Beane, 1208 Walnut street, Newton Highlands. The regent, Mrs. Sanford Thompson, presided.

After the usual business meeting the regent reported that we were oversubscribed on our pledge to the International College. Miss Annie Head reported that she had sent two boxes to Ellis Island, in behalf of the Chapter and that she had also sent five books to the National Library in behalf of the Chapter.

The following committee was appointed to arrange for a bridge party to be held in April: Mrs. Harris Langley, Chairman, Mrs. Myron Cudworth, Miss Marion Dorr and Mrs. Warren Dillaway.

The program of the afternoon consisted of readings by Miss Flora Bosson and two groups of song by Mr. Charles Beane.

At the close of the meeting ice cream and cake were served by the hostesses assisted by Mrs. Richard Cody, Mrs. Myron Cudworth, Miss Fanning and Mrs. Warren Dillaway.

One new member was added to the Chapter at this meeting—Mrs. Samuel Woodrow of Newton Highlands.

W. C. T. U.

The Newton W. C. T. U. met on Thursday afternoon in Eliot Church. The speakers of the afternoon were Miss Laura Jones, Vice President of the State W. C. T. U., who told of the need of the members of concerted action at the polls on the prohibition question, and the Rev. Fred A. McDonald, a former resident of Newton Centre.

Mr. McDonald spoke on "Doorstep Housekeeping." He referred to scenes in Baltimore when as a child, he used to see the housewives cleaning their doorsteps. He traced conditions in home life during the last fifty years, and showed how home life was giving way largely to community life.

The time has come, he said, when we must do more than care for our own "doorsteps" and take heed of the conditions surrounding us in the community.

During the afternoon Miss Ruth Peirce of Brookline gave much pleasure by singing a group of songs.

Following the last speaker, tea was served and a social hour enjoyed. Mrs. Charles D. Kepner was chairman, assisted by Mrs. Irving T. Townsend, Mrs. Richard Stubbs, Mrs. H. M. Bacon, Mrs. F. L. Trowbridge, Mrs. E. A. McCassey, Mrs. Damon Kilgore, Mrs. W. D. Smith, Mrs. George H. Snyder, Mrs. W. B. Blakemore and Mrs. John A. Gardner, who poured.

GIRL SCOUTS

March 1st, 1924, will always stand out as one of the most important dates in the Newton Girl Scout "Calendar of Events to be remembered." Three Golden Eaglets, the highest honor which a Girl Scout may receive were awarded on that day. The girls who received them were, Mary Howard of the Newtonville Troop, Barbara Partridge of the Newton Troop and Alice Phelps of the West Newton Troop. All of these girls have been Scouts for more than five years—they have reached the rank of First Class Scout, have been awarded the Medal of Merit and they have earned the 21 Merit Badges which they must receive before they can be awarded this honor. Mrs. Arthur W. Hartt, Commissioner for the Massachusetts Council, Girl Scouts, presented the Golden Eaglets to the girls. She spoke to them of the new Scout life which they were entering when joining this Order of the Golden Eaglets. She told them that although they had reached this goal, which would seem to the outsider to be the end of the Girl Scout's ambition, that it was in reality just the beginning. She spoke of the great honor they were receiving in being awarded the Golden Eaglet but she also spoke of the great responsibility which goes with the honor and she made the girls feel that they would do their utmost to live up to that honor and responsibility and that they would continue to "carry on" with a deeper idea of the true Scout Spirit and Loyalty.

The Medal of Merit which stands for the "Character Building" part of Scouting was awarded to four girls. They were, Eloise Barber of the Newton Troop, and Lisbeth Leighton, Lois Ladd and Shirley Eddy, all of the West Newton Troop. This medal is only awarded to the girls who show exceptional Scout Spirit in the home, school, community and church. It is usually applied for by the Captain and comes to the Scout as an absolute surprise. Mrs. Frank Day gave out the Medals of Merit.

The Rally was an intensely interesting one. Over 400 Scouts formed in line outside the gymnasium when Assembly was played by the Sargent, Bugler, Elizabeth Plimpton and marched into the hall, the Bugle and Drum Corps leading.

After the opening Scout ceremony the events were as follows:

Competition Drill, one patrol from each Troop. First place, Troop 2; 2nd place, Troop 5, 3rd place, Troop 1.

Song contest—Each Troop sang an original song suitable for an "All Newton" Girl Scout song. 1st place, Troop 1, song written by Margaret and Dorothy Merrill; 2nd place, Troop 3 Seniors, song by Grace Brown; 3rd place, Troop 5, song by Doris Benson.

Obstacle Race—1st place, Troop 1; 2nd place, Troop 3 Seniors; 3rd, Troop 2.

Semaphore—1st place, Troop 2; 2nd place, Troop 1.

Knot game—1st place, Troop 3 Seniors; 2nd place, Troop 11; 3rd, Troop 4.

Wig-wag won by Troop 11.

The Bugle and Drum Corps under Miss Marion Marx, Drum Major, gave a splendid exhibition. Over 200 Merit Badges were given out. The Rally closed with the singing of Taps.

Troop 1 won the Rally. Merit Badges awarded will be printed next week.

IN MEMORIAM: MARION CHASE BAKER

One passed this way—and passing left Such wealth of happy memories—of loving service wrought
We faintly would weave into the pattern of our lives
The fine ideals—the inspiring influence flowing out from hers:
Would place—with reverent hand and heart
—in sweet remembrance—
A wreath of immortalities—to crown her noble womanhood.One passed this way—and passing found No task too great—if lofty purpose might thus be fulfilled.
No deed too small—if happier hearts might glimpse
The harmonies divine—to which her life was so attuned.
Might sense the love for God and man with
—in her tender heart
As graciously she bore the light of truest womanhood.She is not dead—she whom we loved And loving—live anew—in re-created service—
She is not dead—but lives forever more
A perfect trinity of heart—mind—soul—
Immortal Womanhood.

Local Happenings

John Clair Minot speaking before the Newton Community Club at last week's meeting on "What's What Among New Books," named as the outstanding six American novels of the past few months, "A Son at the Front," by Edith Wharton; "The Midlander," by Booth Tarkington; "The Hawkeye," by Herbert Quick; "Broad," by Charles Norris; "Ellen Foster," by Alice
Brown; "J. Hardin & Son," by Brand
Whitlock. In a second group Mr.
Minot placed "Lost Lady," by Willa Cather; "Crotan," by Mary Johnston;
"Lumma," by Fannie Hurst; "So Big," by Edna Ferber; "Nowhere Else in the World," by J. William Hudson.
For an English half-dozen he mentioned, "End of the House of Alaric," by Charlotte K. Smith; "A Cure of Souls," by May Sinclair; "The Lengthened Shadow," by William J. Locke; "Fortune's Fool," by Rafael Sabatini;
"The Rover," by Joseph Conrad;
"Riceyman Steps," by Arnold Bennett.
Mr. Minot pointed out a curious fact, namely, that what he had classed as the best novels were not many of them found in the list of best-sellers.
In non-fiction list best-sellers on the contrary, were almost all in the list which he considered as best. The one which has stood at the head of the list of best-sellers is Papini's "Life of Christ," one hundred thousand copies of which have been sold in Italy alone while it has been translated into twelve languages. The next in order is, strangely enough, Mrs. Post's "Book of Etiquette."There are, he said more good women novelists in America than men, while in England 15 novels out of 20 come from the pens of men.
The best-seller among biography has been "My Garden of Memory," by Kate Douglas Wiggin.
Of the 400 or 500 novels published last year in America only 20 or so are of New England origin, the rest coming from New York and the Middle West. Hall Caine's "The Woman of Knockaloe," was characterized as the most powerful argument against war that has been written.The speaker was listened to with the closest attention and all were enthusiastic in their comments afterwards.At the business meeting Mrs. Louis Staughton Drake, president of the Newton Young Women's Christian Association, spoke of the work which is being done for the girls of Newton.
Watertown and Brighton through the Girl Reserves and other clubs provided by the Association. It was announced that more than $300 has been secured for the scholarship.Songs by Mrs. Mansfield with Miss Leonard at the piano were also much enjoyed.B. Loring Young, speaker of the Massachusetts House, and Representative Early were the speakers at the Legislative meeting of the West Newton Women's Educational Club on Friday last. Mr. Young dwelt particularly upon the dangers lurking in the Federal bill of the National Woman's Party, known as the Equal Rights
Bill. Mr. Walker Chamberlin sang.
The program was in charge of the executive committee, Mrs. William B. Keefe, chairman. The usual social tea followed the meeting.On Monday afternoon Mrs. Cornelia J. Cannon spoke before the Newton Mothers' Club on "The Amusements of Our Young People," in which she made a plea for simplicity and for outdoor sports. A general discussion followed the address. Mrs. Stanley R.
Colver, Mrs. Albert P. Carter, Mrs.
Hubert L. Carter, and Mrs. R. Chapman, Jr., were the hostesses.The annual Guest Night of the Waban Woman's Club was held Monday evening, March 3d, in the Albert Angier School Building with over 400 members and their guests present.
The program opened with the welcome given by the president, Mrs. Joseph Condon. The entertainment was a "Pictorial Revue" of various covers of our well-known magazines, the different figures represented by club members, assisted by local talent. Mrs.
Karl Heinzen did a solo "Grecian Dance." Miss Virginia Grilley gave a monologue and also told short stories, which caused much laughter. Mr.
George M. Snodgrass sang, accompanied by Mrs. William Stevenson.Miss Eunice Scriven played several violin selections and also a whistling number, all of which were enthusiastically applauded. The program was concluded by the "Hunt" scene represented by five men who sang two appropriate songs. The committee in charge was as follows: Mrs. Alexander Caldwell, Chairman, Miss Dorothy
Rice, Mrs. Gardner Stevens, Mrs. Raymond Wells, Mrs. Howard North, Mrs.
Eugene Bissell, and Mrs. Harry Mathews. The backgrounds were made by Mrs. Alexander Caldwell, Miss Dorothy
Rice, Mrs. Gardner Stevens, Mrs. Raymond Wells. The lighting was in charge of Mr. Hassler Capron. Much credit is due the committee, who worked so untiringly, that even the slightest detail was planned for, making the pictures professionally perfect.
Refreshments were served in the gymnasium and there was dancing in the Kindergarten room.The Auburndale Review Club had a morning's program of most unusual interest at its meeting on March 4th at the Missionary Home, "The Neighbors," by Zona Gale was given by eight club members, everyone of whom took her part with distinction. The busy housewives, not too busy to help out a neighbor in distress; the irate Ezra; the bashful lover, Peter; aged grandma, weary of her cutting rags, all the actors kept the large audience of about eighty at a high pitch of interest by dry wit and humor, and awkward actions. All present owe a most pleasant morning to the cast.who have rehearsed so faithfully and well.An audience that filled all available space on the floor of the vestry of Central Church and also the gallery listened with rapt attention to the unusual musical program provided the Newtonville Woman's Club by the "Paul Shirley Trio" on Tuesday afternoon. The selections listed were of wide variety and were chosen especially to display the beauty of tone production of the viola d'amore. Mr.
Shirley's favorite instrument. Before beginning his numbers, Mr. Shirley gave a brief history of his instrument, linking it to some of the oldest known viols, and called special attention to the "sympathetic strings" not found in modern instruments, but which greatly aid in power and fineness of tone.Early in the program the audience felt the musician's mastery of his instrument in the ease, freedom, and sureness of his execution. Even to the listener without much musical training, he was able to "get over" his sound pictures—especially well was it done in the "Dance" by Lully when one could easily vision a court scene in the days of Louis XIV, with dancers in elaborate and colorful costumes weaving the figures of a stately and dignified dance. He was most ably accompanied by Jacobus Langendoen,
"cellist, and Reginald Boardman, pianist, who at no time allowed their instruments to cut into the viol's first place.Two groups of songs by Mrs. Marjorie W. Leadbetter, were received with spontaneous and enthusiastic applause. She sang with free voice, with skill, and intelligence, and was especially happy in her characterization of the group "Little Brown Owl," "Lullaby Blue," "The Cat Bird," and
"Gossy." Mr. Reginald Boardman delighted his audience with the finish and symphony of his playing, and his rendering of "To a White Rose," was one of the choicest pleasures of the afternoon. Mr. Boardman is one of the few well-known pianists whose artistry is never spoiled by eccentric manipulations. He is neither a contor-nist, nor a thunder-god—would there were more like him.At the meeting of the Community Service Club of West Newton on Wednesday afternoon an interesting legislative program was presented.
Mrs. Robert F. Herrick spoke upon legislative matter in general, urging her hearers to inform themselves carefully upon these public questions and to think things through before taking action. She spoke on behalf of the various prison measures before the legislature, and cited instances from out her wide experience in the investigation of conditions, and from her work with Mrs. Jessie D. Hodder, of the Sherborn Reformatory for Women, who, she said, is considered the best informed penologist in the world. Colonel Sweeney spoke upon "Immigration," treating of the effects upon the country at large, and pointing out that America must restrict the influx of foreigners, since she is fast approaching what is considered the danger point in population. A social hour with refreshments closed a very interesting afternoon.

Mid-Winter Meeting

"Mrs. Baker's letters to me," said Senator Walsh at the mid-winter meeting of the State Federation of Women's Clubs in Boston last week.
They were always kindly, courteous, helpful, and patriotic. "This, he said, was the message which his secretary had told him he should give to the women of Massachusetts, as they publicly paid tribute to the memory of her who had been their much loved past president. The memorial service, consisting of organ music, vocal solos, a brief touching prayer by Mrs.
Grace Morrison Poole, an original poem by Mrs. George M. Weber, chairman of Literature, the adoption of resolutions—the women standing as they were read—and another song, formed an impressive part of the Federation's convention held on February 29th in the Methodist Episcopal Church on Columbus avenue, Boston.Mrs. Poole's her responses to the word of welcome from the hostesses the day, Mrs. Joseph C. Otis, president of the Woman's Charity Club, cited the recent complaint of a woman, that women are not taking their citizenship seriously, are not found to be talking upon public questions of the day, etc., by saying that she wondered if the men of the same groups were doing it any more.The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. Joseph W. Attwill, chairman of Legislation, and the convention settled down to business—the consideration of certain measures now pending, which had been selected by the executive board. Professor John D.
Willard, of the Massachusetts Agricultural College, spoke on behalf of Senate bill 81, an act to create an unpaid commission to study Massachusetts' food supply. He stated that the United States, which has always been a food excess nation, is fast becoming a food deficit nation, and prophesied that unless something is done to right matters, it will become so within the next fifteen years. In Massachusetts less than five per cent are engaged in food producing, the cost of living is higher in New England than in other parts of the country—though the costs in Massachusetts are not out of proportion to the increased cost of transportation. The average family now spends from 40 to 45 per cent of its budget for food.
The proposed commission is to make a study of the facts, to put trained experts on to the question, to see if they cannot bring about a better correlation between those who produce and those who market; increase the productions, and lessen the costs of handling by revising the methods. The only opposition that is evident comes from the Market Gardeners' Association on the grounds of economy. After some discussion and questions from the floor, the bill was endorsed almost unanimously.A surprise was in store for the next meeting, the Midwinter bill, which had received the endorsement of the executive board. Dr. Evangelina W.
Young spoke on its behalf, stating that 25 states have laws similar to the one now proposed for Massachusetts.
Today the midwife is an outlaw in

ROTARY CLUB

Herbert N. McGill of the Babson Statistical Organization at Wellesley, a resident of Auburndale, and one of the speakers at the recent annual meeting of the Newton Chamber of Commerce, was the guest of the Newton Rotary Club at its weekly meeting on Monday, speaking on "The business outlook for 1924." While the subject was the same as that discussed at the Chamber of Commerce meeting, the address was materially changed because of developments in the business world during the past month, the question period following the address serving to bring out much additional information not covered in his previous talk.

One of the interesting features of the meeting was a comment by Vice President George J. Martin on the meetings of the Atlantic City Rotary Club, which he had recently attended.

In presenting his discussion of business conditions and prospects, Mr. McGill used several maps and charts which illustrated the changes and fundamentals upon which the Babson experts base their business predictions for the next few months. The speaker traced the upward and downward movements of business and commodity prices during the past few decades, illustrating in this way the probable occurrence of the future, and proving conclusively that all business booms, with their accompanying upward swing of prices, are always offset by corresponding depression and price deflation, maintaining a surprising balance over a long term of years.

Especially interesting was that portion of Mr. McGill's address covering the period from just preceding the World War to the present time. In regard to commodity prices, it was stated that these are now 54 per cent higher than in 1914, a material reduction being anticipated before any rebound. The Babson organization is predicting good business until early summer of the current year, but does not endeavor to indicate what may happen after that time, due to so many uncertain factors that cannot be satisfactorily analyzed at present.

Marked slumps in the building, textile, and automobile lines were predicted in the comparatively near future, and a radical reduction in labor values. As a whole, the talk was one of the most informative yet given by the local Rotarians, the keen interest of those present being indicated by the many questions asked at the conclusion of the address.

THE WHITE BLOSSOM

Virginia White, Rachel Batson, William Walker, William Henrich and Tudor Bowen were the spectacular lights of the Classical High School senior play, "The White Blossom," given last Friday and Saturday nights to full houses at Players' Hall. The play was adapted by Helen Bonser from "A Maid of Old Manhattan." Much credit for the production is due to Mrs. Caroline H. Mills, the coach.

Many spectators commented that the acting of "Jenny" White in the leading role as the White Blossom was almost professional. "Bill" Walker, with his artificial curls, was the valiant hero. The pleasingly plump Vrouw Pelgroom was interpreted by Rachel Batson, and through her many sighs and references to her former "very sylph," a great deal of humor was brought out. She should be further praised for her participation in a dual role owing to the illness of Ernestine Wilder.

"Tumultuous Tudor" as the loud-voiced, erratic Peter Stuyvesant, with his wooden leg displayed to great advantage, was a "loud" hit. Nelson Goodman played the part of the villain, the peddler spy, in which he conveyed to the audience his scheming, wicked nature.

Another interpretation was "Bill" Henrich as the Indian, Sachem. Where he acquired that fixity of expression, that paucity of words, and that beauty of complexion is uncertain, but he made an Indian chief one would hate to meet alone.

Evelina Jackson as old Peter's sister and Catherine Osceola as his wife, were two Dutch aristocrats, who certainly belonged to the "inner circle" of New Amsterdam society.

Charlotte Coveney, "the youngest member of the senior class," was very affectionate to her red father and mother.

Herbert Hunter was the trading gold-seeker, in the prologue and later took the part of the Dominie. Margaret Skillings was a gossiping woman of fashion among the Dutch ladies of the tea party scene.

Richard Coveney and Rowland Patrick were Indian braves. The audience especially enjoyed the Indian dances, which Mrs. Kuntz coached, and the solo dances by Louise Paul. These dances furnished an interlude and were an addition in creating atmosphere in the play.

All appreciated the attractive costumes and the artistic and appropriate background of the setting. The stage management went off without a flaw under the supervision of Vernon Lewis and his reliable workers, while the speed and dexterity of the scene-shifting was due in large measure to John Rogers, the professional "shifter" who helped greatly. The orchestra under the direction of Mr. Griffin, with its violin and cornet solos by Clayton Hoyt and Portia Russell, added to the evening's pleasure. The candy committee, headed by Jean Stone, cleared nearly $100.

"BELGIUM"

"Belgium" was the subject of the lecture given on Monday night at the Unitarian Church, West Newton, by Mr. H. P. Farley.

Mr. Farley called attention to the smallness of Belgium in territory, and to the two contending civilizations which have governed the country for many centuries.

A high tribute was paid to the contributions of the country in art and architecture and to her industrial output.

Contrasting Belgium with the United States the speaker noted that the Belgians are not so mobile as we are. They live on small landholdings near together and are, therefore, able to know one another and to cooperate, especially in farming, viz.: purchasing seed for sowing, etc.

The labor unions of the country are not so large and so effective as here. The problem of unemployment here, as in other countries, is often a national one, rather than an individual one. In the city of Ghent the labor unions receive a kind of subsidy from the government.

In Belgium the railroads and street cars are run, in most cases, by the government, as are canals and rivers, the idea being to open up the country and help the farmer. In Belgium this system works very well.

In order to have government ownership of railroads, and other public utilities, success, the speaker said, requires three conditions: necessary, namely, a personnel interested in serving the community rather than in reaping great financial rewards, an intelligent municipal council to guide and direct the enterprise, and an alert and informed public opinion.

A discussion followed the lecture. The next lecture will take up France. These lectures are based upon intimate personal knowledge of the countries concerned, and the discussion is designed to be of real help to the community.

THOMAS FISH MARKET MOVES TO COOLIDGE CORNER

After fourteen years of uninterrupted service, the well-known firm, Thomas Fish Market, Inc., have opened their new store at 1343 Beacon street, next to the Brookline Trust building at Coolidge Corner.

For three months mechanics have been transforming the ordinary store into what will easily rank with the finest markets in the east. Slate and tile have been used exclusively throughout and every known means of sanitation has been employed to fit up a store that will be not only suitable for the handling of sea foods but a place attractive to visitors. A special system of ventilation has been installed to eliminate the distasteful odors generally noticed in such a market and a private branch telephone exchange has been installed with ten trunk lines and their new number of Aspinwall 1300. They will welcome their friends in their new store and extend the invitation to all Newton residents.

AMERICANIZATION ACTIVITIES

On Thursday, February 28th, the Auditorium at Upper Falls was loaned to the Americanization Division of the School Department for showing another set of health films loaned by the State Health Department.

These films illustrate in interesting story fashion various phases of health care, the one on "Teeth" being especially good.

The Americanization Division has assembled an exhibit of sensible shoes. These shoes shown in connection with slides from our Public Library, and pictures and charts, helped to indicate reasons for care in shoe selection. X-rays of a teacher's foot made by the Newton Hospital in cooperation with this work made an effective personal illustration of the effects of different shoes on the bones of the feet.

This exhibit has been shown at the Bowen School, and the Mason School. It is now en route to the Burr School in Auburndale, the Stearns in Nonantum, and the Junior High School.

During the week of February 25th to March 1st, the Gordon Olympia Circuit had shown in connection with their regular program at the Newton Opera House some of the health films loaned by the State Health Department. On Thursday evening, free admission was given to the ladies of the Americanization Classes that they might see these films.

GOV. JOHN A. ANDREW HOME

The members of this Home were pleasantly entertained Sunday afternoon by a delegation from Camp 61, Sons of Veterans of Cambridge. Every member of this camp is blind. They brought their lady friends with them, and gave a delightful program of instrumental and vocal music and readings which were greatly enjoyed.

Through the influence and exertions of this Camp the Home was presented a fine Chickering grand piano. The Home is situated at 92 Washington Park, Newtonville, and the citizens of Newton are cordially invited to visit it. Donations are gratefully received. Money orders and checks may be sent to Wilfred A. Wetherbee, Treasurer, Room 27, State House, Boston.

The Gov. John A. Andrew Home has been well remembered the present week. Notably among the gifts was a handsome afghan from the Newton Highlands Woman's Club. A liberal check from the Voluntary Aid Society of the Newtonville Woman's Club, a generous box of new wearing apparel from the Ladies' Home Circle.

A very interesting entertainment was given by the Auburndale Woman's Club, who also brought fruit, sweetmeats, and flowers. In addition to the above the members were invited to a musical entertainment at the Congregational Church, given under the auspices of the Newtonville Woman's Club. Through the courtesy of Mrs. R. E. Hills and Mrs. Campbell, autos were furnished to take the members to and from the church, and flowers were sent to the shut-ins who were unable to get out.

NEWTON AUTHORS

On the evenings of March 12th and 13th, the Elizabeth Peabody Playhouse at 357 Charles street, is putting on a play entitled "The Immigrant," written by Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Gulesian of Chestnut Hill.

The play is clean and wholesome and will have been many books and articles written on the subject of Immigration and Americanization, there has not been anything in dramatic form for the last fifty years.

It is particularly interesting not only to the immigrants or the children of immigrants, but to all those who are interested in the Americanization of foreigners.

The scenes are laid in Ellis Island—the New York Bowery and Boston.

To show the hardship and struggles which the non-speaking immigrant encounters in the great wilderness of large American cities, Mr. and Mrs. Gulesian have chosen for their subject an immigrant from Turkey, in order to show the great contrast between his adopted country and where he was born which seems to him like coming from Hell to Heaven.

The play is based upon the problem of immigration and touches upon the various aspects of the subject. It makes a strong plea for a more discriminating selection of emigrants in the foreign countries to which they are sent, and shows that a wise direction and aid might be given the immigrants on their arrival here.

The action of the play proves that a foreign-born citizen may become one hundred per cent American and make a tremendous political and social asset to the country.

NEWTON CENTRAL COUNCIL

"Publicity in Social Work" was the topic of an address by Mrs. Elizabeth Macy Kauffman at a meeting held under the auspices of the Newton Central Council at the Community Welfare Centre, Newtonville, on the afternoon of March 3. About forty representatives of the organizations which are members of the Council were present. Mrs. Kauffman, who is Publicity and Financial Secretary of the Children's Aid Association of Boston, spoke of the principles of effective publicity as they apply to appeal letters, leaflets, newspaper publicity, and annual reports. Mrs. Kauffman then criticized and commented on about twenty samples of publicity material which were submitted by Newton social agencies. This method of the "publicity clinic" has been developed at the National Conference of Social Work during the past few years and has proved one of the most effective methods of passing on practical suggestions for better welfare publicity.

Mr. Robert P. Farley, of Newtonville, who is Extension Secretary of the Boston Dispensary, spoke briefly of the need for sound educational matter as distinguished from mere emotional appeals, in the publicity of social agencies.

"NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH"

Members of the Newton Grade Teachers' Club are working on their play which is to be given May 5-6. The title of the play is, "Nothing But the Truth," a comedy in three acts. The proceeds of the play go to the sick benefit fund.

GIRL SCOUTS

Many Merit Badges Awarded To Members of The Various Newton Troops

Troop 11, the Newton Highlands Troop is just one year old. On Monday of this week the Troop had a birthday party. The party was in the nature of a regular Troop meeting to which all the mothers of the girls were invited. Many mothers accepted this invitation and a large number watched the demonstrations of Scout work given by the girls. Captain Collins awarded attendance stars and Captain Freeman gave our Home Service awards. Tea was served to the guests by the oldest girls and the Troop had a surprise in the form of many little cakes each one with a candle burning brightly in the center of it and there was great excitement when a thimble, ring, wish bone and other emblems were discovered in some of the cakes. The Commissioner, Mrs. Frank A. Day, was present and was greeted with many cheers.

Following is a list of the girls who received badges at the Rally on March 1 and the badges they received. These badges are not easily won. They stand for hard work—a stiff test and a definite amount of service done. It is this service and the experience and knowledge won in working for these badges so that the girls are capable of rendering service that will be of real use that makes the badges so worthwhile.

"HIS UNCLE'S NEICE"

The Centenary Young Men's Club of Centenary Methodist Episcopal Church on Wednesday night, March 12, in the parish house of the church presented "His Uncle's Neice," a "rollicking farce" by Raymond W. Sargent.

In spite of a very stormy night, with roads and walks badly blocked with snow, the parish house was filled with people. Interest and appreciation must have been as great as the young men could have wished for.

The story was filled with amusing incidents and turns, and revolved about Francis Felton, a young man whose coming into the world was anticipated by a rich uncle in a provision to bequeath upon him One Million Dollars in case he should be a girl. The rich uncle being away from home nearly all the time, never sees the child until some twenty years have elapsed, and is allowed to think all the while that it is a girl. Then comes the day of uncle's return, with a protegee who is to become the husband of his supposed niece. Under the tutelage of a young lawyer friend, Richard Tate, Francis disguises as a girl and assumes the role of "His Uncle's Neice." Francis's sweetheart, Doris Hale, and Richard's fiancée, Alice Malcolm, become deeply entangled in the plot, and proceed from bewilderment, doubt and suspicion to firm faith in Francis and support of his cause.

Mrs. Sarah Mullen, "a woman of few words," appears in search of an erring husband who left her twenty years previously. In the last act Silas Slickmore, village constable of Happy Valley, in love with Mrs. Mullen, and Timothy Haye, a rustic devoted to Silas, become attached to the cause of Francis.

Disillusionment and climax come when Philander, the protegee of Uncle Simon F. Felton, turns out to be the missing husband of Mrs. Mullen, when Francis doffs his wig and reveals himself as the man he is, when Uncle Simon receives both Francis and Doris into his affection and everybody is happy.

SOCIAL WORKERS MEET

Nearly 200 men, representing all the Protestant churches in Newton Centre, were present at a combined Men's Club meeting, held in the Parish House of Trinity Episcopal Church, on Tuesday evening. This unique occasion in the experience of the Clubs was enthusiastically received, and bids fair to become one of the yearly winter functions of the village.

Soon after the guests were assembled, an abundant Dutch supper was served by a Committee from the various churches. Songs and impromptu comedy stunts followed one another in rapid succession, under the leadership of Mr. Pettigill, Chairman of the Entertainment Committee of the First Congregational Church.

The organized singing soon put all present in a proper frame of mind. So many M. D.'s and D. M. D.'s were present that they were obliged to sing in a hastily organized choir, which was censured by a self-appointed group, to the amusement of the audience, as well as the M. D.'s. The tables competed in singing, and much approval and disapproval was freely expressed. The spirit of the occasion gained volume and the quality of the singing was surprising.

Mr. Downer, of the Methodist Church, was introduced by President Edmond Rowley, of Trinity Church, and produced considerable amusement by his wit and humor. Speeches were called for from the floor, and the Ministers of each of the churches represented were called upon; their time was limited to one minute—two

ATTEMPTED MURDER

In a jealous frenzy Frank Visocchi, a 27-year-old cobbler, shot and probably fatally wounded 16-year-old Marietta Bianchi in her home at 201 Adams street, Newton, Sunday afternoon. He then sent a bullet from his automatic pistol into his own head. He died that night at the Newton Hospital.

For two years Visocchi had roomed at the home of the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Luigi Bianchi, while he worked at his little shoe-repairing shop near. He fell in love with Marietta, one of the belles of the Nonantum district. A few weeks ago he told her father that he wanted to marry her. The father told him Marietta was too young and advised him to keep away from her.

Visocchi, it is said, did not try to make love to the girl. Her parents soon forgot the incident.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Bianchi took several of their children and went to visit relatives, leaving Marietta at home with her 1-year-old brother, Frede, and little Antonietta Dorezi, the 4-year-old daughter of their next door neighbors. The story of the tragedy, as told to the police by the children, was that Marietta was sitting at the kitchen table writing a letter to her uncle, while the youngsters were playing around the room, when Visocchi suddenly came in flourishing a pistol and shouted to the boy, "I'm going to kill you and your sister."

The children ran from the room in terror. As they rushed to the street for help three shots sounded, followed in a moment by a fourth.

Is wanted by this bank to lend to persons seeking Homes in Watertown and Newton

Their desire to borrow is your opportunity to lend—through the medium of the Watertown Co-operative Bank—with a maximum of Safety, Convenience and Interest Return.

A CHOICE OF THREE PLANS IS OFFERED

- PLAN 1 is to BUY SHARES OF THE NEW (MARCH) ISSUE, and to commence regular monthly deposit of $1 to $40.
- PLAN 2 is to INVEST IN PAID-UP SHARES AT $200 EACH, earning quarterly dividends and requiring no deposits or dues of any kind.
- PLAN 3 is to INVEST IN PARTLY PAID SHARES a plan by which any sum up to nearly $8000 can be set to work, the investor adding to it by monthly deposits, and the bank crediting 5 3/4 per cent interest, compounded quarterly.

IN WHICH OF THESE WAYS CAN THIS BANK SERVE YOU?

Plan 1 is the familiar Co-operative Bank method of Saving Money. It is a method thousands of people have found the most successful they ever tried. One dollar a month amounts in five years to $9.61 in 11 2/3 years to $200. Ask for Circular, just off the press, on "How to Save Money." It tells you how to plan so you may have a certain sum accumulated by any specified future date.

Interest under Plan 1 is credited at 5 3/4 per cent, compounded quarterly. On sums withdrawn within five years, the interest rate is 4 6/10 per cent.

Plan 2 is splendidly adapted to the needs of the person having funds to invest for income purposes. These shares are non-fluctuating, always cashable at the bank for their face value, and have always paid 5 per cent per annum dividends, in quarterly instalments, March, June, September and December. The income is practically exempt from taxes. IF DESIRED, the dividends may be left in the bank and applied to the purchase of Shares—an excellent device for automatically building up your capital.

Plan 3 is exactly suited to the requirements of the person having an income and also a fund already saved, and desiring to build up a capital by additions of principal and interest. Money grows rapidly at 5 3/4 per cent by this plan!

SCHOOL NOTES

Edited by DOROTHY DRAKE

Technical High

The seniors of the Newton Technical High School held a spelling match last Tuesday at their regular bi-monthly assembly. Five members from each of the four senior divisions participated, every person for himself. These 20 won the right to appear in the spelling match. Raymond Green, history teacher in Newton Tech, acted as judge.

Two prizes were awarded, one for being first to fail and the other to the winner. The first was "won" by Brooks Piper of Newton Centre, and the last by Bertha Lippin of Newton. The Newton Technical High School Senior play, "Daddy Long Legs," recently performed at Newtonville, and which proved to be a tremendous success, is to be repeated on May 14, at the Copley Theatre, Boston.

The entire original cast is to perform, with Dorothy Thornton as the star and Norman Barber as leading man. These two proved to be exceptional actors for amateurs, and drew capacity houses in Newton.

F. A. Day Junior High School

The French Club had charge of the assembly period this week and did excellent work. Three short plays in French which thoroughly amused the pupils were given. Through an interpreter every word of the play was understood. It was an excellent program which closed with the singing of the Marseillaise.

The girls' basketball team defeated the quintet representing Wellesley Junior High in our gym Monday afternoon by the score of 27-22. It was an exciting game, hard fought until the end. The series now stands one game apiece. Arrangements are being made for the final and deciding game.

The boys' basketball team defeated the Angier school team by the score of 7-0 in a very tight game in the Angier School gym. The Angier boys did well as our boys were much taller and heavier than they.

The girls' eighth grade basketball team had a very easy time defeating the seventh grade, the score being 52-3. M. Schultz and E. Clarke made enough points to defeat most any team, scoring 25 and 20 respectively. The members of the seventh grade were so small that they were out-classed from the start.

The moving picture program for next week is sure to be successful, as the committee has secured the picture "Huckleberry Finn." Mark Twain's immortal story of boy life in the last century. This feature shows Huck's adventures, from the time his father took him from the widow Douglas until months later, far down the Mississippi River, where he was restored to his friends and reunited with his bosom chum, Tom Sawyer.

Classical High

A national typewriter company has awarded gold medals to Edith Craig, Mary Connor, Antonette De Simone, Mildred Smith of the Technical School for acquiring a speed of 55 words or over with not more than five errors. This is the first time in the history of the school that any pupil has been able to win a gold medal from the Remington people.

Mary Palmer has been awarded first prize in the recent senior play poster contest at the Classical School. The second prize went to Marion Tappan and the third to Kenneth Barton.

Essays in the Prize Contest under the auspices of the American Chemical Society must be sent in to Mr. Franklin W. Hobbs, 78 Chauncy street, Boston, on or before April 1st. Messrs. Salmon W. Wilder, Robert W. Neff and Hon. George H. Ellis of this city are members of the State Committee in charge of this contest in Massachusetts.

Lasell News

Monday evening of this week Dr. and Mrs. Winslow were guests at dinner of Dr. and Mrs. Neal of Tufts College. In the evening Mrs. Winslow gave a talk on the subject, "Children and Grownups" before the Mothers' Club in which the wives of the faculty of Tufts College are interested.

Tuesday afternoon the Lasell Basketball team played the Cambridge Y. W. C. A. at Lasell and were the winners with a score of 23 to 17.

There was a pupils' concert at Bragdon Hall on Wednesday evening, the program consisting of selections by pupils from the various music departments, Voice, Piano, Violin, and Organ.

At the regular lecture period on Friday afternoon, Miss Evelyn Schmidt, a Lasell graduate and President of the Alumnae Association, will talk about her experiences in Labrador, where she was assisting at the Grenfell Mission last summer.

Friday evening the French Club will give an entertainment at Bragdon Hall consisting of pantomimes and French songs.

Saturday evening the Junior-Senior party will be held at the Auburndale Club Community House.

STATE BOYS' DAY A SUCCESS

A boy running and asked him where he was going and why he was in such a hurry. The boy enthusiastically replied that he was working for State Boys' Day. The gentleman invited him to his home and the boy explained to him fully the meaning of this day. He left with a check for $25.

Another instance of unselfish service was when a worker started out Saturday morning, he was so sick he could hardly leave the house, but he finished his course and nearly collapsed at the end of the day and had to be taken home before the fun was over.

At the Saturday evening rally when final reports were received, the winners of the Treasure Hunt received their reward. A reward of three months' free membership was given to William Pearce and Frank Perry. A second prize of a gold rolled Y. M. C. A. pin was awarded to Raymond Pierrepont.

The ladies who served supper Saturday evening were Miss Emma Page, Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Duly, Mrs. Harry W. Bascom, Mrs. Clyde G. Hess and Mrs. Hartley.

WE CALL FOR BAGGAGE CHECKS

NEWTON HOSPITAL

For week ending March 8: Patients in hospital, 45, paying patients, 72, part paying patients 37, free patients (including babies) 36, patients treated by out patient department 163, accident cases 9, babies born 17, social service calls at hospital 17, at homes 4, patients transported to clinics by social service car 25, by volunteer car 9.

A comparison of this year's hospital figures for the month of February with those of the same month for 1923 are interesting because they show the way in which the facilities of the hospital are taxed to the limit and beyond. Last year it should be remembered that because of influenza the hospital generally had in its contagious ward during February as many as thirty cases on the average. This year it had only six or eight at a time in the contagious ward. It should be remembered also that when the hospital has 116 cases it is supposed to be filled to capacity. The records for the two Februaries are:—

Patients admitted	246	200
Patients discharged	234	193
Largest number during 24 hours	142	143
Smallest number during
24 hours	113	104
Daily average	124.65	122.32

The demand for private rooms is such that at the beginning of this week there was not a room to be had and there were cases waiting for rooms. At one time last week there were five private patients in one of the public wards and in Founders' room one time there were 30 mothers and 30 babies.

At Monday's meeting of the Newton Medical Club at the hospital, Dr. Henry A. Christian, physician in chief at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, talked to the members on "Procedure in the examination of nephritic patients."

During the month of January the out patient department treated 496 cases and at last Saturday's orthopedic clinic there were 65 patients. On Thursday evening the nurses gave a reception at the Nurses' Home to the doctors of the hospital staff and their wives. There were songs by a quartette made up of Miss Ida M. Foster, Miss Bernice M. Speed, Miss Frances M. Rupp and Miss Hazel M. Woolley; solos by Miss Hazel M. Rupp and Miss Muriel Hanson and readings by Miss Flora Bosson. After the musical programme there were refreshments.

Of last week's nine accident cases two were cases of burnings, one, that of a young child, from hot water and the other, that of a young woman, from fire.

Dame Maud McCarthy, chief of the Nursing Service of the British armies during the World War, was a recent visitor at the hospital being accompanied on her visit by Miss Hall, the superintendent of nurses at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital. Dame McCarthy during her visit to this country is the guest of the nursing personnel of the six base hospitals which were organized by the American Red Cross and assigned to the British armies in France. In Washington she is to be entertained by the British embassy.

Miss Rhoda Zeigler of 580 Newtonville avenue, Newtonville, has been appointed secretary to the superintendent of the hospital.

The members of the hospital branch of Y. W. C. A. as members of the student metropolitan Y. W. C. A. attended a recent conference at Herrick House, 490 Beacon street, Boston, on Y. W. C. A. secretaries. They have also been invited to the Y. W. C. A. rooms at Newton and asked to make use of the rooms Friday evenings.

Miss Boynton who is doing volunteer work under the survey being made by the Newton Central Council visited the hospital last week.

The executive committee of the hospital held one of its regular meetings at the hospital Wednesday evening.

Saturday of this week is the day of the sale at the home of Mrs. L. Carter-Fenno, 238 Beacon street, Boston, for the benefit of the vacation home for nurses at Rowley. The sale is between the hours 11 in the morning and six in the afternoon and the nurses of the Newton Hospital have charge of the household table at the sale.

COMMONWEALTH COUNTRY CLUB

"Six World-Famous Short Stories and Their Authors" (with illustrative readings) is the title of the final lecture in the course of luncheon lectures given by Mrs. J. W. Ferguson Kennedy ("Barbara Bradford") out at the Commonwealth Country Club, Monday morning, March 17 at eleven o'clock. The lecture is in aid of the Disabled Veterans.

A large amount of interest is being manifested in the Auction Party to be held at the Club house Wednesday evening, March 19. It is also in aid of the Disabled Veterans, and among those who are very actively interested are Mrs. Harry F. Stimpson, Mrs. Albion M. Boothby, Mrs. James D. Henderson and Mrs. Henry J. Horn. They are being assisted by Misses Clarence C. Colby, James C. Duane, H. F. Jenkins, Harry F. McMin, Franklin Preston, Willard D. Piller, Howard C. Rand, F. H. Silling, Thomas W. Wallace and Frank Wood. The men also are helping make it a success.

On Sunday, March 16 there will be a concert for members and the guests. The artists will be the Boston Trio. There will be two soloists, Frank MacDonald, violin and Frederic Tillotson, piano.

IT'S A RECORD YEAR

Boston Mutual Life Ahead in Departments

The Annual Statement as of December 31st last of the Boston Mutual Life Insurance Company of Boston, now entering upon its 24th year indicates that the past twelve months have been the most successful in its history. Its insurance in force now approaches the $40,000,000 mark and its surplus funds, in excess of all policy reserves required by law, and reservations for policy dividends, now approximate $412,000.

The Boston Mutual Life, which has hitherto confined its operations to Massachusetts, during the past year extended its activities to the state of Maine. It transacts both "Ordinary" and "Industrial" life insurance.

The Company maintains branches and representatives throughout the Commonwealth and its low mortality shows that the quality of business is not sacrificed for quantity and that efficient co-operation exists between the Field and Home office departments.

President Herbert O. Edgerton and Secretary Edward C. Mansfield are the principal executive officers of the Company.

The boards of directors has recently been augmented by the election of Hon. Frank H. Hardison, formerly Insurance Commissioner of Massachusetts, and Charles G. Bancroft, vice-president of the United Shoe Machinery Company.

Yes—it can be done

The finest of cars can be sold at these prices

THE Studebaker name guarantees to you the utmost in fine car construction. For 72 years it has stood for quality, for honest workmanship, for square dealing.

It has always stood for style and class. Remember Studebaker carriages—supreme examples of fine coach building.

Consider our facilities—mark what we have at stake. $90,000,000 in assets, $50,000,000 in plants and equipment, $10,000,000 in body plants alone.

Note our multiplying sales—the sensation of Motordom.

It is fair to assume that we can and do build the finest cars and at Studebaker prices.

What is a fine car?

A fine car means the best materials any cost can buy. We use 35 formulas for steels, each known to be best for its purpose. We pay a premium of 15% on some to get the formulas exact.

All Studebaker models are equipped with Timken bearings. There are few cars in America, regardless of price, which equal ours on this point. In our Light-Six, for instance, we put more Timken bearings than are used in any competitive car, within $1,500 of its price.

A fine car means fine engineering. We spend $500,000 yearly on that department, employing 125 able men.

It means careful construction. We have 12,500 up-to-date machines, 1,120 of our operations are exact to 1/1000 of an inch. 360 are exact to one-half of 1/1000 of an inch.

It means infinite pains. For instance, we machine all surfaces of our crankshafts as was done in Liberty Airplane Motors. We are the only makers of cars at our prices who do this.

It means careful inspection. With us it means 30,000 inspections in the manufacture of each Studebaker car.

Luxury and beauty

It means a car to be proud of. Our body finish includes 15 coats of paint and varnish.

Chase Mohair is used to upholster our closed bodies—made from the soft fleece of Angora goats.

We offer much extra equipment.

Go and See

Why Studebaker Leads

Studebaker is now the world's largest builder of quality automobiles.

Last year, 145,167 fine-car buyers paid $201,000,000 for them.

There are 13 models.

Prices begin at $1,025.

Go see the reasons for this lead. See why sales have almost trebled in three years. Why these cars have become the sensation of Motordom.

You owe that to yourself before you buy a fine car.

Some of our Big-Sixes, for instance, have two nickel-plated bumpers, one or two extra disc wheels with cord tires, a courtesy light, a motometer, steel trunk, etc.

This factory, remember, is the ancient home of fine coach work.

A fine car must be enduring. A Studebaker Big-Six, built in 1918, has so far run 475,000 miles. That means 80 years of ordinary service.

Where savings come

Then how do the Studebakers so far undersell any comparable cars?

Because we build so many. The fixed costs are divided by enormous output—150,000 cars per year.

Because we build our own bodies. The saving to you on some types is up to $300 per car.

Because we make our own forgings, saving another profit there.

Because our plants are modern and efficient. We have spent $38,000,000 on them in the past five years.

Because we keep our men, make them partners, pay them large bonuses to stay. Changing men is expensive.

Because we conduct this business in every way on the best modern lines.

What buyers save

The Studebaker Light-Six Touring Car sells for $1,045. Under ordinary manufacturing conditions it would need to cost you from $1,200 to $1,400.

On our Special-Six the difference might be $400 to $700.

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

As a "constant reader" of the front page of daily journals we are inspired to write the following and call it, "To Washington." With scandal there the air may reek and of corruption savor. Disclosures of the coming week. Include your next-door neighbor. Great reputations go to smash. Mid days of tense excitement. With charges of ill-gotten cash. And possible indictment. Into the mire men may fall. Who can't explain their riches. We cannot weep with them at all. But rather laugh at stiches. Our reason, too, is very plain. We're most unlike the many. No one will ask to explain—They know we've not a penny.

Residents of Wards One and Seven have on their minds a matter of concern, more or less grave. Several of them have seen fit to remind us of the fact and we deem it worthy of presentation in this column. We sincerely hope it doesn't end there. But that's another story, and from present indications, seems likely to continue. And this void has left an impression which impression has grown, the growth leading in but one direction—to the door or doors of the Trustees of the Read Fund. In short, there have been no Read Fund lectures this year and nobody seems to know why. Therefore, the wonder is if the Read Fund Trustees have joined the sojourners at Miami or Bermuda and are sending "Wish-you-were-with-us" postcards to friends back home. As we are informed the provisions of the will of Charles W. Read demand among other things a course of lectures annually for the people of Newton Corner, said lectures to be on scientific subjects. The fund, established by the income on $40,000 which is also to provide for the purchase of scientific books for the library, a picnic or sleighride for the children of Newton Corner and for the relief and assistance of worthy widows in any section of the city. We cannot believe that the trustees are not on the job. Our worry is they have failed to take up, and along with the rest of the community, into their confidence. Should they see fit to make a public explanation we would hasten to hear it. We know these trustees to be worthy, eminent and eloquent. If they think it of sufficient importance to reply to us from the platform of the Bigelow School, the Hummel Club or even via public lecture, there would be a large audience and that their utterances would be as entertaining and engrossing as those of some of the speakers engaged by them in the not remote past.

Our first recollections of Read Fund lectures take us back to Eliot hall. This auditorium is no longer the scene of Newton's gay life, but rather the home of cobwebs, dust, broken-down chairs and a first-class tapper. Incidentally it is not an architectural delight, but we will not press that point since its owners are satisfied to obtain their tenants' monthly checks. Time was when Eliot hall was filled at a Read Fund lecture and also when such lectures took in the best speakers of our time. We can remember some of the very finest public lecturers. Among them was a naval commander, who inspired us with stories of the Spanish war; a war correspondent who told of the South African war and travelers who in their way were unexcelled. One speaker, more scientific than the others, gave a discourse on liquid air. He produced a container, not unlike an ice-cream freezer in appearance, and from it brought forth wonderful things. The facility with which this liquid air caused various substances to congeal made us think it would be a great saving of labor if used to freeze the ice cream in Newton households, especially the one inhabited by us. We will never forget how the "professor" plunged a thick slice of beefsteak into the liquid air and brought it out in a few seconds the same complexion and brittle consistency of chalk. In fact he broke it into small pieces as readily as one may cause chalk to crumble. Since those Eliot hall days we haven't been as regular in our attendance at Read Fund lectures. It is not in a selfish spirit, however, that we write but because we would like to have the trustees do something for those Newton people who truly enjoy these lectures.

Some agitation has been heard of the failure of the State to make tests of milk to determine the purity of the supply in Massachusetts cities. The answer made by State officials is that milk is not a food so far as the statutes of the commonwealth are concerned and that it is up to the municipalities themselves anyway. However, that may be it is reassuring to know that Newton is as well off as any and better off than most cities and towns in the State. We don't have to worry because the milk supply of Newton is guarded by one of the most competent and experienced bacteriologists in this section. We refer to the veteran pharmacist, Arthur Hudson, who has honored us since our boyhood days with his friendly greeting and loyal friendship. Ever since the administration of Mayor Hibbard, and that is some years back, Dr. Hudson has been inspector of the milk supply of Newton. No one is more honest, faithful, more efficient and more conscientious in the performance of his duties than he. It is, not alone in supervising the milk supply that Dr. Hudson has proved so helpful to his fellow citizens. The tests for typhoid, diphtheria and tuberculosis are all made by him. State officials tell us that Dr. Hudson's laboratory is a marvel and the envy of many bacteriologists. He is an expert whose reports of analysis are accepted without question and whose opinions are sought by many who happen to occupy more imposing positions in the professional world. For years Dr. Hudson has given his time and energies to this most important part of Newton's welfare. And how has the city responded? When he first started the position paid about $200 but the amount was raised $100 after the city fathers began to realize what Dr. Hudson was doing for Newton. Now when the work has grown and the number of tests of milk and examinations of cultures has multiplied many times over Dr. Hudson now gets only $750 a year. The officials in Newton who dare fix the low salaries paid some of its best men ought to receive a medal for bravery. They would be mobbed in other Massachusetts cities if they offered such paltry sums for scientific work. But Dr. Hudson would be the last man to speak of that. He is a thorough chemist and delights in research. Only the other day when we sought to congratulate him on the fact that Newton has so pure a milk supply in view of the fact that its citizens use more than 24,000 quarts daily Dr. Hudson only said, "Well, the milk dealers in Newton deserve a lot of credit. They are as clean a lot as one could ask for."

It's a dull day at the State House when somebody fails to suggest a new way of getting rid of the unexpended $2,000,000 collected through the extra poll tax for the soldiers' bonus in Massachusetts.

The greatest surprise we have had in some time came when we read that at some of the town meetings in Massachusetts this month the polls were open from 5.30 A. M. to 8 P. M. That's giving the voters a chance, we'll say. The only danger is that election officers will be charging for overtime and perhaps somebody will seek to protect the poor voter by demanding for him an 8-hour working day.

After reading the exchange of amenities between Gov. Cox and U. S. Senator David I. Walsh in connection with the latter's failure to defend the integrity of President Coolidge on the floor of the Senate one can easily see what a merry scrap would ensue should the Governor become the Republican candidate to oppose Senator Walsh's reelection. That would be a campaign without a dull moment, we'll say.

NOTABLE GATHERING

A notable gathering of artistic and literary folk from Brookline and surrounding towns as well as Newton, met on Monday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Everett W. Varney, 34 Tyler terrace, Newton Centre.

In introducing the program, Mrs. Varney referred to the entertainment of the evening as a dress rehearsal as the plays were to be given later in the week before the Fortnightly Club of Newton Centre.

The first play, a translation from the Russian called "Love of One's Neighbors," was a satire by Leonid Andreyev. It dealt with the Russian love of excitement, the inefficiency of the police, the importance of the military class, and the incapacity of the press. Each class was represented by a type, the cast being a large one. The following took part: Mr. Lawrence Ellis, Mr. Tuttle, Mr. Sears, Mr. Deekman. The children in this group which represented the tourists were Harriet Fitz, Rachel Wilder, Bernard Rockwood, John Richardson. A lady and her little girl were represented by Mrs. Rickard and Ruth Bergeson. Mrs. Mance was the militaristic woman. Narcissa Varney, a little lady, Mr. Loucks, the press correspondent, Mr. Rickard, the pastor, Mr. Cummings, the hotel proprietor, Mr. Amos, the husband and the lady with the little girl. The unknown man whose ticklish situation formed the plot of the play was Mr. Everett W. Varney.

The second play, a translation from the Spanish by the Quinteros, called "A Sunny Morning," dealt with the meeting of a pair of lovers after many years and their endeavor to hide their identity from each other. The play was very well acted. Mrs. Lorenz Muther taking the part of the Donna, Miss Betty Gordon of her attendant, while Mr. Warren Pierce was the Don and Lorry Muther his attendant. The Spanish costumes added much to the effectiveness of the piece.

The third piece, "The Noble Lord," was an unusually spicy sketch with a unique situation and very clever dialogue, by Mr. Percival Wilde. Mr. Louis Seagraves looked and acted the part of the English lord to perfection, and Mrs. Priscilla Clark Shirley was charming in the opposite part. Refreshments concluded a most delightful evening.

MISS BASSETT'S READING

Miss Sara Ware Bassett will read from her stories at the Abundant Congregational Church at eight P. M. on Wednesday, March 19. The entertainment will be a genuine treat for Miss Bassett's stories of Cape Cod have grown into a popularity rivaling Lincoln's. They are humorous and quaint, true to Cape Cod character and scenes, and they are all pointed and well worth while. Moreover, Miss Bassett reads them in a very pleasing fashion.

MAKING YOUR HOUSE A HOME

While the personalities of the members of a family are the vital elements which go to make that home, the choice and arrangement of its furnishings are significant reflectors of those personalities. If you are obliged to do the best you can with a mixed collection of hand-me-downs, you must needs rely chiefly on the arrangement of the pieces and color combinations of walls, floor and curtain furnishings for the effect you wish to secure, with sometimes upholstery or repainting of odd pieces of furniture to lend the right note. But if you are choosing new furnishings, even though they may be inexpensive, the questions of utility, durability, style, material, color harmony, and the purpose for which they are intended, must play a large part in your selection if yours is to be a real soul-satisfying home. In either case, whether you are planning the rooms of a palatial residence or a three-room apartment, you may get many helpful hints from the illustrations of various styles of room arrangements and home furnishings now on exhibition in the lobby of the Newton Free Library.

In addition, the following books offer many useful suggestions in planning the details of your home: For the apartment dweller, "The Decoration and Furnishing of Apartments," by Herts. WSH-H44 For the small-home person: "Inexpensive Furnishings in Good Taste," by Wellick. WSH-W15 A small book, well illustrated, with many excellent suggestions. "Practical Book of Interior Decoration," by Eberlein. WSH-E16 This book discusses the subject by periods, and in the second part gives definite specific suggestions in considerable detail. "Be Your Own Decorator," by Burbank. WSH-B59 Discusses the subject especially from the point of view of making the room most suitable for its specific purpose. "Principles of Home Decoration," by Wheeler. WSH-W56 Emphasizing especially the color note. "Interior Decoration," by Parsons. WSH-P25 An excellent general book of information for either the small house owner or the possessor of a big house. "Home Decoration," by Priestman. WSH-P33 "Interior Decoration for the Small Home," by Rolfe. WSH-R64 "Furnishing of a Modest Home," by Daniels. WSH-D22 For the home with more and larger rooms: "Art in the House," by von Falke. WSH-F18 "Inside the House of Good Taste," by Wright. WSH-W935 "Homes of Character," by Newson. WSH-N477 (Shows exteriors as well as interiors of both larger and smaller houses in good taste.) "Book of Home Building and Decoration," by Brown. WSH-B81 (Finely illustrated) "Decorative Styles and Periods," by Candee. WW-C16 (With illustration distinctive of each.) "The House Dignified," its design, its arrangement, its decoration, by French. WSH-F88 "A Book of Distinctive Interiors," by Vollmer. WSH-V88 "Decorations of Houses," by Wharton and Codman. WSH-W55 Books of General Interest: "Art of Interior Decoration," by Wood. WSH-W85 "House Furnishing and Decoration," by McClure and Eberlein. WSH-M13 "Home Furnishing, Practical and Artistic," by Kellogg. WSH-K29 "The New Interior: Modern Decorations for the Modern Home," by Adler. WSH-A23 "Good Taste in Home Furnishing," by Sell. THE NEWTON ARCHERS

Friday evening, March 7, the Newton Archers held their annual meeting, supper and entertainment at the Newton Centre Woman's Club House. A delicious supper was served to about 50 members and guests. Mrs. Burton Payne Gray of Newton Centre being in charge. Many of the archers came in Robin Hood, Maid Marian, Indian, or other appropriate costumes. Prominent among the costumes were the beautiful Indian ones worn by Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus E. Dallin of Arlington Heights.

The officers of 1923 were re-elected for the coming season, Mr. Louis C. Smith of Newton Centre, president; Mrs. E. W. Frenz of Melrose, vice-president, and Miss Ruth Brewer of Newton Centre, secretary-treasurer. At the close of the business meeting, the Association presented to their President, Mr. Smith, a gold watch for appreciation of his unselfish and tireless work for the cause of archery and for the Newton Archers in particular. This job had on it a beautiful representation of an Indian shooting, which was designed by a member, Mr. Cyrus E. Dallin, the sculptor, as an emblem to be used only for the Newton Archers. The first time struck from the die was used in this form for Mr. Smith.

The entertainment following was in charge of Mrs. E. W. Frenz. An old Indian game demonstrated by Mr. Dallin and participated in by all, and an imitation radio concert originated by Mr. E. Frenz of the Youth's Company (Editorial force) were especially enjoyed.

The opening outdoor season of the Newton Archers is April 19th. Succeeding Saturday afternoons and holidays will find some of them on their range on the Newton Centre playground. The association will gladly welcome visitors. The officers will be glad to recommend individual members qualified to show about shooting or advise about buying equipment.

EDITORIAL

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank E. Goodwin states that statistics indicate that six hundred persons will be killed in Massachusetts the current year by persons operating motor cars while under the influence of liquor. Six hundred lives sacrificed that the unshackled American (?) citizen can exercise his right to drink intoxicating liquor whenever he pleases and run a juggernaut of destruction on our public highways. Six hundred families made to suffer and mourn the loss of loved ones merely to satisfy the appetite of six hundred brutes masquerading in the shape of human beings. Six hundred lives of undoubted usefulness wiped out by men who become potential murderers by their own volition.

It makes one heart-sick to think that the great American habit of indifference will tolerate such a condition. Every person operating an automobile should be required under the most severe penalties to keep strictly sober and to be as far above suspicion of liquor as Caesar's wife. Our judges, district attorneys and above all our juries should be made to realize by the force of public opinion that this condition must cease at once.

The death of Chief Randlett, who for so many years has carried the burden, not only of fire protection, but of the inspection of electric wires in this city, should lead to the consideration of a complete separation of the Fire and Wire departments. With the tremendous growth of the use of electricity in this city, the supervision of electrical installation in our houses is large enough to demand the whole time and work of some one official, who ought not to be called for service in other departments. We suggest that this matter be carefully considered before an appointment is made to fill the office of Chief of Fire Department.

"Six hundred of our fellow citizens are going to lose their lives as the result of motor vehicle accidents this year, and 18,000 are going to be injured. If the judges, district attorneys and juries could visualize the agony and suffering that will attend this wholesale slaughter, there would be a tightening up on law enforcement all along the line. The police are doing nobly, but what is the use if someone else is letting down the bars?"

In these pregnant words, Registrar of Motor Vehicles, Frank E. Goodwin, calls attention to the serious condition engendered by the increasing use of the automobile. Let us hope that his words will be heeded by the law enforcement officers everywhere.

The sane and sensible solution of the school congestion problem is to build a new senior high school on the south side, so designed as to be later turned into a junior high school. The immediate use of this building as a senior high school will relieve the present high school of some 400 pupils, and allow time to build the junior high schools which are under consideration. Incidentally it will be within the financial ability of the city to handle—a matter of considerable importance to the tax payers, if not to the school committee.

The recent conference between the special justices of our district courts and Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank E. Goodwin has undoubtedly helped to make it easier in the future to punish the drunken automobilist as he or she deserves. No one's life is safe so long as these irresponsible drivers are allowed to use our highways and we believe the community will stand solidly behind Registrar Goodwin in his efforts to improve this serious condition.

Preferential voting requires intelligent co-operation on the part of the voter. Newton voters may be intelligent, but they certainly do not co-operate on this question.

With the coming of Spring the need of traffic regulations is more and more pressing. The city government should take early action on this matter.

UNDER THE GILDED DOME

The Legislative calendars are growing in size as the committees speed up the pace in reporting on the numerous matters under consideration. Considerable interest is shown over the hearing this week relative to the administration of the office of the state auditor. Mr. Cook is rather unique in the fact that he plays a lone hand in politics and has thus far been most successful in his candidacies. Elected state auditor in the dying days of the A. P. A. movement, his continued re-election to the office has been vigorously, but unsuccessfully fought. There are rumors of neglect of duty, and failure to co-operate with other departments in carrying on the work of the state, and his duties have been curtailed several times by the Legislature. The present movement, seems to have considerable backing, and the action of the committee on Rules will be awaited with interest.

The Committee on Education has voted leave to withdraw on the bill to increase the age for compulsory school attendance from 14 to 15 years. Some of the good people in this city who are advocating this measure might be interested in the statement made by labor representatives in favoring the bill, that if children could be kept in school longer there would be more jobs for the grown-ups.

The Judiciary committee has reported a bill to provide for a system of compulsory automobile insurance. Under the measure owners of automobiles must be bonded to the extent of at least $5000 to satisfy within 30 days claims against them of persons who have been caused to suffer bodily injuries or who make claims for property damages.

The bill states that whoever operates or permits to be operated an automobile or trailer with knowledge the bond has not been provided shall be punished by a fine of not less than $100.

The bill's provisions would apply to the registration of the year 1925 and thereafter. It gives the Insurance Commissioner power to adjust rates charged by insurance companies.

Street railway employees in large numbers appeared this week before the Legislative Committee on Street Railways to urge enactment of legislation requiring street railway companies to establish an eight-hour day for their employees. Various organizations went on record in favor. The bill provides that street railway employees shall not be compelled to work more than eight hours in 11 per day. The present law allows nine in 11.

Judiciary has voted to report adversely on the bill to require women to serve as jurors. There were three dissenters.

The committee also voted to report favorably on the redrafted bill providing that all citizens shall be liable to jury service even though their names are not on the voting list.

Senator Abbott B. Rice has presented his own petition, which was admitted under a suspension of the rules, for legislation to increase the number of superior court judges by the addition of ten special justices. Under the present law the Superior Court bench consists of a chief justice and twenty-seven associate justices.

Practicing physicians and members of the Massachusetts Medical Society appeared this week before the Legislative Committee on Public Health in favor of a petition of Dr. Charles F. Painter of Newton to change the composition of the State Board of Registration in Medicine. Opponents to the measure claimed the bill is intended to eliminate medical colleges for the poor and to put the State board under the jurisdiction of the American Medical Association.

Representative Early has missed several unimportant roll calls the past week on account of sickness.

minutes if they were good, and three minutes if they were very good. The addresses went the time limit without interruption, with two stories of ministerial experiences.

Dr. Edward T. Sullivan, who had been confined to his bed, as a result of a fall a few weeks ago, was carried to the church by some of the parishioners. He enjoyed the occasion with his usual enthusiasm, and made a speech from his comfortable wheelchair.

Dr. Norton, of the Methodist Church, then introduced the speaker of the evening and congratulated the Clubs on the opportunity of hearing a "most eminent Scotch Journalist, Dr. Norman Campbell, who has travelled in America." Dr. Campbell made a brilliant speech on America, its scenes and scenic features, and its institutions, from a traveller's and journalist's point of view, and was highly entertaining, singing several Scotch songs. After the removal of his disguise, he was recognized as a singer and after-dinner speaker well known in the village.

The affair was a memorable one and gave fresh impetus to the already existing good-fellowship between the churches of the village.

enthusiasm, and the whole play had been coached by Ralph Summers so that a good degree of smoothness and continuity was obtained. The young men who played the parts of the young women were exceedingly well chosen and costumed, so that except for their masculine voices one would hardly have known they did not belong originally to the fair sex.

The committee in charge was Alexander Fraser, Chairman, Charles E. Hilliard, Business Manager, George R. Cole, Stage Manager, and Fred S. Van Wormer.

The cast included Kenneth Bourne, Alexander Fraser, Jr., Fred G. Van Wormer, Jay K. Brooks, William R. Hutchins, Milton F. Hall, Maurice C. Hutchins, Kendall D. Bass, Edward R. Gammons.

A good sum was netted for the work of the Young Men's Club.

SOCIAL WORKERS' LUNCHEON

The Newton Central Council gave a luncheon last Friday, to introduce four new workers in Newton, and also to give all the workers a chance to meet each other.

The chief guests were Mayor Childs and Miss Caroline Peirce, Secretary of the Y. W. C. A., Miss Nydia E. Minchin, Head Worker of West Newton Neighborhood House, Mrs. Alice W. Hay, Assistant Director of West Newton Music School, and Richard H. Brown, Executor, Boy Scouts.

Other organizations represented were: Girl Scouts, Caroline Freeman, Director; Playground Commission, Ernest Hermann, Superintendent; Saco Lowell Shops, Ethel W. Sablin, Welfare Worker; Stearns School Center, Pauline Yetton, Director; H. W. Bascom, Y. M. C. A. General Secretary; Newton District Nursing, Marie M. Knowles, Superintendent; Newton Hospital, Bertha W. Allen, Superintendent; District Court, Assistant Probation Officer, Mrs. Celia Wellman; Newton Welfare Bureau, Secretary, Mrs. Carrie Hull; Newton Central Council, Executive Secretary, Arthur Dunham; and Newton Girls' Club, Secretary, Louise Lovett.

Mr. Bascom presided and after the luncheon each worker had an opportunity to state who they were and what they represented.

ROTARY CLUB

Col. H. H. Sheen, the last officer of the American Army of Occupation to leave Germany, was the guest and speaker at the Newton Rotary Club on Monday noon, being present as a representative of the American Committee for the Relief of German Children.

Colonel Sheen gave an especially interesting address, describing in an entertaining way the experiences of the American Army of Occupation on the Rhine, and picturing vividly the present deplorable conditions in that section of Germany where the inhabitants are suffering great hardship as a result of the war. He spoke especially of the conditions imposed on the children who, through no fault of theirs, are obliged to go hungry and suffer privation and want, as well as lack of opportunity to even grow up to be healthy men and women, citing this as one of the most deplorable aftermaths of the great conflict which was waged and lost by their fathers.

The Directors of the Club have announced a ladies' night, to be held at the Newton Club on Monday evening, March 31. Dinner will be served at seven o'clock with an address by a prominent speaker to follow.

NEWTON CLUB

In spite of the inclemency of the weather, there were eight tables of Mah Jong at the Newton Club on Wednesday afternoon. Prizes were won by Miss Beatrice Eddy, Mrs. Burkhardt of Brookline and Mrs. John Keon. The hostesses were Mrs. Harold D. Billings, and Mrs. Mark D. Emerson.

There will be an evening bridge this evening, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Southworth and Mr. and Mrs. Ellison Day being the hosts and hostesses.

On Tuesday, March 18, there will be a Neighborhood Dinner at 6.30, with Mrs. Ralph Sommers as chairman. Mah Jong will be played. The host and hostesses will be Mr. and Mrs. Ed Campbell and Mrs. H. O. Williams.

A Ladies' Afternoon Bridge will be held on Friday, March 21, at 2.30. The hostesses will be Mrs. Noyes, and Mrs. Newton.

EFFECTS OF THE STORM

The Edison Electric Light Company states that the city of Newton was one of the hardest hit in the state by the blizzard this week. Reports from police officers and employees of the company show that after the snow had ceased to fall there were more than 500 incandescent lights out about the city. It will be some time before conditions are back to normal. Wires and poles in various parts of the city are down, police and fire signal systems have both been affected. The worst stretch in the city lies on Commonwealth avenue, between the Boston line at Lake street to Lowell avenue, Newtonville, where all the arc lights are out. Tractors and automobile plows, together with the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway plows, have so cleared the main streets that this morning the main arteries through the city were free of all snow.

Both schools have mowed down all league opposition and were this week victors in semi-final encounters over Melrose High and Brookline High teams, respectively.

Childish Philosophy.

A little girl aged six was asked to state the difference between pride and vanity. After considerable thought she replied: "Pride means, 'I don't think much of you'; vanity means, 'What do you think of me?'"—Boston Transcript.

MOST HOUSES KEPT TOO DRY

Chill Comes From the Absence of Moisture in the Air, It Is Declared.

What makes bad air bad? Most authorities agree that the factors that distinguish good from bad air are proper temperature, proper humidity and adequate movement. The maximum temperature of rooms for health is about 72 F. Most Americans like the temperature much higher and complain of feeling chilly when it is at this level. Why?

The principal reason is that the air is too dry. Dry air means that excessive evaporation of moisture takes place from the skin, mouth and nose, and this evaporation takes heat away from the body. The worst combinations between temperature humidity are cold damp air, warm moist air and excessively dry air artificially warmed. The comfort zone lies between 68 and 70 F. with a humidity between 30 and 55 per cent.

The average indoor room in winter, according to Ellen A. Reynolds in Hygeia, has a humidity between 15 and 22 per cent and to offset the great loss of body heat which this causes the temperature is kept far too high. Evidence is accumulating in cases of respiratory diseases to show that a small decrease in the relative humidity affects the death rate appreciably.

LEARN HOW THE MOLE LIVES

Naturalists Obtain Several Nests of the Animal That Reveal His Habits.

The American Museum of Natural History offered a prize of $25 for a nest which would show how the mole lives, and several were forthcoming. Dr. F. A. Lucas, director of the museum, said accurate information hitherto not available to scientists, had been obtained. "This is the first authentic information about a mole's nesting habits I know of," he said, "and as far as I know the groups which we can make out of our specimens will be the first in any American museum. I had been unable to find any one who knew anything about the family life of a mole until I received the accurate information of the finders of the nests we now have." Doctor Lucas plans to use the newspapers in further hunts for unusual specimens of animal life. He said that for three years he had been trying to get hold of a family of young raccoons under a month old. In spite of a reward of $100 for such a family he has never been able to get one. He is also after a family of young wolves. —Scientific American.

MEET YOUR INSURANCE PAYMENTS

This easy way

Scratch and scramble at the last minute is no sane way to handle an insurance premium.

It's a fixed charge, something you've got to "bump into" each year, just as certain as you met the last one. So why not provide the funds in an easy, "painless" fashion?

Is your premium $100? Divide that into 52 parts (roughly two dollars a week) and deposit that two dollars with us drawing interest. Maybe you have some other fixed charges—add them all up, make your division by 52, and bring or send us this small amount each week.

When the payment is due we'll have the money ready and a bit of a surprise in a nice little present of added interest.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

MISS GRACE M. BURT, Editor

The policy of the General Federation of Women's Clubs is outlined in the News for March as follows:

"While the general Federation of Women's Clubs is an ardent adherent of measures that will lead to the firm establishment of international understanding and peace; and while we realize that aggressive warfare is quite outside of the policy of the United States—we believe that in the tumultuous state of the present world, the Government of this country should maintain an army and a navy adequate to preserve the security and dignity of the country; such dignity and security being themselves a great contribution to international stability.

Mrs. Alice Ames Winter, president of the General Federation in the same issue of the official organ, says of the new Headquarters in Washington:

"Our national Headquarters is now working toward an outfit which is going to make it more and more useful to clubs throughout the country, and requests for assistance pour in every day. With two trained young women in the office devoting themselves to this matter of personal help to all club women and with its own apparatus for multigraphing and mimeographing and even simple forms of printing, we are working steadily toward the kind of thing you all want, toward that mutual understanding that we can get only by having such a focus for all our interests. The Tea Room is being put on a working basis and as you probably know there are few better rooms available for visiting clubwomen in Washington. If you go to the Capital, be sure to go and see Headquarters (make reservations to stop there if possible), and realize both what it is doing and how much more efficient we can render it. Remember, the General Federation is You made National."

Mrs. Winter urges the raising of $60,000 before June to put the Headquarters on its feet and to provide a Maintenance fund to meet the running expenses. "In permanent investments," she says, "the General Federation have now $100,000 endowment; about $100,000 in the house, and $75,000 in the War Service fund."

State Federation

Woman's Club Week at Amherst is already arousing much interest among club women, and those who are even considering going will do well to speak for reservations. About one hundred can be accommodated in the dormitory, and after that is filled, rooms will be assigned in private houses. Meals will be served in the college cafeteria. The expense entailed will certainly come within $15, not including railroad fares, for which it is hoped to secure reduced rates. Reservations should be secured from Mrs. Harry A. Burnham, 68 Brookside avenue, Newtonville.

Thursday, March 20, 10 A. M. and 1.30 P. M., State Conference of Conservation of Natural Resources at Boston Public Library Hall. All club women cordially welcomed.

At 1 P. M., the same day, Public Health "Quiz Luncheon" at Boston Masonic Club, 446 Beacon street. Tickets may be secured by sending check, $1.25, and addressed stamped envelope to Mrs. S. H. Remick, 39 Middlesex avenue, Reading, not later than March 18.

Local Announcements

Tomorrow afternoon the Newton

Highlands Shakespeare Club will meet with Mrs. F. H. Stratton, 15 Glenmore Terrace. Mrs. W. E. Sanderson will be in charge of the quiz on the 3rd and 4th acts of "All's Well that Ends Well."

Current Fiction is the subject of study for Monday's meeting of the Newton Highlands C. L. S. C., which will be held with Mrs. Edward G. Swift, of Woodcliff road.

Dr. Charles Macfie Campbell, a graduate of Edinburgh University, a past professor of psychiatry of John Hopkins University and also of Harvard Medical School, will lecture before the Waban Woman's Club on "The Life of a Nervous Child" on Monday, March 17th, at two o'clock, (note the change in the hour.) Dr. Campbell has been for a long time keenly interested in the mental health of children, and is the author of many professional publications upon the subject. This is an unusual opportunity to hear one of the best informed psychiatrists of the day, whose work has brought merited pre-eminence in his profession. Songs by Mrs. Clifford LeClear, one of the club members, will add pleasure to the meeting.

On March 18, the Auburndale Review Club will meet at the home of Miss Florence Bridgman, 90 Hancock street. Mrs. Ernest Braithwaite will read a paper on "The Moslem Invasion," and Miss Ella Smith, one on "The Rosetta Stone Hieroglyphics." Music will also be furnished.

"The Spirit of Youth in Modern Verse" is the subject chosen by Dr. J. Edgar Park for his lecture before the Newton Highlands Woman's Club on March 18. Members may bring guests by securing cards from the treasurer at the regular fee. Mrs. Raymond Fuller will contribute several Spring songs to the musical portion of the program.

New classes in dressmaking and milinery are opening this month, and members wishing to join should send their names to the Home Economics chairman, Mrs. Harris P. Gray. The Conservation chairman will arrange a schedule of bird walks just as soon as the lists are filled. Telephone Cent. Newt. 1888-W. On March 21 and 22 "The Rainbow Revue," a musical extravaganza, will be presented under the direction of Mr. C. Hassler McCracken, with Catherine Sullivan, Marion McKean, Robert Ross, and others as its entertainers in varied and effective ly set numbers. Lydia Hubbard and Sylvia Riley will appear in solo dances. The chorus includes the Misses Mary Reynolds, Mildred McDonald, Madeline Powell, Olive Smith, Virginia Mason, Dorothy Frost, Ruth Fairchild, Marion Bonner, Katharine Bonner, Marion Tapper, Elton Beers, Virginia Lee, Helen Elwell, Dorothy Swett, Doris Wilkerson, Marjorie Wheaton, Elsie Wilkie and Eleanor Newton. Miss Marion Dorr heads the list of committee chairmen. She has charge of the tickets for both the tables and the balcony. The Saturday evening supply is exhausted but Friday evening tickets may still be secured. Mrs. Wm. F. Coan has charge of the program, which will include over a dozen pages of advertisements. Mrs. Charles Hawkes with twenty assistants will furnish refreshments at the tables, and Mrs. Lawson Oakes and Mrs. Robert Bonner will supply the cast. Dancing with exceptional music has been planned for both evenings.

Girl Scout interests and achievements will engage the attention of the Newtonville Woman's Club on Tuesday afternoon, March 18. Miss Dorothy Dean, director of the Girl Scouts of Metropolitan Boston, and Miss Caroline Freeman, director of the Girl Scouts of all Newton, will be the speakers. Several interesting features have been planned for the afternoon: among them, music by the bugle and drum corps, a demonstration of scout activities, and a description of merit badge emblems. A light lunch, under the supervision of Mrs. T. B. Kinrade, will be served the girls at the close of the program.

Increasing interest is being shown in the two one-act plays which are being rehearsed under the direction of the Education committee, Miss Maud L. Brownell, chairman. Miss Louise Wetherbee and Mrs. A. L. Wakefield are coaching. The proceeds of the play will be devoted to the scholarship fund. Through the Volunteer Service committee, has come a request for books of fiction and travel for the Gov. John A. Andrew Home. Such books will be greatly appreciated and may be left with Mrs. R. E. Ellis, 949 Washington street, chairman of the committee. The millinery class conducted by Miss F. L. Williams for the economic department, Mrs. W. G. Roberts, chairman, has steadily increased in popularity and the requests for enrollment in the spring class have far exceeded the number that can be accommodated. The class will meet with Mrs. R. T. Lapham, 80 Central avenue.

At the meeting of the Social Science Club on Wednesday, March 19, Professor Kirsopp Lake, Winn Professor of Ecclesiastical History at Harvard University, will give a lecture on "The Bible as Literature." Guests may be invited.

There will be an unusually interesting course of three lectures on Modern Poetry with readings from some of the poets, by Rev. George Lawrence Parker at the Newton Centre Woman's Club House Tuesday mornings, March 18th and 25th, and April 1st at 10.30 A. M. These lectures are not limited to club members. If interested, telephone Mrs. M. I. Stone, C. N. 2379-M.

The Literature Round-Table of the Newton Community Club will meet with Mrs. Edward O. Gruener, 177 Franklin street, at half past two o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, March 19th, instead of on Thursday as usual. Lord Charnwood's Life of Roosevelt will be considered under the leadership of Miss Bradshaw.

Local Happenings

It was most unfortunate that the severe storm of this last Tuesday deprived so many club members and possible guests of the evening's entertainment provided by the Literature committee of the Auburndale Woman's Club, for it was a program of information and pleasure. Music, with Miss Marjorie Possett, a skilled violinist, Mr. Dean W. Hanscom, tenor, who always delights with his selections; and the Ampico, which accompanied as sympathetically as a real person, and also furnished two solos, made a fitting setting for the talk on "What's What Among the New Books" by Mr. John Clair Minot, Literary Editor of the Boston Herald.

Starting with warm praise for the list of books in the club's book exchange, he spoke in detail of some of the more important ones, telling of the general standing in current fiction of many popular authors, both on this side and the other of the water. With kindly wit, and keen judgment, he renewed and aroused strong desire to immediately go and purchase a long list and indulge in an orgy of fiction and romance. All his hearers felt more than repaid for braving the storm. Dancing followed the meeting.

Wednesday's meeting of the Newton Social Science Club was omitted on account of the storm.

THE SCHICK TEST

Editor of the Graphic, Sir:

Now that the excitement caused by the use of frozen toxin-antitoxin mixture has died down and the fear of untoward results has passed, it seems worth while to consider what bearing, if any, the happening has had upon the truth of the theories upon which the work of artificial protection against diphtheria is based.

The Schick test is based upon the theory that certain persons have antitoxin enough in their blood to neutralize any diphtheria infection to which they may be exposed, and are thus naturally immune to diphtheria. Others have less than enough to neutralize the infection and are susceptible to the disease and further the degree of susceptibility varies inversely to the amount of anti-toxin which the individual may have.

In the test a minute quantity of toxin is injected into the skin—not enough to infect him but enough to cause a slight redness of the skin, if he is susceptible, but if he is immune, it is neutralized by his natural antitoxin and no redness occurs.

In practice we find all degrees of susceptibility, from the person who has a marked redness extending for an inch or more around the site of the injection followed by a branny scaling of the skin, to the person who shows no redness at all.

This variation is not due to any difference in the amount of the test solution used, for the test is quantitative and the same amount must be used in each case, but is due to the difference in the amount of natural antitoxin which each individual possesses.

If this theory is correct there should be a difference in the severity of the symptoms which different persons show when attacked by diphtheria, depending upon the amount of natural anti-toxin which the patient has, although the severity might be somewhat modified by the virulence of the particular infection.

Now let us see what happened when a number of susceptible persons received a dose of toxin-antitoxin mixture which had been frozen, a process which we now know, destroyed the neutralizing power of the anti-toxin so that they were practically infected by diphtheria exactly as they would have been if they had received a dose of ordinary toxin, except that the amount of the infection was the same in quantity and virulence for each individual—a factor which cannot be known in ordinary diphtheria infection.

In Bridgewater, when the tests were made the results were classified as "slightly positive," "positive" and "markedly positive," thus roughly recording the degree of susceptibility in each case. It was found that the reaction produced by the frozen mixture was in accordance with the degree of susceptibility shown by the test and that the "slightly positives," who had almost enough natural antitoxin to protect themselves, showed a less degree of reaction than the other groups, thus showing that the theory on which we rely is based on fact.

Artificial immunization is based upon the theory that when a person is infected by diphtheria bacilli, these organisms immediately begin to produce a toxin, which, being absorbed by the patient, produces the symptoms which we call diphtheria. As soon as the toxin begins to be absorbed it stimulates, by its presence, certain constituents in the blood which start to produce antitoxin to neutralize the toxin. Roughly speaking, if the patient produces antitoxin quickly enough and in sufficient quantity, he neutralizes the toxin and gets well, and, if he does not do this, he dies. Further than this, the antitoxin, after it has done its work, remains in the blood so that the patient is protected against subsequent attacks.

In artificial immunization advantage is taken of this stimulating action of the toxin and a small quantity of it, so neutralized by antitoxin that it produces little or no local or constitutional reaction, is introduced into the tissues whence it finds its way into the blood and starts the production of antitoxin.

In other words we do, artificially, exactly what is done naturally when a person "catches" diphtheria only we control the process by using a definite amount of toxin so neutralized as to be harmless and in order to control it still further, this small dose is given at intervals of a week instead of at one time.

Theoretically there should be a production of antitoxin starting after the first dose and continuing until the maximum is reached, being stimulated by the repeated doses.

That this really happens was shown very clearly by the Concord cases in which four persons had had their first dose 10 days before the frozen mixture was used. These four had much milder reactions than the others in the group, who were having their first dose when the frozen mixture was used, thus showing very clearly that they had begun the production of antitoxin and were partially protected by it.

Thus it appears that these cases, which at first seemed to be so serious, and to furnish an argument against the whole procedure, have in reality been of value because they have shown that the procedure is based on sound fact and does protect persons against infection by diphtheria, thus strengthening rather than weakening the case of its advocates.

FRANCIS GEO. CURTIS,
Chairman, Newton Board of Health.

ST. JAMES THEATRE

The production of "The Faithful Heart" a melodramatic comedy by Monckton Hoffe at the St. James next week will give the various members of the Boston Stock Company unusually splendid opportunities. It was produced at the Broadway Theatre last season by Max Marcin and received widespread and favorable comment from New York critics. It will be produced for the first time in Boston.

UNDER THE GILDED DOME

For the Week of March 7

The bill to repeal the present preferential method of voting at city elections was given a hearing this week and was supported by Rupert C. Thompson, chairman of the Republican city committee, ex-mayor Charles E. Hatfield, Alderman Thomas W. White, Dr. Guy M. Winslow, Representative Early, ex-alderman Harry D. Cabot and ex-alderman W. S. Wagner. City Solicitor Bartlett opposed the bill in behalf of Mayor Childs and Alderman Daniel O'Connell also remonstrated. In the audience were also noted Will C. Eddy, and Alderman John H. Gordon.

There have been numerous roll calls this week, the Democrats taking delight in having the members placed on record on many and even the most trivial questions.

Such important measures as old age pensions and others of like nature ought to have a roll call but considerable time could be saved if the use of the roll call could be limited more than the present rules require.

All three Newton representatives voted with the majority against old age pensions which was defeated by a vote of 98 to 125, a vote which indicates that this most important matter will certainly command a majority of the Legislature. They also voted together in opposition to the bill to require resident physicians in certain hospitals, which was killed 65 to 104.

On the matter of increased pensions for school janitors, the delegation divided. Representatives Early and Saltzman voted in opposition and the writer favoring it. This bill was favorably acted on at first by a vote of 106 to 85, but later in the week was killed by a vote of 122 to 102.

The writer has decided views on the matter of pensions, and opposes all extensions of the present unscientific non-contributory pensions. At the same time, in cases where persons now receiving inadequate pensions in the non-contributory class, it is only right and just that such pensions should be increased commensurate with the increased cost of living.

The committee on Taxation has favorably reported the bill to increase the exemption granted to persons with small incomes to $1,000. This is said to affect the revenues of the state from the income tax to the extent of a million dollars and it is doubtful if the alert Wards and Means Committee will give its approval to such a measure. A possible compromise is an exemption of $500.

No opposition was expressed at the hearing yesterday morning on the bill to give Playground Commission control over the recreational use of Crystal Lake, one of the "great" ponds of the state.

Representative Early and the writer missed two unimportant roll calls yesterday on account of the funeral of Chief Randall.

THE FROEBEL SCHOOL FIRE

To the Editor:
May I call your attention to two errors in the report of the fire at the Froebel School, published in your last issue?

The first a minor matter, spoke of the school as a Kindergarten. The Froebel school is a primary school, having the first four grades and no kindergarten.

The second is of more importance because it does an injustice to the teachers—and that is your account of the cause of the fire. So far as I can learn from the school department, Miss Moore and Miss Newell are known that it was not due to any carelessness on the part of the teachers.

Neither teacher was in the attic, where the fire started, during that day, nor is it necessary for them to light matches to find their supplies.

Miss Moore and Miss Newell have a splendid record of service for over fifteen years, to the city and to the children in their school and I hope you will publish this letter in justice to them, and so that an unfortunate impression left by your article, may be corrected.

HELEN S. HUTCHINSON,
Member of the School Committee.

NEWTON GIRLS' CLUB

On March 3rd and 4th, Monday and Tuesday evenings, the Newton Girls' Club presented their annual play at the Stearns School Hall, Newton, a musical comedy in three acts, "When Hearts are Young," under the direction of Arthur Doherty.

The stage was very attractively arranged as the "Living Room of the Betsy Ross Hotel," by Ardella Dath. The Lippa and entire chorus royally greeted the audience with the opening song, "Welcome Everybody" and "We'll Have a Wonderful Party."

The clever acting and witty remarks of the club comedians, Anna Morrison, Juliette Champagne, and Peggy Ryan afforded much mirth, while Mary Deane, Ruth Stubbert and Mazie Shea displayed a generous amount of talent. Grace Hughes and Dolly Morrison as society girls were the envy of the audience and Peggy Oliphant, "the artist" with Bernice Hennessey, her model, were especially attractive in their roles. Petite Antoinette La Croix proved to be an ideal French maid.

"Cambalino" was featured by Michaelina Lipoma and "Nobody's Pal" introduced by Estelle Le Ferre and Club, the latter number being written by John Dunleavy, the brother of one of the club members.

A "Flora Dora" sketch given by fourteen girls was enjoyed by all and the musical numbers "Love You," by Mary Delaney and "When Hearts are Young," Irene Mellen, added to the program.

Those taking part in the Flora Dora sketch are Bertha Miskella, Lillian Shea, Vala McGrath, Mary Casey, Estelle Le Ferre, Cecelia Considine, Mary McCormick, Mary Shea, Michaelina Lipoma, Frances Hurley, Ruth Valey, Helen Shea, Alice Kinchla, Helen McCormick.

MEN'S CLASS ORGANIZED IN NEWTON HIGHLANDS

A large and enthusiastic Brotherhood Bible Class has been organized in the Newton Highlands Congregational Church of which Rev. Samuel H. Woodrow, D. D., is minister. The Class includes many of the leading business and professional men of that Boston suburb and starts with an enrollment of about 40, which is steadily increasing. The president is Deacon Everett C. Lewis, and for the present Dr. Woodrow is acting as teacher. The text-book adopted for study is How Jesus Met Life Questions, by Harrison S. Elliott. Much of the time is devoted to discussion and the most important current events are considered in relation to Christian principles as established in Jesus' life and teachings.

The Brotherhood Class is planning a dinner and speaking with teen age boys, March 13. The Class has shown its loyalty to the church by a vote placing the services of the class members at the disposal of the committee which will soon undertake to raise funds for the proposed enlargement of the church plant to give needed space for the church school and social activities.

A gift of $10,000 has been offered the Newton Highlands church for a new organ, upon conditions that the funds needed for the enlargement are raised—between $30,000 and $40,000. Several large gifts are already in sight for that important project.

ELLIS-BAILEY WEDDINGS

A very pretty wedding took place Wednesday evening, March 5th, at the home of Mrs. Walter Jacob Olson, 526 Lowell avenue, Newtonville, when Miss Stella Jean Ellis and Monroe Boyce Bailey were united in marriage by the Rev. Dr. Lockwood assistant pastor of Tremont Temple, Boston.

The bride was attended by Miss Elizabeth Kimball of Malden as bridesmaid, and Mr. Forrest M. Ellis of Chatham, N. Y., a brother of the bride was best man. The bride was gown in a beautiful dress of gray satin and wore a corsage bouquet of orchids and sweet peas. The bridesmaid wore a blue velvet gown and carried a handsome spray of American Beauty roses. The double ring ceremony was used.

After the knot was tied, the couple received their many friends, assisted by Mrs. Walter Jacob Olson, the bride's sister. A buffet luncheon was served and music for the evening was furnished by Toomey's orchestra.

The hosts were decorated for the occasion with palms and laurels.

Among the prominent guests were Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Morgan of Newtonville, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Brackett of Newton Centre, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Taylor of Somerville, and Mr. Karl Malmberg of Chestnut Hill, the well known artist.

The bride was active in the Red Cross service during the World War, and the groom was a lieutenant in the 7th division.

After a trip to New York, Atlantic City and Washington, the couple will make their home in Newtonville.

In First Class: Clayton Foster, Arnold Woodward, and William Brooks of Troop 9; Charles Benson and Bradford Bachrach of Troop 7; James Hyman of Troop 5 Newton Centre; Raymond Mabey and Donald Wilson of Troop 2. The following will take Merit Badge examinations:—John W. Fellows of Troop 11 Newton, in Personal Health and Public Health; Charles M. Greene of Troop 4 Newton Highlands, in Swimming, Personal Health, and First Aid to Animals; Horace P. Rounds of Troop 7 West Newton, in Camping and Swimming. Scout Rounds will also be awarded the Star Badge for having passed in ten Merit Badge subjects. Anyone interested is invited to be present at this meeting.

On Saturday mornings, Norumbega Council will put on a Demonstration Program at the Community Theatre along with the regular show. This week scouts from Troop 7 West Newton have been chosen to put on the program, demonstrating the Color Ceremony, Firemaking without matches, and the various hugh calls. This work is under the direction of the Scout Executive who asks every one who can to be present with their friends and families. It is an exceptional opportunity for the citizens of Newton to see what their scouts do when out in the field of service.

The moving picture show held by Troop Five of Newton Centre under the auspices of the Newton Centre Woman's Club to raise money for their "Cabin Fun" was a huge success. All the seats were taken at both the Saturday afternoon and evening performances and in the afternoon there was not even standing room after the show had commenced. The pictures shown of the Troop Five Cabin under construction proved more than interesting, as was the entire show, including the feature picture, "The Prince and the Pauper." Quite a fund was realized on the two shows.

The Scout Executive of Norumbega Council, R. H. Brown, was a guest of the Newton Central Council at a luncheon at St. John's Church in Newtonville on March 8th. He expressed the desire of the scouts of Norumbega Council to be of service in any way possible to the fifty social organizations who are members of the Newton Central Council. This service is extended to any who may need it, if they will call Mr. Brown at Headquarters, Newton North 3851, and tell him what their needs are.

THROUGH HEALTH TO HAPPINESS FIND IT IN BOOKS

Others things being equal, the man or woman with perfect health is able to accomplish more of the work of the world, and do it with less effort, than the physically frail person. And since it follows that energy which must be used in overcoming physical handicaps cannot be expended in other channels at the same time, the person who must fight ill health at every turn misses some of the pure joy of living, even though many a person frail physically has triumphed over his infirmity and been able to show a smiling front to the world. How, then, achieve this blessing of health? The following books suggest various avenues of investigation along this line:

FORESTRY: WHY IT CONCERNS THE CITY DWELLER

We are so used to taking for granted the accustomed conveniences of modern daily life that it frequently does not occur to us that the supply of the foundation material of many common necessities—wood—may not be inexhaustible. Our supply is so vast that it seems impossible to think of it as being used up. Yet thoughtful observers have for more than thirty years, not only raised warning voices against the prodigal waste of our national timber, but have urged the necessity for its wise and careful use in satisfying our commercial wants.

Since our consumption of wood and timber is considerably greater than the annual growth of new timber, it is not difficult to calculate that the time is easily within sight when the supply obtainable will be quite insufficient to cover our present demands on it. This is already reflected in the greatly increased price of lumber for building purposes, of furniture, paper, pasteboard and the thousand and one other timber or wood products.

Aside from this aspect of the matter, a less obvious danger and one to which far too little heed has been paid hitherto is the very marked degree to which the presence or absence of forested areas affects the rainfall, climate and soil conditions of a given territory. The removal of trees from a wooded country has been found to change the character of the climate appreciably. Springs dry up, rainfall is restricted, or unevenly distributed by sudden and destructive storms, driving winds sweep across the open spaces, and in time vegetation suffers seriously or is altogether destroyed and the land becomes a desert waste incapable of growing food products or even furnishing a satisfactory dwelling place.

Therefore it is worth while not only for the man or woman who intends to specialize in forestry as a profession, but also for the rest of us to know something of trees, their habits, their care, and the best means of increasing and conserving our available supply, both on a large and a small scale. The following books suggest avenues for investigation:

Forest Products: their manufacture and use; embracing the principal commercial features in the production, manufacture, and utilization of the most important forest products other than lumber in the United States. By Nelson Courtland Brown—RJOB31

Trees and Tree Planting, by J. S. Brislin—RJ.B76 (with excellent chapters on effects of forest on climate and rainfall, consequences of forest destruction, different varieties of trees common to the United States, and the localities best adapted to them.)

Our National Forests: A short popular account of the work of the United States Forest Service on the national forests. By Richard H. Douai Boeker—RJ.B63

Forestry in New England, by Ralph Chipman Hawley and Austin Foster Hawes—RJ.H31 (interesting material on the types of trees to be found here, the best methods of handling, etc., also valuable material on forest fire protection; written especially for New England, but covering conditions common to other parts of the United States)

Practical Forestry for beginners in forestry, agricultural students, woodland owners, and others desiring a general knowledge of the nature of the art. By John Gifford—RJ.G36

The Important Timber Trees of the United States: a manual of practical Forestry. By Simon B. Elliott—RJ.E14

The Cultivated Evergreens, a handbook of the coniferous and most important broad-leaved evergreens planted for ornament in the United States and Canada. Edited by L. H. Bailey—RJ.B15c (freely illustrated)

The Care of Trees in Lawn, Street, and Park. By Bernhard E. Fernow—RJ.F39

The School Book of Forestry, by Chas. Lathrop Pack—RJ.P12c

P. O'Brien and George D. Catlin, submitting claims for damages to automobiles. A hearing was assigned on March 15 on petition of W. H. Mague for a receiving station for garbage on Lexington street.

The report of the committee on Legislation that it was inexpedient to favor the bill pending in the Legislature revealing the preferential system of voting in Newton city elections was opposed by Aldermen Weeks and White.

In response to a question, President Hollis stated that the committee made this recommendation until a substitute method could be made. Alderman Lloyd suggested the "inexpedient" meant that no opposition should be expressed and that time should be given to consider the matter.

Alderman White said he was not the moving force behind the measure as he had been two years ago. While the preferential system appealed in theory it did not work out in practice. He called attention to the fact that the one man in Washington today who had the respect of the country was nominated for his office by a convention, while all the rest had been the result of direct primaries.

He declared that the direct primary was only successful in small communities and he had been convinced that preferential voting had not produced the results expected and that it was not in accord with the fundamentals of government. The report was not accepted, a tie vote being cast. Later in the session Alderman White presented an order placing the board on record as opposing the repeal of the preferential form and requesting two questions on the ballot, one for party designations and the other opposed, and this order was adopted without division.

The permit of A. A. Blakeney to operate a taxi cab was revoked.

The Mass. Sand and Gravel Co., on Needham street and W. J. Hannon on Albernale road were granted permits to keep gravel.

Alderman Madden opposed the report of the license committee giving J. B. Jurad after some discussion it was referred back to the committee.

Alderman G. W. Pratt stated that the committee on school program were making progress, and that a study was being made in regard to placing "classical" high pupils in the Technical school building.

William J. Doherty was confirmed as a Registrar of Voters for three years by unanimous vote.

Sewers were ordered laid in Rockland place, Park lane and Tarleton road and betterment assessments levied on Manomet road, Manet road and Crosby road.

Emile Coulon Purchases The Hotel Westminster

Acquires Title to Magnificent Hostelry Overlooking Copley Square—Has Operated House for Over Ten Years

Courtesy of Boston Herald-Health and Travel Dept.

Hotel Westminster, Purchased by Emile Coulon, Prominent Back Bay Hotel Man. Inset—Emile Coulon, the New Proprietor

Emile Coulon, for the past 10 years lessee and proprietor of the Hotel Westminster in Copley Square, Boston, has purchased the property outright. This hotel covers the entire tract of land with a frontage of 148 feet on St. James avenue and 120 feet on Trinity place. It is of French Renaissance architecture, and contains 300 rooms, besides dining rooms, grill, rotisserie, banquet rooms, and roof garden, the latter being the only one in Boston. The recently constructed building activity in the Back Bay section has increased the valuation of this district by over $10,000,000. The John Hancock building, Park Square office building, and the projected University Club and Allerton House have had much to do with increasing the demand for property in this section of the city.

The wide experience of Mr. Coulon in Europe, where he travelled extensively through various countries, to perfect himself in the languages and customs, fitted him for participating in hotel activities in the United States, where he came at the end of a world-wide trip. Soon after his arrival he became associated with leading hotels in New York and eventually came to Boston, where he took service with the Hotel Touraine, operated at that time by the late J. Reed Whipple, and later Mr. Coulon was with the Lenox and the Westminster.

When the Westminster was taken over by Charles A. Gleason Mr. Coulon had charge of the culinary department and dining rooms. His experience had qualified him to excel in this particular branch of the service, which made for this hotel an enviable reputation. Later the opportunity came to him to take over the operation of the hotel, which he was quick to grasp, and from that day the business of the Hotel Westminster has shown a marked increase in all its departments, until at the present time it ranks as one of the foremost hotels in the city. His present organization is a particularly good one, his staff, heads of departments and all subordinates, many of whom have been with him since he was at the Lenox, are loyal in their co-operation and interest of the management and conduct of the hotel.

It should be pleasing to the permanent guests of the Westminster, many of whom have made it their permanent home since the house was built, to know that Emile Coulon is now owner of the property, and that their living arrangements are not to be disturbed.

The best wishes of the entire hotel fraternity go with Mr. Coulon for his continued success, with the hope that his investment will prove highly profitable to himself, and to his present and future patrons.

For years the N. B. C. was one of the most exclusive centers in Newton, and even now, although its membership is spread all over greater Boston, it still maintains its dignified standing in the community.

The club is situated on the main line of the Boston and Albany railroad at Riverside where it is easily reached by train, electric or automobile, while the scenic beauty of the surrounding country lends a charm that is irresistible to the lover of outdoor life.

The new board officers are united in their determination to make this summer the biggest season the club has known, and undoubtedly this will be realized by the time the canoeing enthusiasts have drawn their frail and beautiful crafts from the water for another winter's lay up.

—Words need renewal just as clothes and machinery need renewal. Words that come down to us from one age to another become old and worn out and are either cast away or they become covered over with meanings that the present age does not understand. This is particularly the case with some of the great words of religion. Each age must therefore reinterpret the words and bring them up to date. When this is done it is found that even if the meaning is different from that given to the phrase a hundred or more years ago, nevertheless it contains significance for the present day. In the course of Lenten sermons at the Unitarian Church in Newton Centre by the minister, George Lawrence Parker, some of the great religious words are being studied in this way to find out their meaning for our day and time. Next Sunday's sermon will be on the topic "Shall We Keep the Word, Conversion?"

NEWTON IN EARLY DAYS

The following rhyme, written by the late Mrs. Eliza D. Wetherbee was read before the Women's Auxiliary of the Newton Y. M. C. A., in the year 1897. It has been found in Mrs. Wetherbee's effects and seems of sufficient interest to publish.

As I recently strolled by the railroad track, Watching workmen of whom there seemed no lack,
Building the bridge across the street
Where electric lines were soon to meet,
I meditated as I thought
Of the changes those short years had wrought
As I said to myself, "I'd like to know What Newton was like fifty years ago."
Of its settlement, we all know well;
Of its Indians, history will tell,
And I trust we have none of us forgot
The noble work of John Eliot.

About latter events, I was "all at sea,"
So to allay my curiosity,
I sought out out of our elderly men
Who had passed the age of three score and ten,
Who came here in '42 or '3,
Who in that length of time, many changes must see
And asked him to tell me if he could do it,
What this "village" was like when he first knew it.

As he had not lived here all his life,
He introduced me to his wife
Who the first four years of hers did spend
In Ward No. 3, then known as "Squash End,"
But who moved to the "Corner" in '35,
The place being then "more dead than alive,"
So donning their "thinking caps," the two Presented to me this "bird's-eye view,"
An as others might like the same to see,
I'll trace it for you, as they did for me.

"Within a stone's throw from this very door,
Landmarks have vanished by the score,
So that one who had been for years away,
Wouldn't know the Newton of to-day.
Where the new Bank stands was an old Hotel,
Which many a native remembers well,
With its noble elm-trees standing 'round
So recently felled to the very ground!
A sad sight indeed to one who had played
In childhood's days, beneath their shade.
At this end, were hay-scapes, and the 'old town pump'
Around which, thirty children would skip and jump
As they waited their turn, so merry and 'chipper'
To get a cold draught from the old tin dipper.
At the other, the barn with its new mown hay,
In which as children we loved to play,
Covering from 50 to 100 feet
Both close to the edge of Washington Street.

"Mine host" was a Smith by name, not trade
And oh! the lemonade he made
As many a child could testify
Who, coming from school, and passing by
Would find the grass quite thickly strewn
With peels from out the window thrown,
Which to childish tastes were oh! so sweet,
And considered "good enough to eat."

Across the way was Bacon's first block
With "Dry Goods" and "Groceries" kept in stock;
In the former department, the Post Office you'd see Kept by the proprietor, J. N. B.
In the latter, my informant states,
The goods were weighed by big steel-yards and weights;
Paper bags were not used at that early day,
So the grocer had to devise this way—
He'd roll sheets of paper into a cone,
Or Cornucopia as they're known,
Into which he would put your sugar or tea,
Rice, spices, or starch as the case might be.
That ancient block was in time replaced
By another, of wood, now in brick encased.

Next, toward the square, they recall to mind
A house with a "Boot and shoe" store combined,
Where they were not really kept in stock,
But "made and repaired" by Wm. Locke
Who, the house referred to occupied,
And was known to "old settlers" on every side.

Then, in order, came the Hyde Estate
Which has also been removed of late;
In its beautiful garden, box-bordered, they were
Were the handsomest tulips that ever were seen!
In such profusion, it was a delight
To look over the fence at the lovely sight.

Following on, toward Galen Street
The next object of interest one would meet
Was his long white house, and little white shop
With "F. Walker, Cooper" over the top,
Long since removed from earth, and yet
One who had known him could never forget
His "rat-a-tat-tat" as with smiling face
He hammered his barrel-hoops into place.

But two others, as landmarks they'd name, nearby,
Lest my patience I'd think they meant to try;
On the land adjoining, one sign, painted white;
Read "L. W. Trowbridge"—a famous "Wheelwright."
On another, as "Blacksmiths," one could see
The names of "Armstrong and Wetherbee."
Both were on Centre Street, corner of Pearl,
And well she remembers, when a girl
How the neighbors' children whom she knew Often made these shops their rendezvous;
At the first, they'd get saw-dust, and then would rush
For water and mix it into a "mush"
Or, with gooseberries, or currants red, white, or green,
They'd make the best "puddings" that ever were seen!
Which they'd cook on the coals of the Blacksmiths' fires
Out in the yard where they set their tires.

Another industry they could recall
Was "Furniture" making by "Smallwood" and "Whall"
Where many of the natives their trade did follow
At their works, that stood on, or near "Snake Hollow!"
Not a very beautiful name, 'tis true;
Now its known as Waverly Avenue.

And still another they relate
That of Jackson's works on his estate,
Where he must have had an extensive trade
In the "Yellow Candles" which he made;
Though they might not compare in any way
With Bartholomew's light, they "had their day."

The good "Deacon," one of the best of men
Was on the School Committee then,
And she recalls, 'mid the school room's din,
How he'd knock at the door, and then walk right in!

One more, though last, not least, in scope
Was the manufacture of "Jennison's Soap"
Which was acknowledged by all around
To be the best that could be found.

The first "Eliot Church," the only one at that day
Was on the site of the present one, over the way
Where the Word was preached to old and young,
Where prayers were offered, and praises sung;
It was built of wood, and painted white;

HUNNEWELL CLUB

There will be a business meeting on Saturday evening, March 22 to elect a nominating committee.
Next Sunday afternoon, there will be a Musical and tea, through the courtesy of Mr. F. O. Sturges. The Stanley trio and the Pilgrim male quartet will furnish the music.
The Entertainment Committee is making elaborate plans for the annual show.

Its bell was rung morning, noon, and night;
What was enjoyed, few here can know,
At the singing schools in the rooms below.
When this they'd outgrown, 'twas moved away
To the site of Eliot Block of today
Where 'twas used for lectures and concerts as well
For many a year, when 'twas sad to tell
One very cold night "on fire" 'twas found
And burned completely to the ground;
They then re-built, and strange to relate,
The second one shared the same sad fate.

Its one "hall of learning," unpretentious 'tis true
Being one story high 'till raised to two,
To which children flocked with nimble feet,
Stood on Washington, opposite Thornton Street.
Its shutters of wood, no one could admire
Or the little box-stove, with its poor wood fire;
The desks were passed, as we now should think
All backed up with knives, and stained with ink.
Over its door, no illustrious name;
A simple "town school" was its only claim;
No system of grading in those days of yore,
The only one being that of the floor,
Which was raised on each side from the center to rear;
Boys and girls of all ages assembled here;
The big ones sat back as was their wont
The "tots" on low benches down in front;
All branches were taught, from A B C,
To Grammatical rules, and the "rule of three";
Some were punctual and studious, and did good work,
Some the "truant" played, from lessons would shrink
Till, all others failing, it can't be denied,
The hard wooden "ferrule" was often applied,
While boys who didn't "care a rap"
Were sometimes flogged with a leather strap!

When "Master" would aim to get the floor to clear
By removing the little ones, trembling with fear
Lest, strongly resisting, they'd cause "a racket"
When his order came, "take off your jacket!"
The door was then locked, when scared most to death
Many sat till 'twas o'er, with abated breath!
How different now—it should cheer our hearts
That wielding "ruler" and strap are among the "lost arts!"
It is hoped that both have gone "to stay"
Moral suasion being the better way.

One the road to the Centre, then known as Back Street,
One might not all the way a person meet;
No house on the route the eye could trace
After leaving the corner of Centre Place.

Where stood the cottage removed at late Till you came to the Gilman Brackett estate.
Four young Misses from here, as a general rule Walked to Deacon Woodward's Private School;
One noted for many miles around;
To reach it, one passed the "Old Burying Ground";
Dwellings were scarce—few and far between;
Woodland and fields was all that was seen,
Which made it a lonesome, dreary way
For the girls as they went back and forth each day,
So, being too timid to walk alone,
They resolved, at some point to place a stone,
That as each one passed, they could fix in their mind
Who was ahead, and who behind,
The former could wait, as one can see
To secure the later one's company.

No cars were then running by the score,
If one went to the "Hub" 'twas by coach and four;
Though to ride in and out, cost a dollar and a half!
To think of it now, it makes one laugh.

Soon a Corporation, the B. & A.
In the thirties, planned a better way
When they built their road, so that one could go Quicker, warmer and cheaper, as all must know.
They concluded they'd take their passengers there,
By the payment of forty cents for fare,
How we should smile could we look back,
And see the first cars run over their track!
Of omnibus style, with a door on each side
Into which one must mount if they wished to ride!
The conductor climbing from car to car
Holding on to an iron rod or bar.

My informant also remembers well
When on this very site was another Hotel,
Which for many successive years was run
By that veteran "host," Abel Harrington,
An uncle of one who bears his name,
Known to everyone here from newspaper fame
At whose store today one may get the news
From weeklies or dailies as they may choose.
It was built of brick as all here know
And stood till about two years ago;
This end of the structure, though of wood
Had for more than half a century stood,
While this room in which we're convened, I'm told
Is all that is left of the "Nonantum" of old.
'Tis a "thing of the past," but we're proud to proclaim
That this beautiful block bears that honored name.
Even today how our hearts are stirred
At the mention of that familiar word;
How our minds revert to the days of yore
When the tribes referred to, bounded o'er
The hills and dales of old "Newton."
Which will ever be one of great renown!
Until they listened to the preached Word
The account of which we have often heard.
In this Hall as it was sixty years ago
She tripped the light fantastic toe
While with many another, she rejoices today,
In its better use by our Y. M. C. A.
An association that has grown,
But which to a mighty force has grown,
In laboring to save both young and old.
By bringing them to the "Good Shepherd's" fold.

In its equipments one may find Means to develop soul, body, and mind.
In the excellent "Gym"—the best in the land,
They "cut all sorts of antics" as you understand.
In their Indian club race, one might think by the sound
Which is heard for many blocks around,
Could they see them perform in their scant attire,
Their feet so agile, their faces like fire,
To such, I repeat the fact might seem plain
That the "red-skins" were back in full force again!
Well—let them enjoy it—that's the way,
Let "Young America" have its day.

Now we're back to our starting point again
The fact of great changes has been made plain;
'Twill be admitted by all in this room
That in fifty years there has been quite a "boom."
We hope when our bridges and boulevard
Are finished for which they are laboring hard,
The authorities of the B. & A.
And our "city fathers" as well as they May be by the public forever blest
If they'll keep things quiet, and "give us a rest!"
The work is progressing—'tis well begun
By 1900 we hope 'twill be done.

NEWTON MASS., FRIDAY, MARCH 21, 1924.

TERMS. $3.00 A YEAR

NEW RECTOR

The parish of St. Paul, Newton Highlands, extended a call the early part of February, to Rev. Charles Osborne Farrar to become its Rector. The call being accepted, Rev. Mr. Farrar assumed charge of the parish the first of March, and made his first address to his parishioners Sunday, March 2nd.

Rev. Charles Osborne Farrar was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., 1891, the son of Dr. James M. Farrar, Rector for 25 years of the "Old First Church." Mr. Farrar was educated in the Polytechnic Preparatory School, Brooklyn, and is B. A. and M. A. of Kings College, Windsor, N. S. His first parish for two years was in Falmouth, N. S., following this he was curate two years in St. Paul's Parish, Stockbridge, Mass., and while there he met Mrs. Farrar, whose maiden name was Marian Bidwell.

Leaving Stockbridge, he was called to Christ Memorial Church, North Brookfield, a Mission church, where he also had charge of three other mission stations, covering distances of approximately 9 miles each.

The Parish has been without a Rector since the last Sunday in October, occasioned by the resignation of Rev. Theo. R. Ludlow, who accepted the Deanery of Grace Cathedral, Topeka, Kansas.

Forty-one years have just passed since the formation of the Parish of St. Paul, during that time there have been four ministers in charge, and eight rectors, including Mr. Farrar.

On Wednesday evening a Parish reception was tendered to Rev. Mr. Farrar in the Parish House of St. Paul's Church of Newton Highlands, which was largely attended. In the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. James E. Raynor and Mr. and Mrs.

WOMAN'S ASSOCIATION

At the meeting of the Woman's Association of Central Church held on Wednesday the Association was fortunate in having as guest, Mrs. Sherwood Eddy, whose travels in the Orient and contacts with the outstanding leaders have given her a wide experience.

She talked delightfully of the Japanese. "The only trouble with Japan," she said "is that it has grown too fast. It cannot keep pace inwardly with the outward growth."

One old man who could recall Commodore Perry remembered the time when it was believed that there were only four nations on the flat earth, and Japan was the central power. Now all modern inventions are at their command, and on the main lines railroad travel is as comfortable as in the United States.

It is a mistake to accuse the Japanese of dishonesty. The missionaries find that they can be trusted with their homes and belongings in their absence. When Chinese are employed in banks, it is because the institution is conducted by the Chinese, and not, as is too often stated, because the Chinese are more honest.

Mrs. Eddy told of a couple in prosperous circumstances who lived for three years among the miners so as to understand laboring conditions. They did the same work and differed in no way from the community except as to cleanliness. Becoming Christians they came to America to see Christianity in action, but they found so much that was unworthy in our

GARBAGE AND SCHOOL HOUSES

Discussed by Aldermen at Midnight Session. Auburndale Protests Garbage Station. Definite School Program Adopted

The aldermen held a most interesting meeting on Monday night, and adjournment was not reached until nearly midnight.

The aldermanic chamber was crowded with citizens, most of whom were there to protest against the petition of William H. Mague to construct and use a receiving station for garbage on his property on Lexington street, Auburndale.

Mr. Mague was represented by Mr. Thomas W. Proctor, who said that this location had been used for a garbage station for over 30 years, it was well back from the street and adjoined a large swamp. The improvements contemplated by Mr. Mague were intended to make the business entirely unobjectionable and desired the opportunity to show what could be done. In view of the recent court decision, Mr. Proctor stated that if it was not satisfactory the court would take action.

Ex-alderman Harry B. Ross, represented Mr. John J. Keith, and said that it had taken Mr. Mague about 40 years to come to the point where improvements were contemplated, although there had been constant complaints for years about this place. Mr. Ross declared that the whole business was objectionable, the carts were driven thru the streets piled high with garbage and with the tops up, horse manure was piled high in the yard and Mr. Mague was "getting away with it" until the court had taken action. He showed a series of recent photographs showing the present condition of the premises. Mr. Ross also stated that a bill in equity was now before the court to prevent the construction of this building even if the board granted the permit.

Mr. W. R. Scharton said that there was only one cent to garbage. Mague, he declared, didn't care for his neighbors, and the plant retards the development of property in that vicinity. He predicted that if the permit was granted Mague would use it as an excuse to induce the court to extend his time after April 1st.

Mr. Will C. Eddy suggested that the garbage plant might be moved to West Newton hill and Mr. Harold W. Knowlton for the Auburndale Improvement Society entered a strong protest. Mr. W. C. Hill said that there was room for great improvement in the collection of garbage and thought the care after collection was not any better. Mr. E. A. Hancock called attention to the great change in the neighborhood in the last 20 years, and Dr. J. A. Furbish said that many new homes had been erected in that vicinity and the nuisance ought to be abated. The swamp, he declared, was serving as a cesspool for the drainage of the Mague plant. Miss Virginia Squires told of the recent troubles of Auburndale and thought the only relief was to go into the country and buy a 50 acre home. Mr. John J. Keith said that banks refused to loan any money on property in that neighborhood and told of his constant complaints to the board of health and the Street Commissioner. He declared that there were others ready to do this work and said that Brookline did this work for $22,000 with no complaints, while it was costing Newton $52,000. He closed by suggesting that Mague wanted this place as a memorial after he was dead and gone.

Under the head of Unfinished Business, the board held a long debate on the matter of new school buildings. Alderman G. W. Pratt saying that he knew nothing more "unfinished" than this question. Mr. Pratt devoted considerable time in opposing the suggestion of a South Side Senior High School, declaring it would cost a million dollars for land, building and play fields, and that, in addition, it would be necessary to spend $250,000 for a new gymnasium for the present High School. To enlarge the present High School would cost a half million, the new gymnasium, another $250,000, making a difference in favor of Newtonville of about a half million dollars, altho the South Side building would care for 1,000 pupils to 600 at Newtonville. The carrying charge on this half million would be some $45,000 and the extra cost of maintenance had been figured at $20,000. In addition, he believed that the two schools would mean future rivalry, and possible antipathy. Alderman White declared that the school problem was one of cold financial facts and stated his belief that the school committee subverted facts to theories. The $1,600,000 program of the school committee he said was only a mid estimate and certainly was not in sight either this year or next year. He stated his belief that the school committee had no interest in the tax payers. He compared Newton's present expensive system to Worcester's, where the Junior High School system is in effect, and also said that according to present building costs a 1000-pupil school could be built on the South Side for $520,000.

"We don't ask for the conglomeration of courses now being maintained in our schools, but some old-fashioned education. The only fads in our schools seem to be the three R's. Such an involved system now holds sway in our schools that teachers have to be employed to teach normal school graduates, supposed to be teachers, how to teach. If the School Committee was burdened with the financing of the buildings they seek, things might be different. Regardless of the school appropriation a $29 tax rate is already assured," said Mr. White.

Alderman White added that the only way the present program could be funded would be to go to the General Court and petition to have Newton's borrowing capacity enlarged. "Evidently the Newton schools aren't supposed to educate girls to take positions in treasurer's offices or business houses, but neither are they educating pupils to attain positions on collegiate honor rolls. The private school pupils are surpassing Newton High graduates in colleges. I fear

"VERY GOOD EDDIE"

Large audiences enjoyed the Newton Amateur Opera Association's production of "Very Good Eddie" in Players' Hall, Tuesday, and last evenings. The performance will be repeated this evening.

The show marked the 13th series of this successful organization and was both laughable and meritorious. Especially good work was done by Lena Nixon as Mme. Matropo, Harold Hambleton, as Al Cleveland, Clifford I. Champlin as Eddie, Claire Dooley as Elsie, Barbara Wellington as Georgiana and Florence Avery as Mrs. Darling. Others in the cast included Adelbert F. Hurt, Winthrop S. Clapp, Frank Anderson, A. Henry Anderson and Malcolm Harvey.

The chorus numbers were all given with "pep" and skill and reflected great credit upon George V. C. Lord, who coached and conducted the performance, Miss Marguerite Barnes, accompanist was largely responsible for the smoothness with which the music was rendered.

The chorus included: Josephine Buswell, Hazel Green, Olive Hayden, Verne Hurt, Gladys Kidder, Louise Moffat, Ella Newcomb, Gwendolyn O'Neill, Dorothy Pudsey, Edith Sholar, Elizabeth Wetherbee, Ruth Wetherbee, J. Ellis Bowen, Robert Boothby, Ned Dewing, Harold Green, Donald Harding, Ray Heislein, Ian Fraser, Leon H. Perkins, Charles Roberts, and David Whitehill.

VERY FINE CONCERT

At a concert given by the Americanization Classes of the city in the Technical High School Hall on Wednesday evening, March 19, Mr. Wheeler addressed the company briefly, suggesting that for the evening we were to communicate in a language universally understood, that of Music. Mr. Murray led the Salute to the Flag, given by all with convincing sincerity.

The musical program, arranged by Miss Roy, Supervisor of Americanization, was performed with spirit, and yet with great earnestness. Each group or soloist presented personally chosen selections, music appealing to their temperaments, or melodies dear from early association. The evident enjoyment of some of the participants in the selection given was interesting. Energetically doing their best, and incidentally having such a good time themselves in the performance created a spirit quite infectious to the audience.

The serious strains of Russian music given without accompaniment of any sort were so well rendered by such splendid voices it was impressive. The Swiss music, also of plaintive order, was sweet; and faithfully and sympathetically presented, as were the violin solos.

Is wanted by this bank to lend to persons seeking Homes in Watertown and Newton

Their desire to borrow is your opportunity to lend—through the medium of the Watertown Co - operative Bank — with a maximum of Safety, Convenience and Interest Return.

A CHOICE OF THREE PLANS IS OFFERED

- PLAN 1 is to BUY SHARES OF THE NEW (MARCH) ISSUE, and to commence regular monthly deposit of $1 to $40.
- PLAN 2 is to INVEST IN PAID-UP SHARES AT $200 EACH, earning quarterly dividends and requiring no deposits or dues of any kind.
- PLAN 3 is to INVEST IN PARTLY PAID SHARES a plan by which any sum up to nearly $8000 can be set to work, the investor adding to it by monthly deposits, and the bank crediting 5 3/4 per cent interest, compounded quarterly.

IN WHICH OF THESE WAYS CAN THIS BANK SERVE YOU?

PLAN 1 is the familiar Co-operative Bank method of Saving Money. It is a method thousands of people have found the most successful they ever tried. One dollar a month amounts in five years to $69.61 in 11 2/3 years to $200. Ask for Circular, just off the press, on "How to Save Money." It tells you how to plan so you may have a certain sum accumulated by any specified future date. Interest under Plan 1 is credited at 5 3/4 per cent, compounded quarterly. On sums withdrawn within five years, the interest rate is 4 6/10 per cent.

PLAN 2 is splendidly adapted to the needs of the person having funds to invest for income purposes. These shares are non-fluctuating, always cashable at the bank for their face value, and have always paid 5 per cent per annum dividends, in quarterly instalments, March, June, September and December. The income is practically exempt from taxes. IF DESIRED, the dividends may be left in the bank and applied to the purchase of Shares—an excellent device for automatically building up your capital.

PLAN 3 is exactly suited to the requirements of the person having an income and also a fund already saved, and desiring to build up a capital by additions of principal and interest. Money grows rapidly at 5 3/4 per cent by this plan!

SCHOOL NOTES

Edited by DOROTHY DRAKE

The Albert Angier School

The Angier School basketball team ended its season by defeating the Allen Military School Juniors with a score of 15-2. This was the first year of basketball at the school, but a large group of boys learned to play the game. After the last game Raymond Ferris, of grade seven, was elected captain for next year. Raymond is a very popular boy and should make an excellent leader for next year's team.

The sixth grade is forming a class baseball team, and has chosen Edward Offutt, captain, and Richard Souther, manager. The candidates for the school team from that grade are: Kenneth Brown, Dana Dutch, Richard Souther, Wendell Hutchinson, Edward Offutt, and John Arysersinger.

Dana Dutch has deposited seven dollars and forty two cents this week, thereby leading the sixth grade.

Esther Turner, Elizabeth Adams, Dana Dutch and Kenneth Brown, have formed a committee, with Dana Dutch as chairman, to prepare the news for the Graphic, from their class.

One morning recently the school enjoyed a most interesting and instructive program given by Miss Holt's fourth grade. The whole class, early in the winter, studied about the Labrador Eskimos. The class wrote to Miss Evans, a friend of Miss Holt's, who had worked with Dr. Grenfell, about their studies. She wrote them a long letter telling about the manners, customs and hardships of the people there, also kindly lending them some articles, made especially for her, by the Eskimos she worked among. These were shown and explained by various pupils, and talks given about the people themselves. Those taking part were: June Prouty, Charles Bullock, Jacob Mosser, Barbara Hall, Julie Stevenson, Marion Willard, David Bissell and Albert Gould. David Bissell's grandfather had entertained Dr. Grenfell at one time, and Albert Gould's father had visited Labrador. There were lantern slides shown which were lent by Albert Gould and the public library. It was the kind of program that makes for larger interests and a more friendly feeling toward all peoples.

We are glad to be able to say that Robert Foyus, second grade boy, has read and enjoyed thirty-five library books during the winter.

John Wayman, a member of the Class of 1925, is moving to Pittsburg. The members of the class are all sorry to see him go, for he was an all-round scholar and a credit to his class. He was presented with a fountain pen as a token of friendship from the class.

Vocational High

"Come out of the Kitchen" a modern comedy in three acts will be given by the senior-junior players of Vocational, March 27 and 28 in the Technical Hall. It will be produced under the direction of Mrs. Blanche F. Berne. A musical program will be furnished by the Colonial Orchestra which will also play for dancing in the gym after the play.

Alice Welch will impersonate Olivia Dangerfield, alias Jane Ellen. Henry Burke will take the part of Burton E. Crane. Clarice Holloway is to be Mrs. Tautner and Doris Bower will be her daughter, Clara. The others follow: Elizabeth Dangerfield, alias Araminta, Margaret Cremonini; Amanda, Olivia's black mammy, Elsie Holt; Thomas Sefferts, statistical poet, Francis Hannigan; Solon Tucker, Crane's attorney, Desmond Donnelly; Paul Dangerfield, alias Smokey, Joseph Maurer; Charles Dangerfield, alias Brindleybury, Frederick Collins; Randolph Weeks, agent of the Dandergeld, William Hargreaves.

Technical High

Miss Ruth Perkins, a graduate of the Newton Technical High School, read the statistical report to the New England Association of Teachers of English in the lecture hall of the Boston Library, last Saturday, regarding the results obtained from the questionnaires which were sent out in order to ascertain the value of the high school English training.

The Fourth Annual Alumni Entertainment of the Newton Technical High School was held in the assembly hall last Friday. Miss Grace Koriwan, class of 1917, was the director of the dancing. Anna Cavanaugh, class of 1912, was the accompanist. The first number on the program was a souvenir dance by Ruth Turley, followed by a pianologue by Mildred Beardsley, class of 1923. The dances of the nations were then given by members of the school. America was represented by Frances Warren and Marion Shaughnessy. Ella Beecher, Alice Howley, Doris Siebert and Eva Wilson gave a Gypsy dance for Roumania. A solo dance representing Ireland by Florence Doucet was followed by the Highland Fling danced by Julia Canter, Dorothy King, Hazel Murphy and Hazel Whiting. Dorothy Thornton and Mary Sullivan appeared in solo dances, representing Russia and Egypt respectively. An Italian exhibition was given by the Misses Barry, McDonald, Scully, and Sullivan. England was portrayed by Gladys Stevens, Holland, by Esther Higgins, and Elizabeth Mooney, American.

Darky by Margaret Curley and the Spanish group included the Misses Doucet, McCarthy, Ober and Stormont. Miss Kerivan favored the audience with a Spanish dance and as a token of appreciation, Mr. Maxim presented her with a bouquet of flowers from the school.

Hyde School

Interclass spelling matches have been arousing a great deal of enthusiasm amongst the children of grades VII and VIII. After the first match, which resulted in one VII and one VIII leading, another match was held, giving the two leaders a chance to compete.

The Health Clinic, under the leadership of Miss Sampson, and consisting of 30 members, is meeting every Tuesday afternoon and much interest in the work is being displayed.

Miss Abbott's sixth grade had the highest percent of attendance for last month. Miss Sampson's fourth grade and Miss Merrill's sixth grade had no tardy marks last month.

Wednesday morning, the upper classes went in turn to the Barn Studio on Hartford street, to see the Exhibit of the art work done in the Hyde School. This exhibit was arranged at the request of the art committee of the Newton Highlands Woman's Club.

On March 25 a group of children, in charge of Miss Hanscom and Mrs. Blakemore, will attend the Young People's Concert given in Symphony Hall by the Handel and Haydn Society.

Lasell

The lecturer on Friday evening will be Mr. Charles B. Floyd. His subject is "Birds" and the lecture will be illustrated with stereopticon slides.

Saturday afternoon at Bragdon, the Senior Class will have charge of a "Tea" for the benefit of the Lasell Endowment Fund.

Saturday evening there will be a basketball game at Bragdon Hall between the Senior and Junior classes and during the evening the Woodland Park pupils will entertain with aesthetic and folk dancing.

The Lasell Missionary Society will have charge of Vespers on Sunday evening and will present a Pageant, entitled, "The Way."

Mason School

Last week the class meeting of grade eight was fully attended and an interesting program was presented. Perhaps the most interesting number was the making of beads and pendants out of sealing wax given by Gertrude Pearsall.

Some time ago through the Newton Centre School Association some records, illustrating the different instruments of the orchestra were added to the school collection.

At the last meeting of the Music Club they voted to buy the Victor series of charts showing orchestral instruments. These charts give eighteen different pieces with a simple description of each.

The milk lunch serves about a hundred children at the present time and the increase in the weight of many show the good results.

On Wednesday afternoon, Rev. William Cummings gave an interesting talk on Burnham to the pupils of the seventh and eighth grades, illustrating with numerous slides.

F. A. Day Junior High School

That a much esteemed teacher has left our school, was evidenced by farewell testimonials to Mr. Dacey last week from parents, teachers and pupils. The teachers met informally Thursday afternoon in the school dining room, where refreshments were daintily served under the direction of our able domestic science department.

Members of the English department, co-workers of Mr. Dacey, contributed literary wit. Mr. Carr, in presenting the souvenirs to Mr. Dacey, recommended the automatic windshield to clear the way back rain or shine to the F. A. Day Junior High School. Mr. Dacey, in thanking the teachers, expressed his reluctance to sever connection with the Junior High School although he anticipated his new position at the Vocational High School not so far away. On Friday, pupils in Room 21 naively managed to surprise Mr. Dacey and present him with a combination mirror and spot light attachment for his recently acquired automobile.

The school very cordially welcomes Mr. Arthur C. Elliott, successor to Mr. Dacey. Mr. Elliott, a resident of Magallowa, comes to us highly recommended a graduate of Cornell College, Iowa, and Harvard Law School. During the war he was company commander at Fort Snelling, Minnesota, and instructor of the S. A. T. C. at Fort Sheridan, Illinois. At Indiana University he was assistant professor of Military Science and Tactics.

After her absence caused by illness, Miss Tracy was most triumphantly greeted Monday morning by teachers and pupils.

We regret that Miss Kingman is not with us because of illness. Mrs. Olcott is Room 11's substitute. The popularity of the F. A. Day School 10 cent movies was marked by an attendance of 300 to see Huckleberry Finn Tuesday.

Both the boys' and girls' basketball teams have played good inter-class and inter-school games this week.

GIRL SCOUTS

Officers' Association Visits Hawaii

The Newton Girl Scouts Officers' Association took a very delightful trip with Miss Jeanne Kenrick to California and the Hawaiian Islands on Wednesday evening this week when the Association met for its regular monthly meeting.

Miss Kenrick visited many Scout Troops and interviewed a number of Scout leaders when she was in the West last year and she brought home much of interest to the leaders here. Her talk was a most delightful and helpful one and the pictures she showed of country and people gave just the background needed to picture the girls of many nationalities being brought together in Scout Troops all of them pledging allegiance to our Flag and working with one accord to be loyal Americans.

On Tuesday of this week the Newtonville Troop gave a demonstration at the meeting of the Woman's Club of that village. Miss Dorothy Dean, director of the Metropolitan Division Girl Scouts opened the program with a very delightful and enlightening talk about the Girl Scout Organization, its aims and ideals for the girls. Miss Caroline Freeman told of the work here in Newton and a part of the Newton Bugle and Drum Corps played a short program. About thirty girls from Troop 1 then marched in and went through the regular opening of a Troop meeting. Captain Larcum then announced that the three grades of Scout would be explained by the Scouts themselves. A Tenderfoot Scout told what she had done to be a Scout, a Second Class Scout explained that part of the work and a First Class Scout told of the work which must be accomplished before a girl can wear the First Class badge. Some of the Merit Badge emblems were shown and figures of the number of girls wearing each of those badges were given. The Troop sang the song composed by two of their number which was chosen as the Newton Girl Scout Song at the Scout Rally held a few weeks ago and the meeting closed with the playing and singing of taps. The girls were then invited downstairs where they were entertained with refreshments.

W. C. T. U.
The West Newton W. C. T. U. held its annual roll call last Monday evening at the Lincoln Park Baptist Church. There were over sixty responses when the roll was called. The Union is planning a big campaign to put through the Law Enforcement Bill next Fall.

We 23,000 Men
Present you the utmost in fine cars

HERE are 23,000 of us building Studebaker cars. Most of us are partners in the business. Thousands of us are stockholders. All of us, after a certain time, get dividends on wages.

All of us, after two years, get vacations with pay. All of us, after one year, get dividends on wages. After five years, that annual dividend adds 10% to our earnings.

The company spends vast sums on co-operative work with us. When we retire, we get pensions.

So Studebaker cars represent the best that we, in combination, know how to offer you.

Some of us belong to management. If we do better than expected, we get 10% of the excess.

So every man among us does his best to make Studebaker cars supreme.

Our fine backing

Behind us is an honored name. For 72 years Studebaker has been the leader in quality and class.

We have $90,000,000 of assets. We have $50,000,000 in model plants. We have 12,500 up-to-date machines. So Studebaker cars are built by modern and efficient methods.

We have an engineering department which costs $500,000 yearly. That to maintain and develop Studebaker standards.

We subject Studebaker cars to 30,000 inspections. That requires 1,200 men. All told over 70,000 machine and hand operations are performed in manufacture of a Studebaker car. In so many operations, though each one is small, there is a great opportunity for economies and savings.

We have a $10,000,000 body plant, to maintain the Studebaker standard of coach work. There sons, fathers and grandfathers are working together, to build such bodies as Studebaker always built.

Those bodies are finished by many operations, including 15 coats of paint and varnish.

The open bodies are upholstered

See how Studebaker gained top place

145,167 people last year paid $201,000,000 for Studebaker cars.

The sales have almost trebled in the past three years. Studebaker growth in fine cars is the marvel of this industry.

Go see the reasons. See the scores of extra values Studebaker offers.

There are 13 models. Prices start at $1025. They go to the highest price a fine car needs to cost.

Don't buy a car for years to come without knowing how Studebaker gained its amazing popularity.

in real leather. The closed bodies in Chase Mohair. That is made from the silky fleece of Angora goats.

We pay for those extras — and others — out of savings. Building our own bodies saves you on some types up to $300 per car.

We never stint

The rule here is to give the utmost in every part and detail.

We have 35 formulas for steel. Each has been demonstrated best for its purpose. On some of these steels we pay 15% premium to get the formulas exact.

All Studebaker models are equipped with Timken bear ays. There are few cars in America, regardless of price, which equal ours on this point. In our Light-Six, for instance, we put more Timken bearings than are used in any competitive car, within $1,500 of its price.

We give unusual equipment. On some Big-Six models, for instance, we include two nickel-plated bumpers, one or two extra disc wheels with cord tires, a courtesy light, a motometer, steel trunk, etc.

How we do this

We give you these extra values through quantity production. We build 150,000 cars per year — more than any other fine-car builder. Our large expenses are divided by that enormous output.

We do it by building our own bodies, our own parts. Thus we save outside profits.

We do it because we have up-to-date plants, with all forms of modern equipment.

The results are these: Beauty, quality and luxury such as no maker can surpass.

Prices far below the usual. Our Light-Six, built by ordinary methods, would sell for from $200 to $400 more. Our Big-Six can be compared only with the highest-priced cars in the world.

Here are 13 models, from $1,025 to $2,685. Each of them offers scores of advantages over any comparable car. They offer such values that the trend toward Studebakers has become overwhelming.

Go analyze the reasons before you buy a quality car.

NEWTON WINS AT HOCKEY

The Interscholastic Hockey League championship was won by Newton High Friday night, when it won a remarkably well played game from Stoneham High at the Arena, 5 to 3. The game was bitterly fought and each team showed to advantage with Newton's final punch being too much for Stoneham.

Newton deserved to win, although at the end of the first period it looked very much as though Stoneham was to take away the title. After ten minutes of play, Kingsley of Stoneham shot a fast one from mid-rink that entirely escaped the notice of Newton's goalie, Howland. In fact, Howland made no effort whatever to intercept the shot. He just didn't see it.

Newton, after the first period, transformed itself from a defensive team to one that had Stoneham continually in hot water. Four goals rattled past Frasher in the Stoneham goal in the second period alone. Another followed in the final period, while Dupin was trying desperately to even the count. He scored twice in the final session, but failed to stem the tide.

As a result of the victory, Newton will meet the Huntington Academy of Quebec next Saturday.

The policyholders own over $313,000,000 in railroad securities; $606,000,000 in real estate mortgages; $80,000,000 in public utility bonds; $200,000,000 in Government obligations.

One person in every six in the United States and Canada is a holder of a Metropolitan policy—one of the safest forms of investment.

In 1923 the Metropolitan grew faster than any other life insurance company in the world; grew in income—in assets—and in the effectiveness of its campaign for better health for the whole country.

The Metropolitan sends trained nurses to the homes of thousands of Industrial (i. e. weekly premium) policyholders when they are sick. In 1923 these nurses made 2,482,919 visits.

While the average life span in the general population of the United States is 5½ years greater than it was 11 years ago, the life span of the Industrial policyholders of the Metropolitan increased nearly 8½ years in the same interval. This greater gain has resulted in large part from the Metropolitan's Health Service.

During 1923 the Metropolitan distributed 33,790,840 booklets and pamphlets dealing with health, general welfare and longer life. The total number of pieces distributed to date amounts to 305,990,507.

The Metropolitan arranges for free periodic health examinations for holders of Ordinary policies. Among those who availed themselves of this privilege, the death rate was found to be 28% lower than was expected for the group.

The Metropolitan cooperates with the companies to which it has issued group insurance for their employees—cooperates not only in giving insurance protection but also to promote better health, better working conditions, better living conditions and happier social conditions.

Life insurance, which cares for the home and family, is born of a deep sense of responsibility. When millions of people join in a mutual sharing of this responsibility the result is the splendid picture shown in the 1923 report of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. Never before has the world seen such a Business Statement nor had such an opportunity to look into the hearts of men and women, and to find there—Kindness.

Harry Fiske,
President.

The Law of the Land, Must and Shall Be Respected

EDITORIAL

While it may appear that the aldermen made some progress this week in the matter of a program for school-house construction, it is very possible that the action taken on Monday night may cause a serious complication. This is due to the amendment presented by Alderman White which, in effect, limits the financing of the matter to the borrowing capacity of the city and the tax levy. The borrowing capacity of the city on Jan. 1st this year was some $680,000, which will be increased by the sum of $157,000 to be paid this year in cancellation of city debt and by about $125,000 estimated as the usual increase in valuation, the borrowing capacity being fixed at 2 1/2 per cent of the average valuations of the preceding three years. This makes a total borrowing capacity of about $950,000 on which to finance a high school to cost $750,000 and a new junior high school at Auburndale to cost some $400,000 or $500,000. It can readily be seen that this means placing at least $200,000 in the tax levy and about $2.00 on the tax rate. This added to Mr. Whites prediction that the tax rate this year, exclusive of school buildings, will reach $29.00, will give us a tax rate of at least $31. Alderman Parker sensed the effect of the White amendment, but evidently failed to express himself accurately in terming it a "flippant amendment." It was far from that characterization however, and touched the very fundamentals of city financing.

The effect of the amendment will probably lead to the elimination of the proposed $250,000 gymnasium at Newtonville, as the only safe and sane method of reconciling the schoolhouse necessity with the permanent ability of the tax payer.

WEST NEWTON MUSIC SCHOOL

A meeting of the Board of Directors of the West Newton Music School was held on Wednesday evening, March 19th, at the home of Mrs. Wm. L. Garrison, Jr., 5 Sterling street, West Newton. Miss Fyffe read her report of the activities of the School, and plans were made for raising the needed funds for year.

UNDER THE GILDED DOME

The Democrats have forced several unnecessary roll-calls this week, and of course, have gone down to the defeat they deserved.

After a debate which included portions of three legislative days on the absurd proposal for an investigation into the events which led up to the police strike in Boston, in 1919, a vote was finally reached on Wednesday. On the same day there was another roll call on the proposal to prohibit the use of one-man cars, and in both instances the Democrats were decisively beaten.

Last week there was a long discussion on the proposal of the Judiciary committee that banking institutions should be limited in advertising their fiduciary facilities to the standards maintained by members of the bar. This meant, of course, no advertising at all, as lawyers deem it unethical (whatever that means) to advertise. The proposal was beaten two to one, as it should have been, as it is a most absurd idea to say in law that a corporation organized to handle trust estates, should be prohibited from advertising the very business for which it was formed. Incidentally, let us note that lawyers are extremely "ethical" when it comes to paying out money but we have thus far failed to note any "ethics" when it comes to charging for their services.

Jury service for women was the subject of a long debate on Tuesday in the Senate and was turned down by an ample majority. Senator Rice voting with the majority. It was revived at the next session and further action postponed until next Tuesday.

The Committee on Metropolitan Affairs reported favorably on the petition of the Metropolitan Planning Division for an additional appropriation of $350,000 for the construction of an underpass bridge under the proposed new Cottage Farm Bridge.

Of the additional amount recommended, the Boston & Albany will reimburse the State $150,000.

The committee also voted to report in favor of a recommendation of the Planning Division for the creation of an unpaid commission to investigate the subject of financing metropolitan improvements with a fair apportionment to cities and towns, counties and the State.

The commission is to be composed of the chairman of the Planning Division, chairman of the Metropolitan District Commission, Commissioner of Public Works, one Senator, two Representatives and one to be appointed by the Mayor of Boston.

J. C. Brimblecom, on the Democratic proposal to abolish the Commission of Administration and Finance, Representative Frank Coyne assailed the political activity of Mr. Thomas W. White of Newton, a member of the commission, in the interests of President Coolidge.

THANK CHIEF BURKE

To the Editor:

The Auburndale Village Improvement Society, through its Board of Directors, desires publicly to express its appreciation of the highly commendable and excellent work done by Chief of Police Burke in handling the case against the Castle Club, one of the proprietors of which was sentenced to a year in the House of Correction and fined $100 by Judge Weston for keeping and maintaining a disorderly house, and assuming to be a common victualler without a license.

We know that all those in Newton who are anxious to keep our city clean will rejoice that we have at the head of the Police Department a man whose unflinching determination to keep the city clean has closed up this club.

Auburndale Village Improvement Society.

Harold W. Knowlton, President.

TIGER SACRED TO THE HINDUS

Believe When Animal Kills Man Victim's Ghost Rides Astride It and Warns of Danger.

The natives of India believe that when a tiger kills a man the victim's bhut or ghost rides astride the tiger's back and warns him of danger.

A rather gruesome story of this nature is related in the Northwest provinces. A man had been killed by a tiger and partly eaten when the animal was driven off by the villagers. They then got the deputy commissioner sahib to come and shoot the tiger.

Under his instructions they built a machine in a tree just beside the dead native, and at dusk the sahib took his place in this. About ten o'clock he saw, in the moonlight, the tiger stealthily approaching to finish off his kill—the dead native. But just as Stripes was within killing distance the sahib saw the dead Hindu sit up and point an arm and hand toward him in the machine. Of course the tiger, thus warned, slunk back into the jungle.

Then the sahib climbed down and with forked sticks pegged down the dead Hindu's arms, climbing back into the machine, curious as to what would happen. About three o'clock the tiger returned, feeling quite sure the sahib would have gone home. He crept stealthily forward, and as this time there was no warning from the pegged-down Hindu, he came close enough for the sahib to place a soft-nosed .45 bullet just behind his shoulder blade, a direct line to his heart.

That I don't believe this story is true does not abrogate the rights of perhaps fifty millions of Hindus who do believe it.—Saturday Evening Post.

SEEDS OF GREAT INVENTIONS

Little Things Discovered From Which Spring Matters of World-wide Use.

Every electric light in the world, from the small pocket torch to huge advertising signs, owes its existence to a little ring about six inches in diameter.

This ring, which is in the Royal Institution museum in London, is that from which Faraday, the great inventor, obtained the first induction spark, thus making a discovery which is the basis of our modern electric-lighting system.

In the same museum is another instrument from which great results have sprung. This is Faraday's hand pump used in his experiments in turning gas into liquid. Today we accomplish the same feat with the aid of two large engines working compressors.

Equally interesting is the model from which Sir Humphrey Davy constructed the famous lamp bearing his name. Every one has heard of the Davy safety lamp, used in coal mines because it will not cause explosions of fire, and so on.

This lamp was so important in the mining industry that colliery owners of Newcastle gave its inventor a silver dinner service as a recognition of his great work.

The Royal Institution was founded by Count Rumford, himself an inventor. A hundred and twenty years ago he made the first fire grate. This grate is in the museum and it takes the attendants there a good two hours a day to keep the fire in it burning properly.—London Tit-Bits.

Condor Passing From Lofty Home.

In the clear, cold heights of the Sierras, the American condor, giant vulture of the air and the largest bird that flies, is making its last stand for existence. Although the huge creature still wings its almost solitary way over the lofty range, it is facing the necessity of hunting a new home. Not more than a century ago it held sway over the sky course from snowy Mount Hood on the north to San Jacinto on the south. This feathered giant nests only once every two years and lays but one egg in an inaccessible crag near the mountain top. After the youngster is hatched it remains for months a helpless chick wrapped in its natal down.—Popular Mechanics.

Politeness All Wasted.

Noontime is a busy time in the fancy work department. A young girl, receiving her package, tried to slip out gracefully but failed. Having bumped into someone she murmured, "Pardon me." No one moved or scowled at her and, wondering, she turned to find, much to her companion's amusement, that she was being polite to a dignified figure in an attractive pink apron, marked $1.98.—Indianapolis News.

Cloth Made From Hemp Bark.

Weaving snow-white fabric from the bark of hemp is becoming an important industry in some sections of China. This cloth, called "hsilapi" by the natives and classified by foreigners as Chinese linen, is excellent in texture and is worn extensively. Compared with the finest silks and satins, the best quality of this grass product is quite expensive.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

International Exchange.

"Hello, old man; you look worried. What's on your mind?" "I shipped a bale of cigar coupons to a money broker in Moscow. I heard they were going over there as currency. So I told him to get me the best exchange he could and take a fair profit for himself." "Get any returns?" "Yes, he just sent me a package of Confederate notes."

Mr. Griffin, our Director of Music, gathered the strands of varied selections into a most harmonious finale with his group of American songs and richly deserved encore.

Mr. Harrington at the organ, and Miss Black at the piano, provided exceptional accompaniments for the chorus singing.

The concert closed with the singing of "America" by an enthusiastic audience.

French menus and the high prices in New York restaurants stir the visitors' hatred. The specious convert charge is likewise detested. When the bill of fare is printed in French, as is the custom in the more exclusive cafes, out-of-town writers we they consider it un-American.

However, in this connection I received a rather amusing request from a young man in Idaho. He was coming to New York to see a young lady who was in a finishing school. He enclosed $5 in his letter and asked if I would procure one of the menus in French at a certain hotel, select dishes in order that would make a satisfying meal, mark them, and also explain what they were.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

MISS GRACE M. BURT, Editor

During the past week men and women all over the country have been voicing their respect and admiration for Dr. Charles W. Elliot, president-emeritus of Harvard, upon the advent of his ninetieth birthday. Those who were privileged to hear him speak upon Saturday last, at the celebration tendered him by the Boston Unitarian Club, could not but be impressed with his own apparent enjoyment of the occasion, his vigor of mind, his simplicity and sincerity of mind and heart. Others have voiced much better than the Club Editor is capable of doing their appreciation of this remarkable man, but one cannot allow an event of such distinction to pass unnoticed without offering congratulations to the "grand old man of Harvard," and expressing the hope that by reason of strength he may attain the century mark.

The world sorely needs today as never before men of his calibre, if our country is to endure.

Gandhi was characterized as one of the greatest men of today, by Professor Brendt C. Gupta in his lecture upon "Conditions in India" before the Newton Community Club at its meeting last Thursday.

Were you to visit the country you would find 200,000,000 people who do not get one square meal a day, yet they never complain. India has a great deal to thank the British government for in the past, but today the sentiment is in disfavor. Among some of the reasons for this, Dr. Gupta mentioned, that the vested interests have pursued a ruinous policy of killing local industries by a prohibitive tariff on Indian products. The natural weakness of the English in not learning anybody else's language is a second cause for misunderstandings. A third reason, that those sent out for the Indian civil service in late years have not been the right kind of men. Too much has been spent on the standing army and not enough for education. He conceded that English rule with some modifications is the best rule for India, but that the natives should be given more and more self-government. Gandhi is succeeding in rejuvenating local industries and in caring for the Indians more opportunity for self-government. He is the most peace-loving person imaginable, and there is no danger of war. There is no reason, he asserted, why England and India cannot go hand in hand. India at present is getting more of a chance, and there is every possibility of things being straightened out without the shedding of a single drop of blood.

Professor Gupta urged visitors to India to go out of the beaten paths if they wish to see the real India, for in the cities you will see nothing, and above all try to see below the surface. The Indian idea, he said, is that you are not civilized until you have conquered self. The United States is civilized up to the point of conquering self.

The speaker was listened to with keen interest and a deep appreciation of his perfect English.

Mrs. Arthur Flinn's finished rendering of a group of Indian love lyrics met with a cordial reception, and was an appropriate addition to the after-noon's program. The new cook books issued by the Home Economics committee were on sale.

"Club Conundrum Day" at the West Newton Women's Educational Club on Friday last proved to be rather novel and full of interest for the members. The title was mysterious enough to arouse considerable curiosity, which was gratified when the members learned that the program was planned to give them an opportunity for discussing club problems.

The first part of the program was in charge of the past presidents, who presented a one-act play written by one of their number, Mrs. Bernard Early, dealing with the founding of the club in 1880. The parts were taken by club members, costumed in the style of 40 years ago, and all acquitted themselves admirably. Mrs. George C. Phipps, whose membership dates back to 1882, represented Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, and received much applause. The old songs, "In the Gloaming," sung by Mrs. William Jones, and "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia" by the club chorus were in keeping with the old-time atmosphere of the play.

A beautiful silk flag with standard was presented to the club by the past presidents and Mrs. Joseph A. McDonald, the present president. The vice-presidents, Mrs. John R. McLean and Mrs. Charles E. Quinn, had charge of the rest of the program. Mrs. Quinn conducted the discussion on club problems, which brought out many interesting and helpful ideas. A straw vote was taken on the suggestions made, and those that were favored by a majority will be brought before the Executive Board for consideration.

In lighter vein, Mrs. McLean presented a series of original conundrums, some relating to the flag, and others a play on members' names, which created great merriment and were much enjoyed. Prizes were awarded to those having the largest number of correct answers.

Tea and a social half hour brought a pleasant afternoon to a close. One of the most interesting meetings of the Newton Upper Falls Woman's Club of the season was held Monday evening. It was a State Federation program given by Mrs. Frederick C. Smith, 1st Vice President, who told about the different departments and committees; Mrs. Ernest Brackett, chairman of Community Service gave a splendid account of the work and plans of that committee; and Mrs. William H. White, 12th District Director, explained most interestingly about the Endowment Fund, Federation Headquarters, and the MacDowell colony and the Marion Chase Baker memorial to which the club has already contributed. The State officers were interested in the Club's own committee reports. Following the program a social hour was enjoyed, with refreshments served by Mrs. Arthur Colby and her committee.

The meeting of the Auburndale Review Club on March 18 was held at the home of Miss Florence N. Bridgman on Hancock street. Mrs. Ernest Bratwaite, chairman of the morning, read a paper on the Moslem Invasion of Egypt in the 7th century; and Miss Smith told of the invaluable Rosetta Stone, and explained the importance and somewhat of the history of early cuneiform Sumarian writings. The club was much honored in having present as guest the district director, Mrs. W. H. White of Wellesley, who told of the Marian Chase Baker Memorial Fund. Mrs. Nelson Freeman furnished appropriate music for the program.

On Wednesday morning, following a brief business meeting, Dr. Kirsopp Lake, Professor of Ecclesiastical History at the Episcopal Theological School in Cambridge, addressed a large audience of members and guests of the Newton Social Science Club on the subject, "The Bible as Literature." The authorized, of King James version, published in 1611, Dr. Lake characterized as "an incomparable monument of English prose at its very best." He described the various translations which preceded it, beginning with that of William Tyndall, which was revised once and the model for several others, and especially mentioned the "Great Bible," produced during the reign of Henry VIII. Archbishop Cranmer had much to do with this translation, and he had real genius in the use of the English language. The only place where this version is still used is in the psalter of the Book of Common Prayer, which was compiled in the reign of Edward VI—of course before the King James version of the Bible existed. This Great Bible, though written in very beautiful English, contained many inaccuracies and meaningless passages, but the King James version kept much of it.

some members of the board are afraid of raising the ire of some of the women of the city and cannot say 'no' to anything they ask."

Referring to the figures given by Alderman Pratt for a south side junior high, Alderman White remarked: "The School Committee must have taken for comparison, when compiling that $1,000,000 estimate, either the gold-plated Frank A. Day Junior School or the Albert Angier Grammar School in Waban, famous for its plush-covered furniture and couches."

President Hollis said that the board could do nothing about the Junior High system, or the present curriculum since the city was committed to it. The discussion, he referred to, was "illuminating but not progressive."

Alderman Pitts said that the board must provide housing for the pupils and called attention to the fact that the South Side proposition did not meet the congested situation at Auburndale, and that the city should build schools where the congestion exists.

Alderman Heathcote suggested a vote of confidence in the action of the school committee and finally evolved a motion to approve the program of an enlarged senior high school at Newtonville and a junior high school at Auburndale, to which Alderman White made an amendment to the effect that it should be financed within the borrowing capacity of the city or thru the tax levy.

Hearings were held on poles on Carleton street, at which Mr. B. S. Rich appeared, and on Prescott street, where a strong protest was entered by Ex-alderman Ross for Harry E. Bryant and by Rev. E. E. Davidson. Mr. W. V. Hayden spoke in favor of poles on Newtonville avenue and a letter of protest from A. P. Curtis was read.

Mr. Ross also appeared in favor of the petition of Frank Gurgone for a garage and repair shop on Lexington street, and a vigorous protest was made by J. J. Peterson and two ladies.

There was a strong remonstrance made to the petition of J. J. Smith for a gas filling station at 1419 Washington street, ex-alderman Henry L. Whittlesey, H. L. Rees, R. H. Hill and James Hutton being in opposition.

There was no opposition to the petition of the Woodland Golf Club to build a dormitory on Grove street.

Favorable action was taken on the recommendation of Mayor Childs that legislation be obtained to allow the payment of the 1924 salary of Chief Randlett to his widow.

The Mayor also recommended a change in the ordinance relative to the qualifications of the Building Commissioner so as to allow him to appoint the present acting commissioner to that office.

Petitions of Phillips Byfield and Robert J. Burns for auctioneer licenses, the Liberty Motor Mart for a second class license to sell automobiles, and of H. B. Vachon to move a building across Washington street were granted. Other petitions were received for the laying out of Morton street, of Nicholas Tocci for pool table license, and protests were filed against the use of Tyler terrace as a dump for snow and ice and against removal of poles on Algonquin road. Various petitions for private garages were also granted.

Alderman White unsuccessfully opposed to leave to withdraw report of the committee on the matter of transfer from the general to manufacturing district of land of James Scully on Winchester street. He also opposed a similar report on land of Walter Chesley on Elm street and was able to have the matter returned to the committee. The same report on land of Henrietta Gulkisen on Pine Grove avenue was accepted.

An ordinance relative to the Twombly House fund was adopted. Alderman White stated that the Finance committee had reported inexpedient on request of engineers and firemen at the Pumping station for vacations on the ground that it had not been approved by the Mayor.

Petitions of Mary White for a victualer license and of J. W. Crowell for additional garage on Church street were refused.

The Directorate Inc., was given permit for private garages on Sumner St. Daisy E. Hay was granted a similar permit on Warwick road and A. Beatrice & Son were given a gasoline permit at 2131 Washington street.

The favorable report of the License committee on petition of the American Auto Livery Co. for a gas filling station on Court street was opposed by Alderman Madden and refused by a vote of 8 to 0.

The Claims committee reported adversely on claims of O'Brien and McLean.

Hearings were ordered on the further improvement of the Newtonville drain and on the widening of Winchester street at the cemetery.

Appropriations for settling various small claims were approved and favorable action taken on schedules for sewer assessments and sewer charges.

The following resolutions were adopted on the death of Chief Walter B. Randlett:

WHEREAS, Walter Brown Randlett, Chief of the Fire Department of the City of Newton was removed by death on the third day of March of the current year.

RESOLVED, that the Board of Aldermen hereby expresses its sincere sorrow at the death of a man who was respected and beloved by all who knew him.

Chief Randlett was serving his thirty-eighth year in the service of the city and his thirtieth year as the head of the Fire Department. Protection of life and property was the great purpose of his life and he did it admirably, winning the respect of his fellow citizens and the love and esteem of all who were associated with him. No public servant ever served a municipality with greater fidelity. Stricken in the line of duty he has answered his last call.

Tireless in his work for the best interests of the city, fair and courteous to his associates in the department and to all with whom he came in contact, always kindly and considerate, his death is keenly felt and will long be regretted.

RESOLVED, that the Board of Aldermen tender its sincere sympathy to the family of the deceased chief, and directs that a copy of these resolutions be sent to them and that the resolutions be entered upon the records of the Board of Aldermen.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

Many Greek manuscripts of the New Testament have been found and translated since the early 17th century, so that for historical knowledge a translation like that of Professor Goodspeed is admirable, but in church or for general use the old version has much more beauty. There are still unsolved problems, as the gospels may have been written originally in Aramaic which was the dialect used by the Jews in the time of Jesus. If so it has never been found and the Greek texts vary and must be carefully compared. Dr. Lake explained the terms "higher and lower criticism"—the lower referring to textual accuracy, and the higher to the sources of the different books, but the expression "higher criticism" has no suggestion of superiority or arrogance.

In answer to questions and comments, Dr. Lake said that the present generation of college students is very much interested in religion, but that it rests with the churches whether this interest has any connection with them or will be entirely independent.

The members and guests of the Community Service Club of West Newton enjoyed to the full on Wednesday afternoon the musicals given by the Butekan Trio, assisted by Mr. Paul Russell. The artists were most generous in their response to the enthusiastic reception given them by the large audience. A social hour, during which tea was served, closed one of the most delightful afternoons of the club season.

The Newton Community Club held a successful card party at the Huron Club on Tuesday afternoon. The rooms on the second floor were completely filled with tables and a very pleasant time was enjoyed at Mah Jong and auction. Candy and spring flowers in abundance were on sale. A substantial sum was netted for the Philanthropic Fund of the club. The affair was in charge of a special committee, Mrs. E. P. Tuttle, chairman, Mrs. C. N. Young, Mrs. Frank P. Schofield, Mrs. George L. Parker.

Girl Scout Afternoon

Under the auspices of the Newtonville Woman's Club, Miss Dorothy Dean, director of Girl Scouts of Metropolitan Boston, and Miss Caroline Freeman, director for Newton, were the enthusiastic and inspiring speakers at the "Girl Scout Afternoon" on Tuesday. Using the recent experience of a visit to Gurnet Lighthouse figuratively, Miss Dean was able to profoundly impress upon her audience, the great value of scout activities. She said every life needed a light-house, something to guide it through storms, and the scout law and promise made a safe light-house upon which a girl may depend. She described scouting as a self-educational system in health, homemaking, nature study, crafts, and citizenship; as a most democratic community in which each girl stands on her own merits, her progress depending entirely upon herself. Scouting gives a sense of direction for a girl to follow; the need of good health, and encourages the "joy of living"; leads away from the "me and mine" attitude to "outward thinking." Miss Freeman estimated there are about 600 Girl Scouts in the city of Newton, divided into 12 troops. Newtonville troop having the distinction of being the first troop formed. The last troop is that of the Peabody Home for Crippled Children. She spoke of Camp Day and the advantages it offers to girls, and the merit badges the girls work so hard to win. Following selections at the Pumping station for vacations on the ground that it had not been approved by the Mayor.

Petitions of Mary White for a victualer license and of J. W. Crowell for additional garage on Church street were refused.

The Directorate Inc., was given permit for private garages on Sumner St. Daisy E. Hay was granted a similar permit on Warwick road and A. Beatrice & Son were given a gasoline permit at 2131 Washington street.

The favorable report of the License committee on petition of the American Auto Livery Co. for a gas filling station on Court street was opposed by Alderman Madden and refused by a vote of 8 to 0.

The Claims committee reported adversely on claims of O'Brien and McLean.

Hearings were ordered on the further improvement of the Newtonville drain and on the widening of Winchester street at the cemetery.

uary 23rd in regard to the building of new schools in our city, including alterations and a gymnasium for the Classical High School, a new Junior High School in the West Newton-Auburndale district, and alterations of Bigelow School into a Junior High School. It believes with the Joint Committee that "no one or any of these projects, of or by itself, will meet the situation, and we believe that no other new schoolhouse construction should take place in the city of Newton until this building program is completed."

The Federation therefore recommends that the work at the Senior High School, the construction of the West Newton-Auburndale school, and the alteration of the Bigelow school, be pushed along as rapidly as these projects can be financed.

In regard to the needs at the High Schools, we believe that adequate provisions should be made for the right kind and size gymnasium and all that goes with them, to properly accommodate the pupils at the three schools, and that comfortable lunch room facilities should be provided at the Classical High School.

Newton has long felt the need of a swimming pool. Swimming is becoming an increasingly popular sport at High School, it being the general consensus of opinion among physical trainers that it is the best all-round sport for developing the body. A good many girls in the High School have asked for teams, but there is no place where they can swim. Such a pool might be available for municipal use after school hours. We ask your consideration of this problem. If the cost of construction is prohibitive at this time, then we suggest that the architect be instructed to draw his plans of the new construction so as to facilitate the addition of a swimming pool at some future time—not a basement affair, but one which could have the benefit of health giving sunshine. For instance, the arrangement of show-ers, lockers, etc., might possibly be such as to serve both gymnasium and pool.

This is the opportunity of a lifetime to do something really good for Newton which will make the future generations look back gratefully to our efforts in their behalf.

At a meeting of the Executive Board of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs, held on March 17, 1924, the following resolution was adopted: WHEREAS raw milk from cows not tuberculin tested may be infected by the bovine tubercle bacillus, and WHEREAS such milk has been proven to be responsible for some of the tuberculosis of children, and WHEREAS the perfect pasteurization kills the bovine tubercle bacillus, and makes such milk safe from bovine tuberculous infection as well as scarlet fever, diphtheria, diarrhea, typhoid fever, and septic sore throat, and WHEREAS it is the opinion of the Executive Board of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs that it is the duty of the Board of Health of the City of Newton to protect its children from such infections

BE IT RESOLVED

1. That the Board of Health of the City of Newton adopt and enforce a regulation prohibiting the sale of raw milk unless the cows are tuberculin tested and placed under the regulation laid down by the Federal and State Government for the maintenance of tuberculin free accredited herds.

2. That the Board of Health of the City of Newton be required to examine bacteriologically once a month all milk sold in Newton and permit the results of such examinations to be known to the public.

3. That the Executive Board of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs be authorized to petition the Board of Health of the City of Newton for the adoption of these regulations.

NEWTON HOSPITAL

For the week ending March 15: Patients in hospital 130, paying patients, 61, part paying patients 35, free patients, including babies, 34, patients treated by out patient department 121, accident cases 6, babies born 12, social service calls at hospital 24, patients transported to clinics by social service car 29.

The social service car had hard luck last week and was out of commission part of the time because of an accident and because of this no social service calls were made at homes.

The hospital has received from the Newtonville Women's Club $100 which is to be used towards furnishings for the nurses' home.

Last Saturday's sale at the home of Mrs. L. Catanzar Panno in Boston for the benefit of the nurses' vacation home at Rowley was a success, over $2,000 being taken in. Almost all of the articles offered for sale were sold. The household table, which was in charge of the Newton Hospital nurses, took in $182, a very satisfactory amount to make from the sale of dusters, holders, aprons, etc. The Newton nurses wish to thank the friends who sent contributions for their table. Among the contributions which they received were half a dozen rubber aprons from Mrs. Charles G. Valentine and from the Governor John A. Andrew Home in Newtonville a box containing numerous articles, every one of them made by women over 80.

Miss Margaret Tolland of Davis St., West Newton, has started in as an operator on the hospital telephone switch board. The Know More Kokki Klub held one of its regular meetings at the hospital Monday evening. Several of the Newton women made up a good sized bundle of old linen and sent it to the hospital through Mrs. Percy Williams of 280 Waltham street, West Newton. If there are other groups of women anywhere in the Newtons who wish to do similarly, if they will telephone to the hospital the name of the one in charge, the linen will be sent for and thankfully received.

One set of twins was born at the hospital last week but, unfortunately for Newton's record, the mother was from Waltham.

Miss Evelyn Dodge has completed her course as technician in the X-ray department and gone to Newton High school for a visit to go later to her home in Nova Scotia for a rest before she takes a position.

This week in Cambridge there was a conference between the Middlesex Red Cross and the Middlesex County Branch of the Massachusetts State Nurses' Association which was attended by Miss Allen, the superintendent of the hospital, and other members of the hospital staff.

Volunteers are at work making surgical dressings and it is hoped there will be many more. Volunteers may name their own days and their own hours and will be welcome always.

The cars for Framingham, from Newton through Newtonville and West Newton stop at the hospital. Volunteers who own cars may park in the hospital grounds, and it would help if a friend was brought along to help make dressings.

Generous friends have made possible the renovating of the nurses' assembly room. It started by being a large, well proportioned room with an immense fire place. The walls have been done in deep cream, and the woodwork has been given an extremely beautiful dull finish. The rug, which is one of the gifts, has of course to be very large to fit the room, and is of very rich coloring and deep pleasant texture. The windows, which have a pleasant outlook over the hospital grounds have been given curtains, and across the bow window is a new couch. It is of ample proportions with over stuffed cushions, and adds greatly to the room. Of course it isn't all new; there are comfortable old chairs, one or two of them look as though they were great favorites which no one wished replaced. There is a magazine rack, and book cases, a piano, and a Victrola, which all indicate that pleasant hours may be spent there. At one end the room is alcoved and there just slightly separated from the others one may write the letter that always needs to be written. Money has been given for two floor lamps, which will add to this already attractive room. Just outside this room the hall is particularly spacious and is fitted very pleasantly in green wicker, making a spot where the nurses may receive their friends apart from the general gathering.

AIRTH—OLIPHANT

Last Sunday was the wedding day of Miss Anna M. Oliphant of 49 Myrtle street, Watertown, who became the bride on that day of Mr. Russell R. Airth of Barnes Road, Newton.

The ceremony took place at the home of the bride at Watertown, and was performed by the Rev. Edward C. Airth of Watertown. The bridesmaid was Miss Peggy Oliphant, sister of the bride, and Mr. Walter Richardson of Waltham was the best man.

The bride wore a gown of white crepe which was attractively draped at the side, a veil caught with orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of white rose buds and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid wore an orchid lace dress trimmed with silver, and carried a bouquet of sweet peas.

A reception at the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony, the house being attractively decorated for the occasion with palms, ferns, and cut flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Airth will reside at 12 Barnes road, Newton.

—The recent severe snow storm occurring as it did at the same time as the one in 1888, brought many recollections to long time residents. One of particular interest was concerning the death of Mr. Henry Darling, brother of the late Chas. P. Darling.

The Darling homestead is still standing on Washington street, near the Woodland Golf Club. Mr. Henry Darling lived there at the time with his mother. He was a traveling man and was returning late at night on the first day of the storm. He arrived in Boston and crossed the city in the horse cars, and did not realize what a storm it was. He did not leave the train at West Newton or Auburndale as he might have done but kept on to Woodland. It was the last train there and he started to walk home. Usually a short walk he was a long time in arriving through the deep snow and blizzard and when he finally reached his home he was exhausted. Pneumonia followed and his death not long after.

With remarkable fortitude the Japanese have met the terrible losses of the earthquake. No complaining is heard and plans are being made for rebuilding in a way which will make living conditions better, and do away with slums. The friendliness shown by other countries has been appreciated but they do not wish to be pauperized. For this reason a slight charge is placed on the clothing sent for distribution. Chaffin School

The sixth grade have organized themselves into a group called the Lincoln Democracy. A Congress of seven members have been appointed to see that the rules of good citizenship are upheld.

Friday afternoon a short inauguration ceremony was held. The program opened with "The Salute to the Flag," followed by "America." Congress then took this pledge: "I, as a Congressman of the Lincoln Democracy, will endeavor to represent the people fairly, to judge all offenders wisely, and to co-operate with every other member of Congress."

Short talks were given by the Congressmen. "I, as a member of Congress (with the help of the other members) will try to make this sixth grade one of the best grades in the country. Besides keeping this class in order we are going to give it a good time. We expect you to help us in every way so that these plans may be carried out."

Congressman Bartington. "As long as I am a Congressman of the Lincoln Democracy, I will do my best to judge all offenders wisely and equally, and to co-operate with the other members in affairs coming up in Congress. I will stand by the pledge of Congress as long as my term lasts and when I become a common citizen I will stand by their pledge and perform the duties laid upon me by Congress to the best of my ability."

Congressman Kenigott. "Two aims of the Congress are, to try and help the school so that it will be better and better each day, and to try to be fair and honest in every thing that we do. If you abide by the laws we cannot fail."

Congressman Brown. "The aim of this Congress that has just been organized, is to have the children willingly obey the laws of the school and any other rules Congress may make. We hope that it will not be necessary to punish anyone. We wish to be fair to everyone. We hope that our suggestions will be a benefit to everyone."

"I am glad that I have a chance to help make this school the best school in Newton. I will try to live up to your ideals. I will live up to the pledge."

"Congress expects everyone of you to do your duty. Congress will be a failure without your help. When we say a thing we mean it, and our word is not to be trifled with. We do not have punishment for the express purpose of inflicting punishment, but for the sake of helping Miss Locke and all the other teachers of this building and making this the best school in Newton. If we have order without education (which we cannot have without teachers who may give all of their time to teaching) we would not have a school because a school is a place to learn and not a house of correction."

Congressman Stafford. "Congress is not going to be mean to you but we wish you would keep off the grass. Just think what a lot of work Mother Nature goes to. She has to make each little baby seed, plant it in the ground and then with much patience water it until it grows. But if you step on it in the muddy season the grass will not grow. Just pretend that you are a baby seed coming up and somebody steps on you so that you never grow. How would you feel? How many will try to keep off the grass?"

Congressman Mitchell. "The pledge of the people then followed. 'I, as a member of the Lincoln Democracy, promise to abide by the laws and to uphold all decisions made by Congress.'"

The ceremony closed with the singing of "America, the Beautiful."

The Newton High athletic council has considered the matter of sending a relay team to the Penn carnival, April 25 and 26, and decided that it lacked the authority to grant permission. It had before it a petition of several hundred Newton students, who were anxious to be represented at the Penn relays. The council has referred the matter to the school committee. In the meantime the Newton relay team is holding training sessions in the hope that they will finally be allowed to make the trip to Philadelphia.

The athletic council ratified the list of members of the "N" in hockey, track and swimming for the past season. They are as follows:

NEWTON CENTRAL COUNCIL

Holds Its Annual Meeting and Hears an Address by Rev. M. H. Lichliter of the Central Church

The fourth annual meeting of the Newton Central Council, held on Tuesday evening, March 25, at the Newton Centre Woman's Club House, was attended by 140 delegates and others, from all parts of the city. Dinner was served at 6.30 P. M., by a committee of ladies from the Newton Centre Woman's Club, and the dinner was followed by the business meeting and program.

Mr. George M. Angier, President of the Council, presided. The invocation was pronounced by Rev. Timothy A. Curtin. Mr. Leon B. Rogers, Treasurer, presented a financial report; and the report of the Executive Committee was read by Mr. Arthur Dunham, Executive Secretary.

Three new member-organizations were added to the membership of the Council: the Newton Centre School Association, of which Mrs. Howard O. Winslow is President; the Bowen School Centre, where clubs and classes and other community activities are carried on under the direction of the Social Service Committee of the Newton Centre Woman's Club; Mrs. Charles W. Bond, chairman; and the City Planning Board, Mr. Charles E. Gibson, chairman. The Council now includes thirty-seven welfare and civic organizations in its membership.

Mr. Fred H. Tucker presented a preliminary report of the Recreation Survey Committee, of which Mrs. Ralph C. Henry is chairman. The Committee pointed out the desperate need for adequate physical training facilities at the High School, and submitted the following recommendations regarding the High School Gymnasium, which were adopted by the Council without a dissenting vote:

1. The Committee urges that the construction of a new and adequate high school gymnasium be undertaken at the earliest possible time.

2. The Committee urges the importance of providing a comprehensive plan for (1) gymnasium facilities which will be really adequate and which will not be outgrown within the near future; (2), the proper development of Clafin Field for physical activities; (3), a swimming pool of suitable size in connection with the gymnasium.

3. If it should seem impossible because of the expense to construct a swimming pool at the same time as the gymnasium, the Committee recommends that the complete plans include a swimming pool as part of the physical education plant, and that the construction of the swimming pool be undertaken at as early a date as possible.

4. The Committee earnestly recommends that the new physical education plant should be used as a municipal gymnasium and swimming pool—a central element in the public recreation program of Newton—at such times and in such ways as not to interfere with the proper development of the high school program of physical training.

5. The committee suggests that in planning the new gymnasium and swimming pool the School Committee should seek the advice of the Superintendent of Playgrounds, both because he is a specialist in the field

DEATH OF MR. IDE

Mr. Henry Jordan Ide, for many years a well known resident of Newton Centre and one of the most prominent laymen in that diocese of the Episcopal Church died last Tuesday at his home on Commonwealth avenue, Boston, where he has lived for the past few months.

Mr. Ide has been ill for some weeks. Mr. Ide was an idealist, who carried his idealism into his business. Of strong religious convictions, of charming personality, he stood for everything that was upright, not only to the letter but to the spirit of the spoken word. He was universally popular and he was held in the highest regard among insurance men everywhere.

Henry J. Ide was general agent for the American Insurance Company of Newark, N. J.; Jersey Fire Underwriters, Eastern Underwriting Department of the Camden Fire Insurance Association, the Albany Insurance Co., and the Virginia Fire and Marine Insurance Company. He represented these companies for all or part of New England. The general insurance agency of which he was the head is one of the leaders in this field of insurance activity in New England.

Mr. Ide was born in Claremont, N. H., in 1862, and has always followed the insurance business. In 1881 he became associated with A. M. Bullard, a prominent underwriter and his life-long friend. He became special agent for the Mercantile Fire and Marine Insurance Company of this city in 1891, and was rapidly advanced until he reached the position of second vice-president. He also served this company for many years. James Simpson and Henry J. Ide organized the Boston agency of Simpson & Ide in 1897, and a few years later additional partners were taken into the firm which then assumed the name of Simpson, Ide & Co.

In 1905 Mr. Ide withdrew from the office of the Mercantile Fire and Marine to accept the management of the New England department of the American Insurance Company of Newark, and he later added other companies as the necessity for increased facilities arose. Henry J. Ide entered the insurance business just prior to the organization of the New England Insurance Exchange and he always took an active interest in its work. He was elected its president in 1916, to which office he was later reelected, which gave evidence of his popularity and ability among insurance men.

He was active in church affairs, being a member and junior warden of the Church of the Messiah, member of the standing committee of Bishop Lawrence's Church, and was actively connected with Trinity Church, Newton Centre, and St. Paul's. He was a charter member and former president of the Episcopal Club; treasurer of St. John's Church at Roxbury for a number of years, and was chairman of the diocesan general missions committee. Because of his activities in the Episcopal Church he was widely known as its "traveling layman."

Mr. Ide is survived by his widow, who was Elizabeth Wilson Dibblee of Roxbury, a sister, Mrs. George M. Randall of Newton Centre, and four brothers, Arthur W. Ide of Helena, Mont., Francis L. Ide of Boston, Edwin B. Ide of Wellesley Farms, and Horton G. Ide of West Roxbury.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at St. Paul's Cathedral, Boston and the interment will take place at Claremont, N. H., tomorrow.

DEATH OF MR. LAMSON

Mr. Jarvis Lamson, for many years a resident of this city, died yesterday morning at his home on Temple street, West Newton, after an illness of two weeks.

Mr. Lamson was born in Hamilton, Mass., 68 years ago and was educated at Dummer Academy. He was the founder of the well known firm of Lamson and Hubbard, of which he was for many years the senior member. Since its reorganization, he has been the vice-president. He was a member of the Middlesex Club, the Boston Art Club, the Boston Rotary Club, the Brae Burn Country Club, Dalhousie Lodge of Masons, Newton Royal Arch Chapter and Gethsemane Commandery, Knights Templar.

He is survived by his widow, two

"OLDE FOLKS CONCERT"

The Newton Centre Woman's Club House was filled to overflowing on Wednesday evening to hear "Ye Olde Folks Concert," given under the auspices of the Woman's Benevolent Society of the First Church, Mr. C. Peter Clark, chairman.

Great enthusiasm was shown as the various members made their way through the audience to the platform. In their old fashioned costumes with their soft colors, ruffles, combs, and powdered wigs they looked like an old fashioned flower garden.

Squire Cannell guided the singers in their rendering of the old fashioned favorites, the orchestra under the leadership of Mr. John Metz, added much to the effect.

An especially enjoyable feature of the evening was the playing of the harp by Miss Mary Penelope Clark. In Part I Miss Clark was ably assisted by Mrs. Parmelee on the violin in the ever beautiful "Largo." In Part II Miss Clark gave a solo on the harp, which brought out the beauty of its tones. Other enjoyable solos of Part I were those of Mrs. Wilder and Mrs. Bergeon, and the duet by Mrs. Perry and Mr. Hemenway. The acting of the latter added to the singing. Jedediah and his faithful spouse, Mr. Carl Weeden and Mrs. A. D. Lewis, caused a sensation by their dramatic entrance.

In Part II "When George III Was King," in which the leading part was taken by the men, was well received, and little Sylvia Riley and Dorothy Barton were charming in their minuet.

The familiar "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia" gained new meaning as rendered by Mrs. Ulmer on the cornet, accompanied by the orchestra.

Squire Cannell entered into the spirit of the old Scottish songs in his "Romance" and Mrs. Moser's "Songs My Mother Sang" added a note of seriousness.

The audience entered heartily into the singing of "Ye Worldly Songs" led by Mr. Pettengill, whose imitable manner literally "brought down the house."

The singing of the chorus was noteworthy throughout, and there were many costumes of historic, as well as artistic value. Mrs. E. A. Andrews looked beautiful in a gown of Dr. Andrews' grandmother, Mrs. Harold Giddings wore an effective red and yellow gown, a family heirloom, Mrs. Perry's light blue gown was also an heirloom. Little Margery Thompson, seven years old, looked adorable in a black gown with blue piping.

Daughters, Mrs. Kenneth Richie and Miss Barbara C. Lamson and one son, Mr. Jarvis Lamson, Jr.

Funeral services will be held at Grace Church, Newton, tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock.

ROTARY CLUB

The next meeting of the Newton Rotary Club will be ladies' night and

GLEE CLUB CONCERT

The thirty-eighth concert of the Highland Glee Club of Newton was given in Bray Hall, Newton Centre, Tuesday evening before a large audience. "Acce quam bonum" was sung before the entrance of the club upon the stage as is the custom.

From the opening note of the first number—a strong, virile "Daylight" to the closing words, "Hallelujah Eternally" of the final selection—Tannhauser, the club sustained the interest of the audience not only by the very well-chosen program but by the unqualified excellence of the work. The work of Tuesday evening was polished. Mr. MacLean has well interpreted the music and well trained the voices of the club for choral work and the success of Tuesday evening was a positive tribute to his able leadership.

The first number "Morning Song in War" was a clarion call. It was followed by a Dvorak song of the Slovaks—full of the pathos which is inseparable from their national music. The third number was a folk song of the Finns—sung by Mr. Alden Davis—the chorus supplying the background for the love incident by singing the refrain, "The gold sun was sinking beyond the hills of blue." Mr. Davis well rendered the simple theme which had for accompaniment the hum of the voices instead of the piano. The solo work by Mr. McLeod in the next number was ably interpreted. The rendition of "The Trumpeter" called for two solo parts, Messrs. Varner and Fairchild and a trumpet, Mr. Perry. The antiphonal effect was well carried out. In "Catria," "Roadways," and "Possession" there was noticeable the clear enunciation and the intelligent and sympathetic interpretation which is characteristic of the club's work. A spiritual "Travelin' to De Grave" and a musical onomatopoeia, "The Musical Trust" called forth encores. From these trifles the club swung splendidly into the Pilgrim's Chorus from Tannhauser, with two piano accompanists—the fitting finale. Messrs. Kyle and Boardman were competent accompanists.

The soloist of the evening was Mr. Alden Farnham, a sixteen year old violinist. He is of the Auer school of Technique and displays sure fingering, excellent phrasing, and a musical insight which belies his age. He met with ease the difficulties of Chaminade's "Serenade" and the perpetual motion of Francaeur's "Rigodon." The audience were especially gratified with the Spanish spirit of "La Gitana" and with the Arioso from Bach. The united message in Schumann's "Prophet Bird" was also heartily applauded. Mr. Farnham played as encore, Dvorak's "Songs My Mother Taught Me." The unaffected personality of the young violinist and the fullness and clarity of his tones recommended him to the Newton audience.

will take place next Monday evening at the Newton Club House. Mr. Charles H. Moss, of Malden, will be the speaker.

WINS HOCKEY CHAMPIONSHIP

Newton High School Defeats Huntingdon Academy for the Interscholastic Hockey Title of the United States and Canada

Newton High earned the interscholastic hockey championship of the United States and Canada last Friday night when it whipped Huntingdon Academy of Quebec, 7 to 3, at the Arena.

Capt. Roland O'Donnell of Newton High was the outstanding player. He scored four of the seven points, each of these being of the spectacular order. His dashes up and down the rink, dodging in and out and evading the outer and inner defenses proved a treat.

Guy Holbrook also played well. Winslow Howland at goal, Frank Spain, Frank Stubbs and Stone also contributed good work for Newton.

Throughout the first period the playing was fast and close. When it ended the teams were tied with one point each. The first point of the game came after 1m. 28. when Capt. O'Donnell came down from center ice counting by clever dodging and skillful stick work.

After the teams had been playing 7 minutes, 2 seconds, Fallow of Huntingdon broke away and tied the score. In the second period Newton High succeeded in scoring four more points.

The period had only been under way 35 seconds when O'Donnell made a dash from three-quarter ice and tucked the disk into the cage. Nine seconds later, Frank Stubbs of Newton, brother of Joe Stubbs, made a nifty snap shot from the right side of the rink and counted. Then 2m. 37s. later O'Donnell poked another clever shot into the cage. Newman of Huntingdon scored the second point of the game for his team on a clever bit of work. O'Donnell later intercepted a pass near midrink. Slipping by player after player he made a neat pass to Guy Holbrook, who drove the disk into the cage.

In the third and final period, Frank Spain was on his way to the cage and about to be covered by two visiting players when he passed to Holbrook. The latter drove the puck between two players for another point.

Capt. O'Donnell then brought the crowd to its feet, picking the disk up behind his own cage, showing speed, clever stick work and dodging ability. He managed to bring the rubber down to quarter ice and then packed a shot through a defense player, and the goal-tend.

THE MILK SUPPLY

The Health Division of the Newton Central Council will meet at 4 P. M., Tuesday, April 1, 1924, at 12 Austin street, Newtonville.

Mrs. William A. Bedford, chairman of the Public Health Committee of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs, will speak on the subject of "Newton's Milk Supply," and will present for discussion resolution designed to help in securing further safeguards for our milk supply.

A chairman and secretary of the Division will be elected for the coming year, by the delegates from the health agencies of the Council.

WHIST PARTY

The third of a series of five Whist Parties was held in Odd Fellows Hall, West Newton, on Wednesday, March 26. The prizes were distributed as follows:

Ladies—1st, Mrs. H. Hatt; 2nd, Mrs. W. Burnstall; 3rd, Mrs. F. A. Miller. Men's—1st, Mr. D. N. Chandler; 2nd, Mr. Wm. Fessenden; 3rd, Mr. W. L. Harris.

The prizes were distributed during the serving of refreshments. The whist was well attended, nineteen tables being in play. The lower scores in the series total made a big gain so the present high score for the Grand Prize is still far from being sure of "taking home the Bacon."

SCHOOL NOTES

Edited by DOROTHY DRAKE

Albert Angier School

The Angier fourth grade, Miss Holt's class, has formed a "Self Control Club." It is a club of children who are self-controlled. Charter members are Eleanor Stearns, Vincent Esterbrook, Mildred Keever, and Billy Durbin. This club says it pays to do well. They have already been invited to Miss Doran's room for a period in music appreciation.

Palmer Congdon, a member of the attendance committee in grade eight, is working hard to have his class win the attendance banner this week.

Alfred Brown, vice-president of grade eight, has made a courtesy chart for his class, and the members are trying to practice constantly all the rules. So far Donald Bliss heads the list.

The second grade children have enjoyed corresponding with Arthur Robbins, a member of the class who is in Florida at the present time.

The fifth and sixth grades are having a health contest. They can make either posters or books. All work is to be passed in by May first.

Monday morning, letters were awarded the boys in basket ball and hockey. Donald Houghton, the director, presided at the meeting.

Speeches were made by Donald Bliss, captain; Norman Lockwood, manager; and Raymond Ferris, captain-elect. Mr. Crowell, the Principal, spoke to the school. The boys receiving letters were: Donald Bliss, captain; Norman Lockwood, Lee Woolston, Arthur Chamberlain, Raymond Ferris, Floyd Robbins, Richard Robbins, Everett Walton, Dunbar Holmes, Raymond Kenney, Alfred Brown, and Ralph Phillips, in basketball, and in hockey: James Marsh, Norman Lockwood, Lee Woolston, Everett Walton, Donald Bliss, Alfred Brown, Raymond Ferris, Richard Robbins, Floyd Robbins, and Arthur Chamberlain.

The basket ball boys gave a party to coach Houghton, on Tuesday evening. Cake and punch were served. The coach was presented with several accessories for his car.

Lasell

Tuesday afternoon, Mr. Henry Oldys of Washington, gave a lecture on Birds and Bird songs, and on Wednesday morning he spoke again at the Chapel exercises. At both times he pleased his audience, and the stories of the habits of birds and their songs were delightful.

Tuesday evening, Mr. George S. Dunham, of the Lasell Music Staff, gave a short organ recital at the Centenary Methodist Church in Auburndale at their annual church gathering. The Lasell Mandolin Club also rendered several selections during the evening.

The pupils of the Woodland Park School gave a recital on Wednesday evening, the program consisting of members of the various Music Departments, and also chorus singing by the entire school.

Lasell Seminary and Woodland Park School close on Friday, March 28, for their Spring Recess. The pupils will return for the final term of the year on Tuesday, April 8.

Miss Lillie R. Potter, Preceptress at Lasell, leaves for Washington on Friday afternoon with a party of 12 girls.

The trip will include a stop in Philadelphia, and a very interesting program for the week spent in Washington. The party will return April 4.

F. A. Day Junior School

The concert given by the Boston Symphony Orchestra Club at the F. A. Day Junior High School Thursday, February 28, was so deeply appreciated by people from all parts of Newton that the school has been receiving constant requests since, for another such concert. In response, Mr. Carr is arranging another one of these educational musicals to be given on the afternoon of April 10 at 2.30.

The object of these concerts is to give to as many people as possible a better understanding of the different orchestral types of instruments in the orchestra and then have different members of the club illustrate the use of string, brass, wood, wind—whatever instrument he may choose. He then explains the role that each will take in the selections to follow. It's club is composed of seventeen members of the Boston Symphony—a number large enough to represent every type of instruments used in the full orchestra. Those who are unable to attend personally would be doing a public-spirited act in purchasing a ticket and presenting it to some boy or girl who would otherwise be unable to take advantage of this opportunity. The concerts are not children's concerts, but are of a nature that makes them enjoyable to people of all ages.

We have been honored this week by distinguished guests from Belgium—

Never has Lincoln Hall taken on a more festive appearance than it assumed on the two successive nights of last week, Friday and Saturday, when "The Rainbow Revue" was presented under the auspices of the Woman's Club. The entire seating capacity, both at the tables and in the balcony, was sold out long in advance of the dates set, and the audience represented guests from all the Newtons, Brookline, and surrounding suburbs.

Miss Marion H. Dorr, chairman of the Philanthropic Committee, managed the Committees, and furnished the "pép" which resulted in one great social and financial success. The "Revue," a musical extravaganza in two acts, and eight scenes was originated, staged and produced under the personal direction of Mr. C. Hassler Capron of Newton Centre, assisted by Mrs. Lawson W. Oakes and Mrs. Robert Bonner.

Mr. Capron is a recognized expert in the use of spot and flood lights, and obtained some wonderfully esthetic and dazzling effects, perhaps the one of the "moonlight fantasy" being the most artistic.

Miss Edna B. Manship introduced a group of little girls in several "Greek Episodes." So carefully trained were the little dancers that every new movement was an added delight, and a revelation of Miss Manship's successful teaching. The Program Book, produced under the management of Mrs. Wm. F. Coan, and her committee, containing sixty-eight pages of "Ads" has put together in a most business like manner, and with the artistic cover made an attractive souvenir.

During the short intermissions light refreshments and smokes were sold by a group of Club daughters under the supervision of Mrs. Charles W. Hawkes.

Mrs. Albert H. Norton acted as Head Usher, and Mr. Hamilton Oakes as Floor Marshal. The orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Louis V. Haffner, furnished excellent dance music for both evenings. The proceeds will add a goodly sum to the Community Buildings Fund, and the sincere appreciation of the Woman's Club is extended to each and every individual who helped in the production of "The Rainbow Revue."

NEWTON HOSPITAL

For week ending March 22:—Patients in hospital 115, paying patients 55, part paying patients 29, free patients (including babies) 31, patients treated by out patient department 145, accident cases 4, babies born 14, social service calls at hospital 7, at homes 7, patients transferred by social service car 37.

Eight young girls of Newton Centre, between the ages of eight and fifteen, have sent to the hospital for use for the benefit of some child, $20 which they earned by giving a play, holding a sale and printing and selling a paper, "Topsy Turvy." The young girls are the members of a club of which Gretchen Cook is president, Hannah L. Bond, vice president, Ethel de Mille, secretary, Elizabeth Lotz, treasurer and Carol Leatherbee, Dorothy Rising, Virginia Milner and Lucile Norton the members. The hospital was thankful to receive the money because of the good it will do for some child and because the spirit shown in earning the money and making the gift means that the younger generation takes an encouraging interest in a hospital that is maintained for the benefit of all the people of Newton and that should receive therefor the support of all the people of Newton.

A new class of ten entered the Nurses' Training School on the 25th.

The students at the training school through the kindness of two of the doctors of the staff attended the performance of the Newton Amateur Opera Company at West Newton and last Monday ten of the students went to the skating carnival at the Arena in Boston at the invitation of one of the trustees who also provided them with car fares to and from Boston.

The hospital never has too much old linen or old cotton nor too many volunteers at work making surgical dressings.

On Thursday morning at 8.15 at the Needham High School, Miss Allen, the superintendent, and two of the pupil nurses, Miss Margaret S. Gould and Miss Hilda M. Cox, presented the claims of nursing as a profession to the students of the three upper classes of the school.

Wednesday at the hospital the members of the hospital medical staff entertained at the hospital the Middlesex South Section of the Massachusetts Medical Society. From ten until one there was discussion of various medical problems and then a buffet lunch. There were present about one hundred doctors including representatives from Marlboro, Somerville, Brighton, Malden, Framingham, Natick and Brighton.

MISS ROWE ENGAGED

"Price Class"

the mysterious stranger in the motor industry

Does a difference in price indicate a difference in quality? Why is one car priced 25% to 50% higher than another of the same quality? The 4 questions that a buyer should ask when considering any car.

HERE are facts based on world's engineering authority. If you have any intention of buying an automobile, you are urged to read them.

No "Price Class"

There are only two kinds of automobiles today. Economically produced cars which give you more for your money. And cars which are not, and give you less.

Price does not indicate intrinsic worth. But an individual maker's cost of production.

Hence two cars may show a price difference of $400 to $1,200 and more. And be of the same quality.

The difference in price simply shows that it cost one maker more to make this car than the other. Judging value on price, this is folly. Price class is a myth.

Where the Difference Comes in Studebaker, producing 150,000 cars yearly, has reduced engineering cost to $3.33 per car.

This is based on a total engineering cost of $500,000 a year, which is the least on which any manufacturer can maintain an efficient engineering department.

Thus a manufacturer producing but 20,000 cars a year must add $25 per car for engineering, or eight times as much as Studebaker.

Other fixed overheads have been reduced proportionately. And these influence Studebaker prices.

A set of body dies costs $100,000. It will produce many thousand sets of body stampings, each one as perfect as though there were only a dozen made.

By building 50,000 bodies from a single set of dies, Studebaker reduces the die cost per body to only $2.00.

The average small manufacturer whose volume will enable him to build only 5,000 bodies from a set of dies in the same time in which Studebaker builds 50,000 has to charge each body $20 for die cost. The difference of $18 is in the price but not in the body. The small manufacturer gets nothing tangible for it. It is one of the penalties of uneconomical manufacture.

Thus a car priced at $1,200 to $1,400 can be sold as low as $1045 when produced economically in quantity.

Why Studebaker excels the world in body building

For 72 years Studebaker has been a builder of quality vehicles.

This historical tradition has been inbred in generation after generation of coach-makers. And the Indiana city of South Bend is known as a world-Mecca of artisans of this craft.

In the modern $10,000,000 Studebaker body plants, there are sons and fathers and grandfathers working side by side. Their religion is fine coach building. And this is reflected in their work.

As fine body builders, Studebaker stands supreme. No other maker has the experience of Studebaker. No other the Studebaker traditions to inspire him.

Such a car is the Studebaker Light-Six Touring Car, at $1045. A clear difference of between $155 to $355.

The uneconomical manufacturer is not profiting. He is unfortunately situated, that is all.

Equalled Only by Costliest Foreign and American Makes

All Studebaker models are equipped with Timken bearings. There are few cars in America, regardless of price, which equal ours on this point. In our Light-Six, for instance, we put more Timken bear-

We subject Studebaker cars to 30,000 inspections. That requires 1,200 men. All told over 70,000 hand and machine operations are performed in the manufacture of a Studebaker car. In so many operations, though each one is small, there is great opportunity for economy and savings. 15% premium is paid on many steels to insure Studebaker specifications instead of "commercial run" used in cars many times Studebaker price.

No finer car can be built than the Studebaker of today. Only famous foreign cars and the most costly of American cars, compare.

See a Studebaker—Then Decide

Buy no car until you've seen a Studebaker. Go over it, point for point. Consult any unbiased expert. Ask your banker. And you will own a Studebaker.

Get an Answer to These 4 Questions Before Buying Any Car

1—Is this an assembled car? Or "partly" assembled. Insist on this answer. Assembled cars pay a profit from $75 to 100 parts makers alone.

2—What sort of bearings? Studebakers are Timken-equipped. Everlasting smoothness and quiet performance result.

3—How many cars a year does this maker produce? Small productions mean either a higher price or cheaper car.

4—What sort of upholstery? Studebaker closed models are done in Chase Mohair, the finest material for this purpose known. Open models are upholstered in genuine leather.

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

Leverett D. G. Bentley

"There were 89 births reported during the month of February. It is difficult for the department to keep an accurate record of births because of the neglect of some physicians to make returns until several months have elapsed."—News Item from the Newton Board of Health.

O, Doctor, when a baby's born, Why can't the wide world know? Although so small he counts for one, And thus will Newton grow.

Statistics now are all the rage. They prove that we progress, While accuracy in everything Is better than a guess.

O, Doctor, you're a busy man, You help both sick and poor, But don't forget that baby's here To make the birthrate more.

You shouldn't wait to spread the news, It makes the town look small; No knowing what the score would be If we could count them all.

O, Doctor, you're a careful man, You don't tell all you hear And must keep some things to yourself.

But not of baby dear! There's no use holding back that fact, Now let me tell you why— The deaf alone don't know he's here, The rest have heard him cry.

Occasionally we see some youngsters with marbles in their hands. Unfortunately we have not had an opportunity thus far to investigate fully the rules of the game as played today. Casual glances where contests appeared in progress convinced us that there must be a new set of rules in operation. This gentle rolling of marbles along the ground for the purpose of making them land in a hole seems to us tame compared to the system of our own marble-playing days. The skilled performer we used to admire, envy and fear was he who could take a "glassie" between his thumb and forefinger and snap it on its way until it knocked the object of attack. Unerring aim was the secret of success, and one of the accomplishments we sought in vain to attain.

Then there was the competition of shooting at a large glass agate for possession. The more expert the boy who tossed "commies" the greater the handicap imposed on him. "You'll have to stand farther back than the other kids," he was always told. As we recall, it was fully as essential to have a nice, smooth plot of ground on which the circle could be traced and within which some of the "fine work" was done. Another thing we recall was a marble bag. Some of these bags were of cambric and others of heavier material. But not all the good players carried marble bags. Some "champions" used only their pockets in which to store their winnings. Although there wasn't anything brutal about the sport, it could be made the cause of a red-hot scrap if some hot-tempered youths got into dispute over a close decision. The slickest performers we remember were those who were intent on making a clean-up on their way to and from school. Until it became known they were too fast to compete with, these fellows would manage to take away, without force, about all the other kids had. They would "get around" some other boy with a well-filled bag of big and little "glassies," persuade him to enter a game and proceed to gather in all they could. We wonder sometimes if those same hustlers are doing the same thing now that they have grown up.

We also recall rare instances where a victim would complain to his teacher or to his parents that he had been "skunked." We wonder now if these same fellows are whining now at their luck on the golf links, or if they are good sports, and take a licking without a whimper.

We are patiently waiting for some friend of humanity who has no hope for reward, but who will inform us as to how to read a newspaper in a train or street car when the other half of the double seat is occupied by a sour-looking stranger. If somebody will come forward with an explanation as to how one may turn the pages of his favorite morning or evening sheet without jabbing the other person in the eye or chest, and at the same time avoid knocking-off the hat of the person in the seat ahead—well, here is a chance for a resourceful man or woman to do something for the rest of the human race. Perhaps we are too considerate of our fellows. Maybe we would get along just as well as if we didn't pay the slightest attention to what happened when we unfolded the paper. We can take oath to the fact that some people have no thought of the person sitting alongside them or in front. We know of men who are bound to read their newspapers regardless. More than once we have had our hat tipped over our nose by a sudden jolt from back of us. It was done by a busy reader hastily seeking to find the page to which the article before him has been continued. If you turn around and hand him a sassy look, he may subside. Not very often does it work that way, however. People who are determined to read while standing in the aisle have no compunction in hitting the hat of the woman or man lucky enough to have obtained a seat. This class, we are sure, would not appreciate any suggestion as to how a newspaper may be read in a moving car in comfort to oneself and without discomfort to one's neighbors. So, after all, we don't really care whether somebody does come forward with a solution of the problem, because many of the human race don't want to be helped.

It is about this time of year that the office gardener is busiest. If you happen to drop in on him for a chat you will find him bubbling over with plans for the Spring, and ultimately the Summer and Fall. This year he is going to have a garden. It is going to be a real garden, too. It is going to take him outdoors a great deal more; it will please his wife to have him around the house more and away from the country club, and will supply the dining table with fresh vegetables. There could be sweeter in prospect? That is the way the office gardener is mentally laying-out his backyard farm. It will be a wonder—if it materializes. On his desk you will find several seed catalogues; periodicals that deal with raising produce in a small way, and one or two books he has obtained at the free library. He may even read some of the pamphlets distributed by the State Commission on Agriculture. That is his firm intention, and everybody knows that good intentions make an ideal pavement for a certain region which we are forbidden to advertise in this column. The office gardener is counting on daylight-saving to assist him in a large measure. He will have more inducement to get up when he sees the clock is one hour ahead of itself. And then, after he gets home in the afternoon—why look at the chance he will have before it gets dark! Now, this man isn't going to attempt too much at first. He is going to plant beans, because they are easy to cultivate; then he will want to make sure there is a good mess of peas for the Fourth of July dinner. Of course a dozen or two tomato plants—why not?—and radishes planted week by week so they'll be available all Summer long. Potatoes, yes, of course, they will keep all winter, won't they? And squash and cucumbers—they don't have to be sweeded much and several rows of corn, with a few beets and some parsley. All very simple when one gives a little time and thought to it. Such a garden promises much—in the office. And we might add that we ourselves have seen some wonderful gardens produced under such circumstances with no implements except a well-oiled imagination.

More in the interest of accuracy than as a matter of political news we hasten to correct a popular misunderstanding and to inform our readers that it is Executive Council John A. White of North Brookfield, and not Alderman Thomas W. White of this city who has announced himself a candidate for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant Governor. We feel that it will be a great disappointment to many, especially Newton city employees of all grades and members of the School Board. These people, we are confident, would rejoice to see "Tom" White a candidate just for the splendid opportunity it would give them to support his opponent. Canny "Tom" isn't getting into a vulnerable position if he knows himself.

A friend of ours living in another city, after reading that Newton political leaders and others seek repeal of our city's "preferential voting" act, said, "Seems to me you folks are not very fussy or choosy." Our answer to that was, "Maybe we don't have a chance to show our feelings."

We are against "the nation-wide crowd shooting contest." The crowds never did anything against us and never did anything for us, and we are not interested in helping the sale of firearms and explosives. If there are those who must have something to slaughter, let them start on themselves and draw lots to determine the order in which each shall offer himself as a target.

There is less anxiety in the eyes of the householder as he views the contents of the coal bin. When he observes, "It can't last much longer," he now refers to the winter weather and not the coal pile.

without jabbing the other person in the eye or chest, and at the same time avoid knocking-off the hat of the person in the seat ahead—well, here is a chance for a resourceful man or woman to do something for the rest of the human race. Perhaps we are too considerate of our fellows. Maybe we would get along just as well as if we didn't pay the slightest attention to what happened when we unfolded the paper. We can take oath to the fact that some people have no thought of the person sitting alongside them or in front. We know of men who are bound to read their newspapers regardless. More than once we have had our hat tipped over our nose by a sudden jolt from back of us. It was done by a busy reader hastily seeking to find the page to which the article before him has been continued. If you turn around and hand him a sassy look, he may subside. Not very often does it work that way, however. People who are determined to read while standing in the aisle have no compunction in hitting the hat of the woman or man lucky enough to have obtained a seat. This class, we are sure, would not appreciate any suggestion as to how a newspaper may be read in a moving car in comfort to oneself and without discomfort to one's neighbors. So, after all, we don't really care whether somebody does come forward with a solution of the problem, because many of the human race don't want to be helped.

It is about this time of year that the office gardener is busiest. If you happen to drop in on him for a chat you will find him bubbling over with plans for the Spring, and ultimately the Summer and Fall. This year he is going to have a garden. It is going to be a real garden, too. It is going to take him outdoors a great deal more; it will please his wife to have him around the house more and away from the country club, and will supply the dining table with fresh vegetables. There could be sweeter in prospect? That is the way the office gardener is mentally laying-out his backyard farm. It will be a wonder—if it materializes. NEWTON CHORAL SOCIETY

It was reported at last week's rehearsal of the society that 25 new associate members had been secured as a result of the effort to finance the concert to be given April 24. This concert will be especially expensive on account of the engagement of the Boston Festival Orchestra to furnish the accompaniments. The effort is now being made to secure 25 more additional associate members. Mr. Bates announced that he had been able to secure one new associate member each week for several weeks, and it is hoped that others will make an equal effort.

The society's rehearsals are continuing each Tuesday night at Central Church with great enthusiasm. The music of "Hiawatha's Departure" on which the society is working, is proving exceedingly interesting on account of the flowing melody and rich harmony of the score, and the skill with which its great composer, Mr. Coleridge-Taylor, has made the music express the thought of Longfellow's beautiful poem.

CHILD DROWNED

The body of Alvira Fasano, 5, of 58 Prince street, Boston, was found Monday morning in a swamp, where she had broken through the thin ice. Searching parties had been seeking her for hours, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Fasano, having become alarmed when she did not return to the house of Joseph Venuto, of 133 Pine street, West Newton, where they were visiting.

A little cart with which the child had been playing was found on the ice in the swamp and about 7 o'clock the place where she had broken through the ice was discovered and the body was recovered.

WEBBER-GUION

Much local interest was felt in the wedding on Wednesday of Miss Adelaide Guion, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy P. Guion of Oakleigh road, Newton, and Mr. Eaton Webber of Cleveland, Ohio, formerly of Newton. The wedding took place at Grace Church, Newton, Rev. Laurens MacLure officiating. The wedding march was played by Mr. Charles G. Wilson. Miss Helen Parker of Mifflin, Pennsylvania was the bride's only attendant, and Mr. Robert Cunningham of Newton the attendant of the groom.

The bride wore a gown of blue Canton crepe trimmed with eury lace with hat to match, and carried roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore gray crepe and carried lavender and pink sweet peas.

An informal reception was held in the parlors of Grace Church following the ceremony. The decorations were yellow daffodils and maidenhair ferns. After a trip to Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Webber will make their home in Cleveland, Ohio.

The bride is a graduate of Smith College, class of '22, and the groom of Massachusetts Institute of Technology class of '19.

PRESIDENT ALLEN HERE

Hon. Frank G. Allen, president of the Massachusetts senate, was the chief guest and speaker last Monday evening at the Legislative night of the Good Government Club, held in the Auburndale club house.

President Allen gave an interesting talk on state finances, predicting the abolition of all state debt within the next decade, and defending the present policy of "pay-as-you-go." He strongly opposed the present tendency towards Federal Aid, pointing out that Massachusetts would pay out $4 for every $1 received.

Other speakers are State Senator Abbott B. Rice and Representative Leverett Saltonstall.

There was a little discussion on the bill to repeal preferential voting, and a hand vote showed 49 in favor of repeal to 23 opposed.

President E. J. Winslow was in charge.

Catching up with a Vision—

Watch this community of ours!

Ten years ago the men in the Edison Light whose business it is to see beyond the horizon of today into tomorrow, had a vision.

Like most practical visions, it was regarded as visionary. Some even ventured to call it preposterous.

"How can Boston possibly need 500,000 new horsepower, ten new turbines, and a generating station to cost millions of dollars" they asked, "when Boston doesn't even use all the electricity Edison Light can make now? And what's more, why build at Weymouth?"

The vision was translated into blueprints. On the margins men wrote notes of new means of producing electricity, new machines, new economies in building which struck some of the critics as alarmingly new-fangled.

That was in 1913.

WATCH Weymouth Station rise; it is one measure of the growth of Greater Boston. A city like ours never quite overtakes its visions.

The Newton High School gains additional distinction by winning the interscholastic hockey championship of the United States and Canada. If the High School had a suitable gymnasium it might win other athletic laurels.

It ought not to take much study to show that the Classical High School should have additional accommodations. Why spend $2500 to point out a situation already obviously overcrowded?

The preferential voting system in this city was condemned last Monday night at a public meeting in Auburn. It was a vote of 48 to 23. "Enuf sed."

UNDER THE GILDED DOME

The adverse reports of the Public Health Committee on vaccination were accepted this week without a word of debate. The committee had petitions before it to extend compulsory vaccination to private schools as well as to abolish vaccination altogether and gave leave to withdraw on both.

The Senate revived the matter of jury service for women this week, and defeated an amendment to provide an optional method for such service. The Senate, it will be recalled, defeated a compulsory measure on the same lines last week, consequently the work of the recess committee of last year goes for naught.

Boston's city charter has the front stage this week with lengthy hearings held by the committee on Cities. It is one of the most important matters before the Legislature this year and promises to be hotly debated in both branches, whatever report the committee may make.

There are rumors that the much discussed matter of segregation and classification of prisoners will be compromised in the near future, conferences to that end having been under way for the past week. This is the matter on which some 2000 voters of Newton signed an initiative petition last summer and fall.

FAREWELL PARTY

A farewell party was given to Mrs. R. J. Duly by the Mothers' Club of Grace Church at the home of Mrs. Walter Forbush, 195 Church street, Wednesday afternoon. Earlier in the day Mrs. Duly was called to the phone and asked by Mrs. Forbush to spend the afternoon with her and her mother, and on arriving, found all the mothers waiting. During the afternoon, Mrs. Forbush, president of the club, presented Mrs. Duly a solid gold thimble in behalf of the Mothers' Club.

Those present were: Mrs. Walter Forbush, Mrs. C. Forbush, Mrs. H. Harper, Mrs. Allen, Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Cotesworth, Mrs. Deacons, Mrs. Fester, Mrs. Seward, Mrs. Layman, Mrs. Rodway, Mrs. Hobart, Mrs. Hopwood, Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Noonan, Mrs. Wittens, Mrs. Levander, Mrs. Williamson, and Mr. William Banks, section of Grace Church. Refreshments were served by Mrs. C. Forbush, Mrs. Wittens, and Mrs. Anderson. Piano selections were given by Miss Eleanor Anderson, which were enjoyed by all.

The Civic Club of Newton has arranged for its annual meeting next week, Friday, at the Brae Burn Club, and has been able to secure Congressman Robert Luce to speak on the interesting subject, "The Crisis in Congress."

Y. W. C. A.

A very delightful costume dance was held at the Y. W. C. A. rooms last Saturday night. The first lady's prize was taken by Miss Harriet Hudson, who wore a rich Chinese costume, complete in every detail, including the glossy black locks and the elaborate coiffure. The gentleman's prize was awarded to Mr. Robert Boothby as the "Rube." Many other beautiful costumes were shown, including the Spanish Gypsy costume of Muriel Anderson, the Swedish costume worn by Isabel Roothby, the butterfly costume by Doris Mason, and a kiddy costume worn by Doris Stormont. All members of the Association are eligible to attend these dances, which are given twice monthly. Non-members may obtain invitations through the office at the request of members.

The Board and Committee members of the Y. W. C. A., are planning to hold a rummage sale during the second week of April, the proceeds of which will be sent to Japan, to assist in the work of the Y. W. C. A. there. The Blue Triangle Club has elected Miss Alta Blakely to serve as chairman of the Club. The following committees have also been formed: Finance Committee, Miss Ruth Benyon, chairman; Membership Committee, Miss Helen Nagle, chairman; Service Committee, Miss Hazel Beckwith, chairman; Dramatic Committee, Miss Emily Bown, chairman. A one-act comedy is now in preparation for presentation at the annual membership meeting of the Association to be held the latter part of April.

The following girls have been initiated into the High School Girl Reserves: The Misses Edith Craig, Helen Gentzel, Muriel Anderson, Gertrude Bailey. Helen Gentzel has been elected Vice President of the Club, and Evelyn Reed, Treasurer.

GIRL SCOUTS

"Converting Mrs. Noshuns" a very clever Girl Scout play, was given on Tuesday evening this week, by the Upper Falls Scouts—Troop 7. From the beginning of the play, when Mrs. Noshuns refused to let her daughter join the Scouts, to the end, when she asked the Captain to let her daughter join the Troop and learn all the useful things she had seen the Scouts do, the interest of the audience never lagged. The girls did their parts splendidly, and the large audience was most enthusiastic. Dancing and songs and solos on the piano were featured between the acts. Members of the Newton Girl Scout Bugle and Drum Corps played before the play began, and candy was sold to add to the fund the Troop is raising.

The Girl Scout National Conference will be held in Chicago this year—April 28, through May 2. The Newton Council will have three delegates at these meetings. Mrs. Frank A. Day, Commissioner for Newton, Mrs. C. D. Meserve, Secretary, and Miss Caroline L. Freeman, the Local Director, Mrs. Loring Marshall will also attend the conference, which promises to be a most interesting one. Mrs. Juliette Low, founder and first president of the Girl Scouts of America, will be one of the speakers. Mrs. Herbert Hoover, president, and Mrs. Jane Deeper Rippen, National Director, will also speak. Others from Massachusetts will be Mrs. James A. Storow and Miss Sarah Louise Arnold.

POLICE COURT

In the Newton Police Court yesterday morning, Sergeant Harry Weeks of Wellesley, of the Corps of Intelligence Police, with headquarters at the Army Base, South Boston, was fined $10 for operating an automobile at an excessive rate of speed on Beacon St., Newton Centre. He was complained of by special officer Stanwood Miller of Waban. Sergeant Weeks was defended by attorney F. B. Hawley. He appealed. Judge Weston first placed the case on file, but Sergeant Weeks asked for either a finding of not guilty or a fine, and Judge Weeks imposed the fine.

According to Sergeant Weeks' story, he was driving along Beacon street, on the way to Boston, when Miller passed him in his car and, cutting in front of him, collided with Weeks' car. Sergeant Weeks testified that Miller showed his special badge, which bore no number, and refused to either show his own license or registration, or make known his identity. He asked Miller to either get a doctor, or tell him where one could be found, as Weeks' mother complained of an injury to her back as a result of the bump when Weeks alleges, Miller ran into him. He asked for two complaints, one charging Miller with going away after causing injury to person and property without making known his identity, and the other with operating so as to endanger the lives and safety of the public.

When asked how he knew the special officer's name was Miller, Sergeant Weeks answered that he took the number of the car and looked up the owner at Mr. Goodwin's office, where he also filed a complaint against Miller.

Miller testified that Weeks was speeding, that he chased him, took his license and registration and swore out the complaint, denying an accident and Sergeant Weeks' other charges.

After court this morning, Sergeant Weeks, petitioning Discretionary Attorney K. Reading to place the matter before the Middlesex Grand Jury and secure two indictments against Miller. Sergeant Weeks also has sent a letter to the Newton Board of Aldermen, charging Miller with conduct unbecoming an officer, in refusing to make known his identity and neglect of duty, in refusing to send for a doctor, or help get one for Mrs. Weeks. The charges will be brought before the Newton Board of Aldermen.

N. C. SCHOOL ASSOCIATION

At the invitation of the Newton Centre School Association, between 30 and 40 women met at the Rice School Kindergarten, on March 26, to listen to an address by Miss Elliot, Principal of the Ruggles street Nursery School. Those attending were particularly women who are interested in the pre-school child, the child from two to four years of age, who is too young for school. The possibility of forming a study circle for mothers of these children, has been discussed in the Association, and with this possibility in mind, the meeting was arranged. Miss Elliot told of the importance of the first four years of life. At four, a child knows a great deal—he has learned by living, and without effort. He brings a direct inheritance at birth, but more is learned from his contact with the world. A child is not born "happy" or "grouchy," but these characteristics are formed in his early years. Those who study the problem of the pre-school child find that habits formed in the earliest years are the most difficult to change. She placed great emphasis on character building. She advised that the child's questions should be answered, that he use one thing at a time and put it away after using. Some of her suggestions for the development of character were: to give a child a chance to grow up, not to hold him back and try to keep him young; to let him do things for himself, for example, to feed himself; to have some regular tasks; and to teach himself control. A little child needs occupation all the time, and if he is not doing something good, he will be busy at something bad. The young child needs to see beautiful things. He must learn to handle things carefully and skillfully. He must be taught early to control his emotions, and so should not have too much sympathy shown over small hurts. Young men and women need social contacts. Problems of feeding were also considered, and Miss Elliot illustrated her points with stories of her own experiences. The talk was followed by a period of questions and discussion, when many individual cases were presented by the mothers. Those who attended the meeting showed a marked interest and felt that much had been gained from Miss Elliot's talk and advice.

Mutual Service

THE word "mutual" applied to this bank means just what it implies. You and your fellow depositors alone share in the earnings, there are no shareholders to demand profits.

In the strict sense of the word then this bank is a mutual affair at work solely in your interest, to provide a neighborly service, a safe profitable place for your savings first, then to earn for you as high a profit sharing (or interest) rate as is possible.

Massachusetts laws at all times regulate its banking practices, and frequent State examinations give further assurances of safety.

As a "mutual" bank, then, this is a safe, profitable place for your savings.

COMMUNITY CLUB DRAMATICS

A piece of friendly co-operation on the part of one club for another was evidenced yesterday afternoon, when the cast of a play in preparation for the Waltham Woman's Club for this evening, kindly came to the aid of the Newton Community Club, by presenting its play, "The Crimson Cocoon," when through a misunderstanding one of the plays announced for yesterday afternoon was not forthcoming.

The first on the program was "A Happy Day," a comedy in one act by Octavia Roberts, and as presented by the Channing Players, nearly all of whom are members of the Community Club, went off very smoothly and with spirit. Each part was so very well done that each merits special mention, from the distraught mother, E. M. Moore, from the distraught mother, Mrs. E. M. Moore, in the throes of preparations for her daughter's wedding, to Polly Tatlock, Mrs. Chas. E. Rees, the cousin who has not been asked to be of the bridal party, who said nothing, but merely looked on and acted. Miss Lena L. Nixon, as the bride-to-be, was charming and girlish, as was her friend, Anna Rutledge, Miss Dorothy Gifford, Mrs. Sidney Ensign as Kitty Fern, the seamstress, portrayed to perfection the simple minded woman incapable of keeping a secret. Mrs. Blakemore, as the reporter, artfully extracts her desired news from unwilling victims, while Mrs. Daniel Pratt as Mrs. Tatlock, the cousin's mother, rose mightily in her wrath at the sight of her daughter.

The stage setting for Spaghetti's Restaurant in "The Crimson Cocoon" was realistic enough to take one's appetite away with its ragged, crumpled table cloths, dilapidated castors and other table furnishings. In this, also, the parts were very well taken and showed careful training. Miss Alice P. Childs, as Robert, the waiter, left little to be desired in the mastery of the cockney English, and love making with the cook through the speaking tube.

Mr. C. A. Drummond coached the first play, and Mr. Hoyt Conary that given by the Waltham women. Miss Mary Broughton, violin, Miss Virginia Farmer, cello, and Miss Florence Walsh, piano, furnished music, playing Ballet Egyptian by Lugini for the overture, and three numbers in the interim between the plays. The afternoon was greatly enjoyed and the plays enthusiastically received by an audience that filled Hunnewell Club hall.

—A good deal of interest is being manifested in the coming Methodist Conference, to be held in Lynn next Wednesday. The official delegates are Mr. Walter Chesley and Mr. Frank Lord.

—Friday evening, a number of the young ladies of the Methodist Church will attend the annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid societies in Reading. Mrs. J. Shaw of Waban is chairman of the Luncheon Committee, and Mrs. Palladio is also on the program.

—Last Saturday evening a number of young people attended a reception at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Hodgdon on Thurston road, the occasion being in honor of their daughter, Miss Dorothy. Her friends presented her with a potted plant as a token of esteem, and a very enjoyable evening was reported.

STONE INSTITUTE

Seventy-five members of the West Newton Woman's Club visited the Stone Institute on Wednesday, and furnished the entertainment. The chorus, with Mrs. Virginia W. Birgfeld as soloist, sang, and others, members of the club, furnished other selections. Miss S. Elizabeth Lewis read a number of selections. Refreshments concluded the afternoon.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

MISS GRACE M. BURT, Editor

Once more the New Ocean House at Swampscott will be the place of the annual convention of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs. At the mid-winter meeting in Boston, Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, the president, stated that many reservations had already been made, and urged those planning to attend to secure theirs immediately, if they did not wish to be disappointed. She also said that it had been hoped to go to Springfield this year, but a Methodist convention, lasting most of the month, was leaving no room for club women. The dates this year are May 14, 15 and 16, the first session opening at 2.30 P. M., on the 14th. The call for the meeting is released this week, together with the report of the Nominating committee, which is as follows: President, Mrs. Frederick Glazier Smith, Fortian Club, Somerville; Vice-Presidents, 1st, Mrs. Joseph S. Leach, Walpole Woman's Club; 2nd, Mrs. Arthur D. Potter, Greenfield Woman's Club; 3rd, Mrs. Clarence W. Clark, Old and New, Malden; 4th, Mrs. A. A. Packard, Hampden County Women's Club; Clerk, Mrs. S. Ernest Griffin, Winthrop Woman's Club; Assistant Clerk, Mrs. Frederic E. Dowling, Brighton-Allston Civil Council; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. A. Club House for Republican Women
It is proposed by the Women's Republican Club to purchase the Robert Jordan house, 46 Beacon street, Boston, as a club house. An option has been secured, and already quite a sum has been pledged toward the purchase. The house is well located and especially well adapted for a club house, having ample accommodations for members to stay over night, besides a large assembly hall, large and small dining rooms, and other rooms suitable for meetings.

Enthusiasm mounts as details of the festivities for the Birthday Party to celebrate the fortieth anniversary of the Newtonville Woman's Club on next Tuesday afternoon, near completion.
Mrs. Ralph Conant and the social group, Mrs. J. M. Allen, Mrs. J. D. Bennett, Mrs. H. D. Billings,
Mrs. H. S. Bloomfield, Mrs. E. T.
Campbell, Mrs. Pitt Drew, Mrs. A. P.

Hunt, Mrs. R. G. Hunt, Mrs. L. B.
Hunter, Mrs. R. D. Hunter, Mrs. A. J.
MacDonald, Mrs. Donald Rust and Mrs. Fred Rust, have perfected plans for the luncheon, one feature of which will be four birthday cakes, each bearing ten lighted candles. A history of the club, edited by Mrs.
Irving O. Palmer, Mrs. Wallace Boyden, Mrs. Harry Abot, and Mrs. Gorham Harris will be presented in a most original manner. A double quartette made up of members from the glee club will sing a group of songs.
Beside these major features many special numbers provocative of merriment are promised, and the fortieth anniversary celebration will undoubtedly prove a memorable event. Before and after the luncheon, tickets for the theatre party on April 10, for the benefit of Florence Crittenton League, Newton Circle, will be on sale. On April 3, the volunteer service group will meet with Mrs. R. E. Hills, 949
Washington street, to work on afghans

The usual monthly business meeting of the Social Science Club will take place on Wednesday, April 2, at 10 A. M. At the close of this meeting,
Mrs. Grosvenor Calkins will present

der the auspices of the West Newton

ceeds to go to the Children's Hospital. Mrs. Brackett, West Newton 1457-
M, and Mrs. Joseph A. McDonald, West Newton 4616, are in charge of the tickets.

The annual meeting and luncheon of the Community Service Club of West Newton will be held on Wednesday, April 2, at one o'clock, in the Parish house of the Unitarian Church.
At this meeting plans will be discussed for the Cabaret to be held at the Armory on May 10, for the benefit of the Memorial Library association and the philanthropic work of the club. The site for the library has already been secured, and the interest of the entire community is asked to help make this entertainment a success.

The Newton Community Club announces the last of the series of Current Events lectures by Miss Eunice Avery, to be given at the Hunnewell club on Thursday, April 3, at 2.30 P. M.

The Presidents' Day Musicals of the Waban Women's Club will be given on April 7th. Mrs. Herbert Stearns, chairman of the Music committee, has arranged a delightful program with the following artists: Mr. Henry Levine, pianist, Mr. Carl Webster, cellist, and Margery Moody, soprano soloist.
Refreshments will be served by the social committee, of which Mrs. Robert Fyfe is the chairman.

At its meeting on March 25th, the Auburndale Woman's Club had the privilege of listening to an illustrated lecture on "Theodore Roosevelt" by Rev. Bradley Gilman, classmate and life-long friend of the great American, and author of the book, "Roosevelt,
The Happy Warrior." Many personal touches made the former president's character most vivid, and the especial emphasis of the fundamental qualities of his great tenderness of heart, brought him all the closer to the respect and love of those listening. The club had as its special guest Mr. Frederick J. Ranlett, also a classmate and friend of Roosevelt and of Mr. Gilman.
Mr. Griffin, supervisor of music in our public schools gave, at the beginning of the program, an account of the work in his department in the different grades, and then, to the great delight of the audience, sang a group of three songs, with an encore. At the business meeting the nominating committee read the list of officers to be voted on at the annual meeting on April 22nd, and the club also voted various appropriations from its philanthropic fund.

A guest meeting of the Newton Social Science Club was held on Wednesday, March 26, when Dr. Douglas H. Thom, Director of the State Department of Mental Hygiene and the organizer of the Habit Clinics, conducted by the Community Health Association, gave an address on "Mental Pitfalls for the College Student." He considered the whole adolescent period between the ages of fourteen and twenty-two, which of course includes the college age, as a time when the individual must make many adjustments to life outside the protection of the family group, and stated that adolescence without stress or strain is too unusual to be called normal.
He cited certain typical cases, and suggested that the establishment of chairs of Mental Hygiene in colleges would be of great value. A course of lectures on the subject would probably settle fifty percent of the cases, and for others who required personal attention the trained psychologist would be at hand. Already Dartmouth, Princeton, and West Point have such chairs, and the results are hopeful, but as yet the whole movement is in its infancy.

of recreation and physical education and because he is the official director of the City's recreation program and is thoroughly conversant with local recreational needs and conditions,
6. The Committee believes that if the cost of an adequate high school and municipal gymnasium and swimming pool should be deemed too great to be borne by the municipality alone, then the appropriations from the public treasury might be supplemented by private subscriptions, in order to insure the construction of a plant which will adequately meet the needs of the high schools and the community at large.

7. The Committee recommends that the Community Division of the Newton Central Council should cooperate, in every way possible, with the Mayor,
the School Committee, the Board of Aldermen, and other interested organizations, in seeking to bring about such action as will help to gain for the high schools of the city the facilities for physical training which are so urgently needed.

Reports of progress were given by Mrs. Louis H. Marshall, Chairman of the Family and Child Welfare Survey Committee; and by Mrs. Bertrand E.
Taylor, for the Delinquency Survey Committee. Mrs. Charles G. Wether-bee, who was to have presented a similar report for the Health Survey Committee, of which she is chairman, was unable to be present.

The report of the Nominating Committee, presented by Mrs. Joseph N.
Lovell, was unanimously adopted, and the following persons were elected as officers, committee members, and delegates-at-large to the Council.

tral Church and a former President of the Council, addressed the Council on the subject "A Citizen of No Mean City." Mr. Lichliter pointed out the difference between a justifiable civic pride and an inert civic complacency.
Civic progress comes not through the repetition of stereotyped phrases such as "Newton is a beautiful city," but through honest self-criticism, through the straightforward facing of common problems, and through the determination to strive together for their solution.

The Newton Community Study is significant because it reveals a willingness on the part of Newton people and Newton organizations to face the issues that are involved in civic growth. Out of the Community Study there ought to emerge a social and civic program that will be of untold value in the development of a real city consciousness. Finally, when the time for discussion and deliberation is past, when by joint action the program is decided upon, then every organization of the city ought to stand solidly behind this program, echoing the words of the Japanese admiral, spoken as his country faced the war with Russia: "Out of a thousand conflicting opinions, one fixed resolve!"
Upon motion of Mr. Leon B. Rogers, the Council adopted a resolution giving a rising vote of thanks to Mr. Lichliter, "not only for the address of the evening, but also for his active interest in the Council from its earliest beginning and for the valuable contribution which he has rendered to it as President and as a member of its Executive Committee."

The report of the Executive Committee of the Council, summarizing the year's work and submitting certain recommendations for the future will be given in our next issue.

BOY SCOUTS

On Tuesday evening, March 18, the regular monthly meeting of the Executive Committee was held at the office of Commissioner W. B. Pratt. Among the subjects brought up for discussion was the incorporation of Norumbega Council, which everyone present favored. It was also suggested that the council move its headquarters to some other place, where it could have more room for scout activities. The present headquarters in the office of the Commissioner have been very good. However, the council has made very rapid progress during the past six months, and the plans for the future involve a more spacious headquarters. A special meeting at the home of Mr. James C. Irwin, President of the council, on Wednesday evening, March 26, was held to discuss these subjects further.

On Saturday morning, March 22, some scouts from Troop 4 put on the second of a series of demonstrations at the Community Theatre. These demonstrations are to give an outline of what scouts know and do. The next performance will be given by members of Troop 5 of Newton Centre, who will show the numerous ways of carrying injured people and also demonstrate how to tie various knots. Everyone is asked to follow these performances and learn more about scouting in Newton.

A Court of Honor will be held at the headquarters of Troop 5 in the Women's Club in Newton Centre on Monday evening, April 7th, at 7.30 P. M. Anyone interested is invited to attend.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY PARTY

Last week, Tuesday afternoon, the Women's Teachers' Club, comprising in its membership all women teachers from the Technical, Classical, Vocational and Junior High schools, held an all day party in the Classical High school library.

Two distinguished teachers, one Mrs. Edith E. Newcomb, a wonderful amateur dancer and shorthand instructor, and the other, Miss Virginia Mason, physical training instructor in the Junior High school, performed a number of classical Irish dances, and the applause and accolades they received nearly disintegrated the walls of the library. Miss Matthews, another teacher, sang a number of Irish songs, which were also well received by the audience.

Delicious refreshments were served, and the party was heartily enjoyed by all present. Although this celebration took the form of a regular Irish party, it was reported no "green" personages were present.

ST. JAMES THEATRE—The Laurette Taylor success, "Peg o' My Heart" which enjoyed wide popularity on stage and screen, will be the offering of the Boston Stock Company at the St. James next week. The play, a comedy of youth and love, is from the pen of J. Hartley Manners.

Miss Mason will appear as Peg, and Mr. Gilbert will take the part of Jerry; they will be supported by the other talented members of the company.

Y. M. C. A.

Major L. E. Moore, consulting engineer, gave a very interesting talk at the last meeting of the Fellowship Club on "Bridges." A large number were out to hear him. The speaker next Monday will be Rev. Benjamin T. Vincent.

About fifty employed boys from around Greater Boston held a conference at the Newton Y. M. C. A. last Saturday afternoon and evening. The conference was under the direction of Mr. George Merriam of the State Committee. The speaker in the afternoon was Mayor Childs and in the evening Mr. Allan C. Emery. Between the sessions basketball and athletics were enjoyed in the gymnasium. A bountiful supper was provided by the Woman's Auxiliary.

The Camp Committee held a meeting on Monday afternoon. It was voted to enlarge the kitchen, to appoint a membership in both the boys' and girls' department, and to put in first-class condition the fleet of seven canoes at the camp. DEATH OF MISS ESTHER F. WILDER

In the passing of Miss Esther F. Wilder, of Fairmont avenue, Newton has lost a Christian gentlewoman of the old school. Miss Wilder was born in Attleboro, Mass., a little more than ninety years ago, but her parents removed to Chelsea when she was quite a young child, and that place was her home for many years. In 1852 she attended Mount Holyoke Seminary, but ill-health prevented her from completing her course. The year there was just following the death of Mary Lyon while her spirit was still all-pervasive, a fact that made a deep and lasting impression upon the students of that day. Miss Wilder caught that spirit, and throughout her life she was deeply interested in Mount Holyoke and its generous benefactor.

During the Civil War her father was charged with the freedmen at Fortress Monroe, and Miss Wilder spent some time with him there, teaching in one of the schools for the negroes. General Armstrong later succeeded to her father's place, and Hampton Institute was the outcome. From her early connection with the place Miss Wilder always possessed an intense interest in the work accomplished by Hampton.

In 1889 she came to live in Newton. Very soon she joined the Newton Social Science Club, and was for a long time a member of its board of directors. For many years, until failing health and strength prevented, she actively missed the weekly meetings. She was a member of Eliot church, and all its interests were deeply hers also. The Walker Missionary Home at Auburndale is the richer for what she has done for it, not only in a material way, but for her wise counsel as well. In fact every form of missionary work, whether at home or abroad, had its strong appeal to her.

Miss Wilder possessed a keen mind, independent thought, a judicious judgment, and a generous heart, which prompted her to all sorts of kindly acts for the most part unrecorded.

Services were held in the family home on Fairmont avenue at noon on Tuesday. Rev. Richard C. Raines read the Scriptures, and Dr. Cornelius H. Patton paid the tribute, speaking on the meaning of life as drawn from the ninety years lived by Miss Wilder. Two of her favorite hymns were sung, "Father, What'er of Earthly Bliss," and "My Homeland, Oh, My Homeland."

Interment was in the family lot in Woodlawn Cemetery at Everett.

DEATH OF REV. MR. CROSBIE

Rev. Hadley M. Crosbie, a retired Congregational clergyman, and since 1917 living in Newton Centre, died last Friday at St. Petersburg, Fla., where he and his wife had been spending their winters for the past few seasons.

Mr. Crosbie was more identified with the Middle West. He was seventy-five years old, and born in Richmond, Ind. He was a graduate of Whittier College, a small educational institution at Salem, Ia., and later took a theological course at Union Seminary in Chicago. Thereafter for several years he held pastorate at Tamarack and Woodworth, Wis., and his health failing he gave up ministerial work and for a time turned his attention to insurance. Mr. Crosbie had a summer home at North Scituate.

The surviving members of Mr. Crosbie's family include his wife, who was Susan Hartley of Salem, Ia., and six sons, Maurice H. Crosbie of Peoria, Ill., Kingsley Crosbie of Gilson City, Ill., Laurence M. Crosbie, one of the faculty of Exeter Academy and who has lately published a history of that New Hampshire preparatory school; Paul P. Crosbie of Dummerst, N. J.; George H. Crosbie of Newton Centre, and Dr. Arthur H. Crosbie of 520 Commonwealth avenue, Boston.

Funeral services were held this morning at the residence of his son, Mr. George H. Crosbie on Lake avenue, Newton Centre.

You Are Paying For A Home Whether You Have It or Not

Let that fact sink in deep.

Every month that you pay rent you are paying three different items in your rent check.

1st. Taxes on the house you live in.

2nd. Interest on the investment in the house.

3rd. A profit to the landlords.

Apply the same amount each month on a home of your own and in a few years your home is paid for and you have something to show for your money.

Going still further, if you continue to pay rent all your life, say for thirty or forty years, you pay for two or three homes without ever owning them.

Does that appeal to you? Of course not. Put your money into a home where it works for you all the time and where it is absolutely safe and still easily available if necessary.

Let us tell you here at our office how you can start your rent money flowing into your own pocket instead of into the landlord's.
